Wake Forest to Meet Tar Heels Here Tomorrow

Demon Deacons Are Given Edge In What Promises to Be A Spirited Contest

By John D. Wood

Carolina and Wake Forest will bring football back to Chapel Hill after a four-weeks absence when the two teams meet tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the Kenan Stadium.

Coach Peahead Walker will line up a strong Demon Deacon team against the ever improving Tar Heels. Led by Captain Nick Sacrinity, a great running and passing back, Wake Forest presents a big obstacle to Carolina's undefeated Southern Conference record. The return of ace blocking-back Nick Ognovich, who has been missing from the line-up since the Duke game because of injuries, will help fortify the Deacon attack.

Carolina will be hampered slightly by the absence of Tailback Don Clayton, who has been dropped temporarily from the squad, and also by a minor injury to Tom Gorman's passing arm. But there may be compensation in the performance of two new backfield stars. They are Merl Norcross, who played so well against William and Mary last week, and Floyd "Chunk" Simmons, 185-pound hard running, hard passing E.G.I.

Because of Wake Forest's fine showing against Tennessee and Duke—it outplayed both teams only to lose by narrow margins—the professional dopsters rule the Deacons slight favorites. But it is possible that the visitors' recent three-week vacation may tend to invite staleness.

Tomorrow's game will be the 52nd in the oldest inter-collegiate football series in North Carolina. Wake Forest and the University played the first regular college game in the state in 1888 at the state fair in Raleigh. Carolina is far ahead in the series, but Wake Forest won last year's game and may well take this one.

First 1946 Ford Is Bought by Dr. Henry

Chapel Hill's first 1946 model Ford has been bought by Dr. Marina H. Henry. The Strowd Motor Company kept it on public display for several days before it was turned over to her. Government regulations require that in the distribution of new cars preference be given to physicians and to persons in certain other emergency occupations.

Dr. Henry's car is a 2-door super-de-luxe sedan. The price is $1,084, delivered, with tax included, but this is subject to any adjustment that may be made by the OPA. The price of the same type of car in the 1942 model was $1,087.

Many orders have been placed with Strowd (Ford dealer) and with Hazzard (Chevrolet dealer) for 1946 cars, delivery to be made "as soon as possible."

No Burning on Pavement!

Town Manager Hinson cautions householders against the burning of leaves or anything else on a street pavement, whether sidewalk, curb, gutter, or roadway. Burning in your own yard is permitted if you have the fire watched carefully.

Fire Alarm Calls to Be Made Easier; Telephone Number Could Be Made 110

It is going to be made easier in Chapel Hill to send in a fire alarm by telephone.

This decision is a direct result of the delay in getting a call through to fire headquarters after fire was discovered at the University gymnasium early on Monday morning of last week.

The attention of the University (which owns the Chapel Hill Telephone Company) was called to the fact that nowhere in the telephone directory does the fire department number appear conspicuously. Also, it was suggested that the number should be an easier one to call by dial than the present one, which is 4666.

After consulting with Business Manager C. E. Teague, who had had a report from Superintendent of Utilities H. E. Thompson, Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., said:

"A person trying to put in a fire alarm by telephone might be in the dark, so that he could not read the telephone directory and could not see the figures on the dial.

"Mr. Thompson tells us that it would be practical, from an operating standpoint, to use the number 110. That can be made the fire department number if the town authorities request it.

"But of course the easiest number that can be dialed is zero. That connects the caller with central, and the next issue of the telephone directory will carry on the first page, in good big print, the information that a person wanting to put in a fire alarm can either dial the fire department direct or can dial zero and put in the alarm through central."

Fire Chief Perry said yesterday: "All of us in the fire company are eager to have the alarm system made as easy to operate as possible. If another telephone number is easier for people to use than the one we have now, then of course we ought to have it. We will take this suggestion under consideration."

In Durham the fire alarm telephone number is 116, and the police department number is 117.

Pilotless Plane, Electronic Wonder, to Be Put through Paces at Emerson Field Monday

Villagers will get a look at one of the Army's hitherto closely guarded war-time secrets when seven Fort Bragg soldiers come here Monday to demonstrate a radio-controlled target plane. The exhibition will be given at a Victory Loan rally at 4 P.M. on Emerson field. Admission is free to everybody.

The plane, launched from a catapult at express train speed, is "piloted" by a man on the ground who holds a radio box and moves a pencil-like stick to transmit signals over a frequency-modulated wave to a radio receiver in the plane. These signals actuate, in the plane, a unit which, by transforming electrical impressions into mechanical action, moves the plane's controls.

The plane, with a 12-foot wing-spread, weighs 100 pounds and can fly 150 miles an hour. It is driven by an 8-horsepower two-cycle constant-speed gasoline engine. Carrying a gas load of 1½ gallons, it can stay aloft an hour and ten minutes. It makes about 115 miles an hour in level flight and can do better than 150 in a dive.

The main purpose of this electronic wonder was to provide a

The War Fund Campaign Is Not Closed

Some people have been asking whether or not the United War Fund campaign is closed. It is not. The community's quota is $9,000; the amount so far collected is $8,087. The canvass now being made on the campus is not expected to fill out the quota, hence the campaign committee hopes for more contributions from citizens. Checks should be sent to J. T. Gobbel at the bank.

Col. Bennett Bound for Home

Lt.-Col. John S. Bennett is on a ship bound for the United States. He is expected to land in Norfolk about November 28.

real flying aircraft practice target for gunners using .30 and .50 caliber machine guns and 40mm anti-aircraft guns. Highly maneuverable, the plan can simulate the attacks of enemy planes with its diving, looping, snap-rolls, and other acrobatics. After a flight, the plane is landed by a parachute built into its fuselage.

Lt. Johnny E. Gambill will be in command of the seven-man crew which will put the plane through its paces here.

Sixteen-Year-Old Boy Confesses to Robbery Of Eight Homes in Chapel Hill Negro Section

Arthur Holt, a 16-year-old negro boy who was arrested day before yesterday in Hillsboro by Sheriff Latta's men, has confessed to implication in the daylight robbery of eight negro homes in the western section of Chapel Hill on Friday, November 2.

The robberies, which took place between 11 A.M. and 3 P.M. while the occupants of the houses were absent, was similar to other daylight break-ins committed this fall in negro homes in Raleigh and Durham, and to which Holt also confessed.

The youth was arrested at the Hillsboro bus station a few minutes after the sheriff's office had been notified that a Hillsboro

Hamilton, Back from Japan, Is Met by His Family in Durham

Lieutenant-Commander Howard Hamilton has come home from Japan. Mrs. Hamilton and the children were over at Durham yesterday to meet him when he stepped off the train. In a day or two he will go to Norfolk, accompanied by his wife, and they will return here after he passes through the procedure of being released from the Navy. As flag secretary to Commodore Kessing, Lt.-Cmdr. Hamilton was one of the early arrivals in Japan. His ship was anchored at the Yokosuka naval base before the signing of the surrender.

The Westvelts Have Taken the Guy Johnson House

Captain George C. Westvelt, U. S. Navy, retired, and Mrs. Westvelt have taken a lease on the Guy Johnson house in Westwood. They have bought the Ralph McDonald lot on Tenney circle and expect to put up a home there as soon as building becomes practicable. Captain Westvelt is by birth a Texan, Mrs. Westvelt a Virginian. They have two daughters; one will enter the junior class in the University, the other will be in the high school.

Christmas Gifts for Soldiers at the Camp Butner Hospital

The American Legion Auxiliary is preparing Christmas gifts for the soldiers at the Camp Butner hospital. Contributions may be dropped into boxes that have been placed in stores, or checks may be sent to Mrs. J. J. Keller, 219 Pittsboro street. The Red Cross will deliver the packages at the hospital.

Chapel Hill Chaff

In Tuesday's New York Times Arthur Krock devoted his column to President Truman's visit to Berryville, Va., and the resentment caused among the townspeople by the fact that the President, who went to Berryville to be best man at ex-Senator Bennett Champ Clark's marriage, was driven to the church by a back street, entered by a side door, and left town rapidly without giving the waiting throng on Main Street an opportunity to see him. Mr. Krock mentioned Betty Smith's article, about the incident, that was published recently in these columns.

Here is how the name of this newspaper appeared in the Krock column: the Chapel Hill, N. C., weekly. Look at that little w! A capital initial is supposed to make a word prominent, but a far greater effect of prominence is produced upon the editor who sees his paper lower-cased in this fashion. Before his horrified eyes the word fairly leaps from the page. It sticks out like a sore thumb; it flames like fire in the night. If these be mixed metaphors, the editor's distressed state of mind is excuse enough.

To make the shock worse, elsewhere in his article Mr. Krock, referring to the Berryville newspaper, wrote: "This impelled The Clarke Courier to publish an editorial . . ." etc. Observe that not only does the name of the Berryville newspaper have a capital initial, but so does the preceding The. Is not this heaping insult on injury?

I thought of going before the aldermen at their meeting night before last and asking them to adopt resolutions of condemnation, but after reflection I feared

Roman Catholics Have Bought Lot and Expect to Make Start On Church Soon after New Year

L. R. Wilson Finds Black Widows

Louis R. Wilson, of the faculty of the University's school of library science, has found three spiders of the famous poison species, Black Widow, on his place on East Rosemary lane within the last two weeks.

He was already interested in the Black Widow from his reading of a book on the subject published last spring by the University of North Carolina Press. His interest has been greatly augmented by close personal acquaintance.

"I found two females and one male," he said yesterday. "It is the female that is very poisonous. The male is poisonous, but much less so.

"I came across one female under a board that I moved when I went out to cut off the water from the spigot in the garden. The body is about 5/8ths of an inch long and shaped something like an hour-glass, and there are eight legs. The color is glossy black, with a red spot in the middle of the abdomen.

"I found the male between two rocks when I picked up one of them to drive a stob in the

New Western Union Manager Comes Here

First Lieutenant Robert B. Osborne of Albemarle, recently placed on inactive duty by the Army Signal Corps, has come here to be acting manager of the Western Union telegraph office. His wife and 5-year-old son, Robert, Jr., will come on from Albemarle as soon as he finds a house here. Meanwhile, he is staying at the Carolina Inn.

Before entering the Army about four years ago Mr. Osborne was manager of the Western Union office in Albemarle. Much of his war service was in the Pacific, where he was radio operations officer at Sixth Army headquarters in New Guinea. He also saw action in the Finschafen and Hollandia campaigns.

Since his arrival here last week, Mr. Osborne has been busy reorganizing the Western Union office. "We are putting in some new and more modern equipment," he says, "and pretty soon we expect to render service up to our pre-war standard. We will have a strictly up-to-date office."

Wettach Resigns from Board

At their meeting Wednesday evening the board of aldermen accepted with great regret the resignation of R. H. Wettach. The deanship of the law school, the chairmanship of the commission that is making a study of the state's insurance laws (for the purpose of recommending remedial legislation), and other commitments, have put such pressure upon Mr. Wettach that he feels obliged to give up his place on the board of aldermen. His successor, to fill out his term ending in May 1947, will be appointed by the board.

Bingo Party Next Tuesday

There will be a Bingo Party at the American Legion Hut on Tuesday evening, beginning at 7:30. Everybody is invited. Turkeys, fruit cakes, and other valuable articles will be given as prizes.

Site near University Campus; Building Will Be of Brick in the Colonial Style

The Roman Catholic parish of Chapel Hill has bought a lot on the west side of Pittsboro street, about a hundred yards south of Cameron avenue, and will erect a church on it as soon as possible.

"We hope to make a start on the construction soon after the New Year," said Rev. Francis J. Morrissey, the parish priest, yesterday, "and the work will go ahead as rapidly as circumstances permit."

The architect, James McGaedy of Wilson, N. C., has made plans for a brick building in the Colonial style.

The lot was bought from D. J. Smith through the Service Insurance and Realty Company. With a frontage of 130 feet on Pittsboro street, it adjoins the westernmost of the two barrack buildings that were put up by William Muirhead, the Durham contractor, for the University, about two years ago, to meet a war-time emergency.

The dwelling that stands on the south side of the lot will remain where it is and will be used as a rectory. The other part of the lot, on the north side, provides ample space for the church building.

For several years the Catholics here have been planning to build and have been looking around for a suitable site. They consider themselves fortunate to obtain this one, which is on high ground in an agreeable neighborhood and is near the University campus.

The latest pre-war count of Catholics in Chapel Hill, including students, was about 200. Father Morrissey now has an assistant, Rev. F. K. O'Brien.

Game Here Today Is Last of the Season

The high school football team will wind up its season today in a game with the undefeated Methodist Orphanage at 3 o'clock on Fetzer field. The Wildcats, at full strength and all set to shoot the works, have vowed to give the powerful orphans a fight to remember.

Chapel Hill lost to the Oxford high school, 28-0, last Friday in a night game at Oxford. The much heavier Oxonians, using power plays straight into the line, displayed unadorned brute strength in marching 55 yards for their first score as soon as the game got underway. Their other three touchdowns came on a pass in the second quarter and a blocked kick and an intercepted pass in the last quarter. Standout players for Chapel Hill were Jimmy Blake, fullback, and Smitty Lineberger, right end.

Following today's game, the visiting team will be entertained by the high school seniors from 6:30 to 8 o'clock at a party at the Recreation Center. There will be dancing, and the program will include vocal numbers by Nancy Williams and Clyde Pridgen, accompanied at the piano by Johnny Johnson. Winifred Thompson will be mistress of ceremonies.

Phil Schinhan Back in U. S.

Phil Schinhan has come back from Europe. He will stop by here to see his parents on his way to join his wife in Athens, Georgia.
