M. C. S. Noble, in New York, Calls Bank Directors to Order by Phone

M. C. S. Noble has been president of the Bank of Chapel Hill about thirty years. In all that time he has missed only a few of the Tuesday night meetings of the board of directors, and in the last seven years not an absence has been chalked against him.

So, two weeks ago when he made known his intention to go to New York to visit his son, some of his friends asked: "But what about missing the board meeting?"

Mr. Noble knew the answer but he kept it to himself.

When the directors assembled around the big table at 7:30 on Tuesday evening of this week, the telephone rang. Cashier W. E. Thompson, responding, heard the words: "New York calling." And a moment later came the familiar voice of Mr. Noble: "Is everybody there? Are we ready to begin?"

Mr. Thompson said yes. The directors left their seats to crowd around the telephone, and the receiver was held so that all could hear.

"Gentlemen, we will now come to order," said Mr. Noble.

There followed a few more remarks in the president's best whimsical vein; he said good-bye; and the directors got down to business.

Miss Winston Engaged

The engagement of Miss Carolyn Winston to Roger Goiran, son of Henri Goiran, French minister to Mexico, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Henry Winston. The marriage will take place in early August, and the couple will make their home at Oyster Bay for the next year.

Henri Goiran is an officer of the Legion of Honor, and his wife writes under the pen name of Lucie Saint-Elme. The son was graduated from the law school of the University of Paris and from the School of Political Science of Paris.

Eventful Week-End in the Clevenger Home

Mr. Clevenger, of the University of Illinois, who is teaching in the Summer School here again this year, received a letter from Mrs. Clevenger telling of the stirring incidents at their home in the week-end of the Fourth of July.

A company of relatives came for a visit, whereupon the maid left. Mrs. Clevenger, undaunted, prepared a delicious chicken dinner for her guests. But at the last moment, when it was too late to change her menu, she remembered that it was Friday and some of her visitors did not partake of meat on that day. Other food was hastily assembled.

That afternoon a rocking chair was turned over, striking the bookcase, and smashing the double glass doors. The next day a small child of the family upset and broke a large living-room lamp.

To be especially careful on the Fourth, Mrs. Clevenger's brother-in-law went out with the children to supervise the shooting of their fireworks. A firecracker exploded in his hand, necessitating treatment by a doctor and the administering of anti-tetanus vaccine. As the car was backed out of the garage to go to the doctor's office, it ran into the lawn-mower, smashing it and cutting a hole in a tire.

The doctor came and went. The rest of the week-end—being the interval between injection-time and bed-time, was uneventful.

Strudwick to Be in Film Here

Shepperd Strudwick, who used to be with the Carolina Playmakers, will be seen in the movie play, "Fast Company," Tuesday at the Carolina theatre. The leading roles will be taken by Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice. "Fast Company" is described in the producer's announcement as "a fast-moving blend of romance, mystery, drama, and thrills."

Art Students to Hold Exhibit

An exhibit of work by the Summer Session art students will be on display Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in Person hall. On those three days the gallery will be open from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. and from 2 to 9 P. M. The usual closing time is 5 P. M.

Mrs. Charles Bartlett and her children, Beverly and Sonny, are at Carolina Beach.

Chapel Hill Chaff

When I met Irl Summerlin and J. S. Bennett on the street the other day I remarked upon what delightfully cool weather we had been having this summer. That was the day before the first hot wave came (a wave that turned out to be short). Mr. Summerlin looked glum. "Can't get any contracts for air-conditioning," he said. I turned to Mr. Bennett, hoping for a more cheerful response; but he, too, had a long face. "Can't sell any electric fans," he said. As Gus Harter, Shipp Sanders, Minor Gwynn, or J. P. Harland would put it, quod ali cibus est aliis fiat acre venenum. (Or, to you: what's one man's food is another man's poison).

Leon Russell, returning to Chapel Hill after an absence of four years, says the two things about the place that make him gladdest are (1) the trees to look at and (2) the black-eyed peas to eat.

His baby daughter Jacqueline, a little over a year old, has gone nigh mad with joy over the lawn in front of Grandfather Phillips Russell's house. All the yard she had in California was not what we call a yard at all, but a patio; a flooring of cement or stone, with palm trees or other stage-scenery vegetation. When she happened to fall down there, she got a severe bump. When she falls down here, it's fun. She is so ecstatic about the grass that she puts her face down in it and seems to want to set about eating not only the grass but even some of the soil underneath.

A friend of mine lost a quart of applejack this week by betting with a friend of his on whether or not the latter's child would be a boy or a girl. I happened to meet these two citizens soon after the question had been settled, it would have been hard to tell which was the winner and which the loser. They were going to share equally in the consumption of the booty, and both seemed happy.

Town Tax Rate Is Expected to Fall a Little; County Rate Is To Be Lifted by about 5 Cents

Moonshiners' Copper Given to Children For Handicrafts

Two gentle-mannered women from Chapel Hill drove up to the court house in Hillsboro one day last week. They entered the building and proceeded to the sheriff's office. One of them said to him:

"We are looking for a still."

When the sheriff had recovered from his surprise, he replied:

"I am too; do you know where there is one?"

They hastily assured him that what they meant to ask was: did he have an old one that he could give them? They needed copper for the handicraft class in the Recreation School.

The sheriff soon had their car loaded with sheets of copper from the large worm of a still recently captured. And now the children at the summer playground are hammering out objects of art.

A Schoolmen's Banquet

Educators Will Dine at Carolina Inn on Evening of July 15th

The University's first annual schoolmen's banquet will be held at 6:45 P. M. Monday at the Carolina Inn under the auspices of the education department.

Eligible for attendance are all teachers, principals, superintendents, and others interested in teaching as a career. Many North Carolina and out-of-the-state educational leaders will be guests. The charge will be $1 a plate, and the attendance will be limited to 250 persons.

The general chairman for the banquet is S. G. Chappell, principal of the Wilson high school. A committee to assist him is composed of Harl R. Douglass, Oliver K. Cornwell, Guy B. Phillips, W. T. Gruhm, and W. D. Payne.

Mrs. Privette Gazes Up at Son

Mrs. Privette was reading a letter from her son William saying that he was to make a flight to South Carolina and that on his way back to Norfolk he would fly over Chapel Hill at a certain hour Wednesday afternoon. She realized that the certain hour had come, and a minute or two later she heard a humming. She ran outdoors and gazed skyward. She saw three planes, so far up that they looked like specks. Her son was in one, Fred Prouty in another, and their commanding officer in another.

Capt. and Mrs. Fred Smith are visiting their son, Fred, Jr., in Wilmington.

Needs of County under Social Security Law Greater; Expenses for Schools Less

TOWN VALUATIONS ARE UP

The town tax rate, which was $1.65 last year, is expected to go down a little this year, maybe to $1.61. The county rate, which was 95 cents last year, will probably be $1. If these figures hold, the two rates—the total rate for a taxpayer resident in Chapel Hill—will be $2.61 this year as compared with $2.60 last year.

Total requirements of the town for the fiscal year just begun (1938-39) are estimated at $38,752. To be deducted from this figure is the estimated revenue, $18,885, leaving $19,867. An item of $1,986 has to be added under the law, for "uncollectibles," so that net requirements are $21,853.

This exceeds the net requirements last year, but the assessed valuations have gone up, so that the necessary money can be raised by a 4-cent lower rate. So it stands according to the tentative budget. It is still possible for the aldermen to make changes. An additional truck for the hauling of trash and garbage is urgently needed, and if the price of that is put in the budget the rate will have to be pushed up.

The county commissioners have had to raise the welfare fund from the $22,777 spent last year to $29,069 for this year, to comply with the provisions of the Social Security law, and this increase is partly responsible for the rise of 5 cents in the county tax rate. Another cause is the decline in the revenue from "intangibles" (bank balances, notes, and bonds). The state now collects the tax on that class of property and turns back part of (Continued on last page)

A Real Estate School

Real estate dealers from all over the state will come here for the University's real estate school July 26, 27, and 28. Authorities from this and other states will speak and lead discussions.

The school will be conducted under the auspices of the University's extension division in cooperation with the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards and the North Carolina Real Estate Commission. Anyone may attend, whether a realtor or not.
