Tulane to Bring Heavy Team to Meet Carolina

Beefy Linemen and Backs from New Orleans Will Give Tar Heels Hard Job Tomorrow

FULL STADIUM EXPECTED

The village is making ready for the thousands of people who will come here tomorrow for the Carolina-Tulane football game and the University's "Homecoming Day." The main street, the fraternity houses, and the dormitories are being gaily decorated. Restaurants and cafeterias are laying in extra supplies of food. The State Highway Patrol has promised to send some of its men to help the local officers with the great flood of traffic.

The kickoff will be at 2 o'clock in the Kenan stadium. The game promises to be a good one, and it is expected that the stadium will be filled to overflowing.

The forecasters give North Carolina a slight edge. The Tar Heels come up to this game with a 14 to 6 victory over Wake Forest and a 21 to 0 victory over State College. Tulane's score board shows a 13 to 10 defeat by Clemson and a scoreless tie with Auburn.

The University team played good, sound football last Saturday against State College and may show still better stuff tomorrow. The team's supporters are cheered by the report that George Stirnweiss, first-string quarterback, will probably play. (Stirnweiss has been in the hospital this fall with an ulcerated stomach.)

It is believed here that Tulane is stronger than it was last year, when the University defeated them, 13 to 0. Coach Bill Lange, who scouted the Clemson and Auburn games, said that the Tulane line was 50 per cent better in the Auburn game than it was in the opener with Clemson, and that Auburn never seriously threatened the Tulane goal line.

A. A. U. W. Meeting

Will Be Held Tuesday Afternoon in New Dormitory for Women

The first fall meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the new dormitory for graduate women. Tea will be served, and newcomers in Chapel Hill who are eligible for the A. A. U. W. are especially invited to attend.

The bridge tea given annually to raise money for a loan fund for women graduate students will be held Saturday afternoon, October 15, at the home of Mrs. Frank Graham. Bridge will begin at 3 o'clock, and tea will be served at 5. Tickets for bridge at 50 cents and for tea at 25 cents may be obtained from Mrs. John Couch.

Art Exhibit and Gallery Talk

An exhibition of 20 drawings, "Improvisations on the Crucifixion," by Joseph T. Pearson, Jr., of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., will open at the Person hall art gallery day after tomorrow (Sunday). These drawings were shown last June at the Corean gallery in Washington, D. C. Russell T. Smith, head of the University's art department, will give a gallery talk on this exhibit and the Dwight Shepler exhibit at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Person hall. Everybody is invited.

P.W.A. Approval of Latest Project Brings to $2,349,000 Total Cost Of Building Program Soon to Begin

The unexpected last-minute approval by the P. W. A. of the $700,000 project embracing three dormitories and an addition to the Carolina Inn has raised to $2,349,000 the cost of building improvements to be carried through by the University within the next year and a half. By the terms of the Government grants, a start must be made on every project by December 31.

Of the total amount to be spent, the Government contributes 45 per cent ($1,057,000), the University 55 per cent ($1,292,000). For some projects the University's share comes from an appropriation by the legislature; for others, the University issues revenue bonds based on revenues from the projects.

In the former category are the improvements for which money was voted at the special session in August (zoology building and the reconstruction of the Alumni building, Gerrard hall, and the Byrum gymnasium). In the latter category are the power plant, the dining hall, five dormitories, and the Inn addition.

These are the new structures that will be under way next spring (some of them earlier) and will be completed by the spring of 1940:

Power plant, out by the laundry at the west end of Cameron avenue, replacing the present power plant on the campus.

Zoology building.

Dining hall.

Five dormitories.

Addition to the Inn.

One of the new dormitories will be for women and will be a twin to the one for women in the grove opposite the Arboretum. They will face one another. Another dormitory (for men) will fill the open space at the east end of the outer quadrangle (near the tennis courts). Where the three other dormitories, the zoology building, and dining hall will be placed has not yet been decided.

Carr to Design Inn Addition

The University has engaged George Watts Carr of Durham to design the addition to the Carolina Inn. He was seen inspecting the present building and the grounds day before yesterday, and he has already begun making preliminary sketches.

Village Is to Have Set of Bowling Alleys; They Will Be Operated by McCauley and Johns

John McCauley and J. B. Johns are going to operate a set of four bowling alleys in the building on Franklin street recently vacated by the Lyon hardware company.

"They will be of the very best modern type—streamlined," said Mr. McCauley yesterday. This reporter doesn't know what streamlined means, as applied to bowling facilities, but it sounds impressive. Anyway, the alleys will be right.

The new establishment is expected to open some time around the end of the month. The firm that is to install the alleys has a force of mechanics on a job in West Virginia now; as soon as they have finished it they will come here, and the installation will take about ten days.

The University has given its approval to the enterprise, and good order and decency are guaranteed. If any bowler or spectator doesn't behave properly, and doesn't respond to admonitions, Mr. McCauley, who is to be the manager, will undertake to throw him out; and if the fellow is too pugnacious and sinewy to be handled by the partner on the spot, the absent partner and maybe the police will be summoned to carry through the ejection.

The alleys are to be open on weekdays from 10 A. M. to midnight. Coca colas and cigarettes will be served by vending machines, and sandwiches will be sold by hand.

Arrival of His Father and Mother Fails to Make House Feel Like Home to Jim McMullan

Attorney General and Mrs. Harry McMullan have moved into the J. P. Harland house.

Before they came, there was a period of three weeks when their son Jim, a sophomore in the high school, lived with the Harlands. Around bedtime every night Mrs. Harland would bring him a slice of cake, a piece of pie, or something else good to eat; and sometimes the archaeologist aroused himself from dreams of ancient tombs to pay the young man agreeable attentions. It did not take Jim long to decide that the Princetonian and the fair-haired descendant of the Vikings were just the right sort of people.

When the McMullans arrived, and the displaced owners took refuge with English Bagby three or four hundred yards down the road, the peace and quiet that had hitherto prevailed were succeeded by a state of confusion. Baggage coming in, miscellaneous belongings strewn around, no servant yet engaged—all that sort of thing. In the midst of the jumble Jim remarked sadly to his father and mother:

"It doesn't seem like home since the Harlands left."

Scouts to March up Street at 4 This Afternoon

The Merchants Association has assured the people of the village a view of the 1,800 Boy Scouts, now assembled here for their Jubilee and quartered in tents on the campus, by arranging a parade up the main street at 4 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon.

A campfire session was held last night on Fetzer field. An elaborate "scout-o-rama" will be held there at 8 o'clock this (Friday) evening. Everybody is invited. Several national and regional Scout officials will be on the program.

Demonstrations of all types of Scout activities will be given in the encampment today and tomorrow morning. A cooking demonstration will be put on at noon tomorrow.

The Scouts will attend the Carolina-Tulane football game tomorrow afternoon and will give a demonstration between halves.

The boys are taking their meals at Swain hall: breakfast at 6:30, lunch at 11, supper at 5. The University infirmary has established a field hospital in the encampment, and the Scouts receive daily physical instruction. A trained nurse is on duty at all times.

Religious services will be held for the encampment at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, after which the Scouts will break camp and start home.

Human Relations Institute

The University's sixth Human Relations Institute will be held here April 2 to 7, with Harry Comer as chief executive officer.

Carol Patricia Bynum

A daughter was born last Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Bynum. Her name is Carol Patricia.

Chapel Hill Chaff

Last week I expressed the fear that J. T. Gobel's signing his name legibly might disqualify him for employment by the Bank of Chapel Hill. "This reminds me," says Raymond Adams, "of an incident. A few years ago an attempt was made to ascertain the illiterates in Orange county by examining the tax books, on the theory that those whose signatures could not be read or those who had to have others sign for them needed remedial treatment. When the list emerged it included the name of the cashier of the Bank of Chapel Hill and the President of the University—the one because no one could read his name, the other because someone else (his secretary) had signed for him."

Before proceeding further, I should say that the correct way to pronounce Athanasia is with the accent on the next to the last syllable and with the i like a double e, thus: AthanasEEa. The other evening when I was dining at Louis Loizon's restaurant, the Tavern, a laughing little girl with dark eyes and dark hair (as I presently learned, she was four and a half years old) came running up to my table, and Mr. Loizon introduced her as his daughter, Athanasia. The name seemed appropriate, for in the appearance of the child was something exotic, a sort of flavor of romance. It brought a vision of waves lapping softly on a Mediterranean strand, of the olive-trees and the blue skies and the temples of Attica. The sound of long-forgotten lines was in my ears again: "maid of Athens . . .", "and Marathon looks on the sea . . .", "rang the pure music of the flutes of Greece."

Faculty Center to Be Feature Of Addition to Carolina Inn; Included in a P.W.A. Project

Academy of Sciences to Have Meeting Here

The National Academy of Sciences, the most select organization of scientists in America, with a membership limited to 300, will have its annual meeting here in Chapel Hill—its first meeting in the South—on the 24th, 25th, and 26th of this month.

It is a great distinction to be elected to the Academy. There are only two members in North Carolina and they are both in the faculty here: H. V. Wilson, zoologist, and William deB. MacNider, pharmacologist.

Mr. Wilson is honorary chairman of the committee on arrangements, and R. E. Coker is active chairman.

The scientific sessions will be held in Venable hall. The University will give the visitors a dinner at the Carolina Inn on the 24th, and Duke University will entertain them at a luncheon on the 25th. There will be a reception at the Inn on the evening of the 25th.

Citizens, Register!

New Listing of Voters to Begin Monday, Oct. 10, and End Oct. 29

To the citizens of Chapel Hill: if you don't register between this coming Monday, October 10, and Saturday, October 29, you can't vote in the November election. For, a new registration has been ordered by the county election board. All previous registrations are null and void.

The old precinct is now cut into two new precincts. The dividing line is: Franklin street, from Carrboro to Raleigh street (President's House corner); thence along Raleigh street to state highway 54 at the new gymnasium; thence with state highway 54 eastward to the Orange county line. The territory north of this line is the North Chapel Hill precinct; the territory south of it is the South Chapel Hill precinct. Here is the information you need about registration:

North Chapel Hill precinct: Paul Robertson, registrar, will register any citizen in his office, in Carolina theatre building, on any weekday from Monday, October 10, to Saturday, October 29, inclusive. On the three Saturdays (October 15, 22, 29) he will be in his office all day. On other days than Saturday any citizen may make an appointment by telephone (No. 6576). If a meeting at Mr. Robertson's office is not convenient, he will come to the citizen's home.

South Chapel Hill precinct: Theo. Best, registrar, will register any citizen according to exactly the same schedule as the one just given for Mr. Robertson. He can be reached at his home, 305 Pittsboro street. His telephone number is 5751. He will be at the elementary school (in yard or in athletic building) all day on the three Saturdays (October 15, 22, 29). On any day but Saturday, telephone him for an appointment.

Hitch-Hikers Are Fined

Three University students were convicted in the recorder's court last Monday evening of violating the local ordinance against begging rides while standing out in the street. They were fined $2 each by Judge Phipps.

Will Satisfy Desire That Has Been Cherished by University People for Years

IT'LL BE A SORT OF CLUB

A faculty center, which will serve the purpose of a club and a general meeting place for the teaching and administrative forces of the University, will be contained in the structure that is to constitute an addition to the Carolina Inn.

This addition is part of a P.W.A. project (the other part being three dormitories) for which the University put in an application a little while before the Government's deadline date. The last-minute approval in Washington, hoped for but not expected, came as an agreeable surprise to President Graham and other University officials. The cost of the four structures embraced in the project will be about $700,000.

Some of the space in the new section of the Inn will be devoted to sleeping quarters, which are urgently needed for people who attend conventions and institutes, as well as for transient guests, and to kitchen, dining room, and cafeteria extensions. The faculty center will be so fitted into the building plan that it will be easily accessible from other parts of the Inn but will be separated from lobbies and corridors for the sake of privacy.

For many years members of the University faculty have been yearning for a club like faculty clubs elsewhere in the country. Some men who have come from other institutions have declared that, on the social side, the lack of such a place was their one real disappointment in Chapel Hill. Sporadic efforts to organize a club have been made, and all have come to naught.

Of course there has not yet been time to work out any details of the organization. Presumably there will be moderate membership fees and the usual battery of committees.

University Day

Celebration Next Wednesday; Ethridge of Louisville Will Speak

Mark Ethridge, general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will speak at 11 o'clock next Wednesday morning, October 12, in Memorial hall at the celebration of the 145th anniversary of the founding of the University. His subject will be "The South and Its Prospects." He will be introduced by President Graham.

The academic procession will form at 10:35 Wednesday morning at the South building and, led by the band, will march to Memorial hall. The program there will be broadcast from station WPTF in Raleigh and perhaps over a national network.

Rev. N. H. D. Wilson will give the invocation, Dean House will preside.

Friederich to Talk on Europe

The Bull's Head Bookshop has switched its tea next week from Wednesday to Tuesday. Werner Friederich will talk (at 4:15) about the situation in Europe with special reference to Czechoslovakia.

Piano Recital Sunday

Mark Hoffman will give a piano recital at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Graham Memorial.
