Season Open for Hunting of Quail, Turkey, Rabbit

It Will Continue through January 10; Licenses on Sale at Stores Here and in Carrboro

The woods around Chapel Hill echoed with gunfire yesterday as the hunting season opened on quail, rabbit, and turkey. The season will continue through January 10, and the dove season (now closed) will reopen January 1 and last through January 20. It is illegal to hunt on Sunday.

Bag limits are as follows: quail, 8; rabbit, 7; turkey, 1. Hunting licenses are on sale at the Huggins Hardware store in Chapel Hill and at the Lloyd-Ray store in Carrboro. The prices for a county license are $1.10 for residents and $1.75 for non-residents. A resident's state license costs $3.10.

The trapping season will open December 1 and last till February 15.

Orange county hunting grounds are being patrolled by Game Protector Robert Logan, whose headquarters are here. Mr. Logan recently returned here from Statesville, where for several years he had been supervisor of game protection in District 7.

"A lot of people ask me why I resigned from the supervisor's job and came back here," Mr. Logan said when he visited the newspaper office this week. "It was because my wife and I were always wishing we were in Chapel Hill again. We'd rather be here than anywhere else."

Mr. and Mrs. Logan and their six-year-old daughter Ruth live in one of Obie Davis's houses at the corner of Columbia and North streets. Their two older children are married and have homes elsewhere.

P.T.A. Council Will Meet Tuesday Evening

The Orange County Council of the Parent-Teachers Association will meet at the Hillsboro School at 7:30 Tuesday evening. The program will consist of a discussion of the report of the State Education Commission, particularly as it applies to Orange county. The speakers will be the three members of the Education Commission who were from Orange: W. H. Plemmons, John W. Umstead, Jr., and Clarence Heer. As this county was one of the counties chosen by the commission for special study, Orange citizens have been awaiting the report of the Commission with great interest.

The purpose of the county council of the P. T. A. is to bring together the members of the various P.T.A.'s in the county, and to provide opportunities for the discussion of common school needs and problems. All who are interested in the schools of the county are urged to attend Tuesday evening's meeting.

Earlier Printing Schedule

This issue of the Weekly was printed one day earlier than usual, on Wednesday instead of Thursday, so that the Orange Printshop force could be off duty on Thanksgiving Day. But we have given the paper the usual Friday date line. If you miss a piece of news that would have ordinarily got in, about something that happened after Wednesday noon, you will know, from this notice, why it's not here.

Carolina to Play Virginia Tomorrow; No Report Yet about Bowl Game

The University of North Carolina and the University of Virginia will meet tomorrow in Charlottesville in their annual football game. The kickoff is set for 2 o'clock.

Since the Duke game last week there has been more talk here about the question of which bowl, if any, Carolina will play in New Year's Day than about the Virginia game.

Though this paper bears the usual Friday date-line, it was printed a day earlier than usual (because of the printers' Thanksgiving holiday), hence some bowl news may have come out in the daily papers by the time you get the Weekly. The latest news as we go to press is that Carolina has been invited to the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Texas, but that there has been no decision on acceptance or rejection. The hesitation appears to be due to the uncertainty as to whether there will be an invitation to the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans. The New Orleans people want to know the results of tomorrow's games before they decide what teams to invite.

All the tickets allotted to the athletic office here for the game have been sold. It is doubtful if any more will be received. Over 3,000 people are expected to go from Chapel Hill to see the game.

The Carolina-Virginia game tomorrow will be the 53rd in an historic rivalry that brings back memories to thousands of old-time Cavaliers and Tar Heels. Carolina holds an advantage of 26 wins over 23 for Virginia, with three ties.

The undefeated but once-tied Tar Heels are heavy favorites to gain their ninth win of the season over this year's Virginia team which has won six games and lost two (to Princeton and George Washington).

However, many sports writers believe Virginia has a stronger team than most Tar Heel supporters realize. Joe McCary, the quarterback and captain of the Cavalier team, is expected to play Saturday after being out for a month with a broken hand. Prior to his injury, he had completed 22 out of 42 passes.

With McCary and the star Virginia fullback, Johnny Papit, leading the attack, the Cavaliers may easily prove to be a formidable obstacle in the way of an undefeated season for Carolina and a bowl trip on New Year's Day.

"School for Scandal" Four Times Next Week

Sheridan's "The School for Scandal," the celebrated 18th century comedy, will be presented as the second major Carolina Playmaker production at 8:30 next week the nights of December 1, 2, 3, and 4 in the Playmaker theatre. Tickets are now on sale at Ledbetter-Pickard's and at the Playmaker business office in Swain hall. The admission price is $1. All seats are to be reserved.

"The School for Scandal" will be the first Playmaker production to be taken on tour since Paul Green's "The House of Connelly" toured for two months in 1941. The new company will be the 40th sent out since the Playmakers were organized 31 years ago.

Chapel Hillians in the cast include Hilda Sharkey, Sue Davis, and Lynn

Faculty Club to Hear Waynick

Capus Waynick, who became chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee after conducting the successful campaign of Kerr Scott for Governor in the primary last May, will be the speaker at the faculty club luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the Carolina Inn. His topic will be "Recent Political Events and Trends."

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Milton's Clothing Cupboard, new men's clothing store owned by Milton Julian, will have a grand opening at 9 o'clock Monday morning in its new building at 420 West Franklin street, across from the Farmers Dairy. An open house celebration will be held Monday and Tuesday, with delicatessen to be served. There also will be special opening-week prices.

The store, laid out inside in cupboard-like fashion, is pine-paneled throughout, with matching Welsh-covered, knotty-pine fixtures designed by Mrs. Julian. A replica of "The Old Well," two-thirds the size of the actual one, will be used as a shoe rack. Most of the shoes to be displayed were designed and detailed by Mr. Julian and made especially for him by Stone-Tarlow of Brockton, Mass.

Mrs. J. L. Sutton Still Wears Cast

Mrs. J. L. Sutton, who returned to the village from Watts hospital last week, is still not able to go back to work. The body cast she is wearing as a result of an injury she received in the store recently will have to be kept on for at least three months longer. Mrs. Sutton, in addition to suffering physical discomfort from the cast, is unable to get into any of her neatly tailored clothes.

Gault. Harry Davis is directing the play, and Irene Smart has designed the elaborate historical costumes.

The touring company will include 19 students, Mr. Davis, and Mr. Gault, and will travel by bus throughout this state and in South Carolina. It will give performances at High Point, Gastonia, Asheville, Statesville, Spartanburg, Buie's Creek, Wilmington, Rocky Mount, and Goldsboro.

Movie of Migrating Birds, in Color, Will Be Shown Monday Evening at Pick Theatre

A color movie on bird migration will be shown at 8 P.M. Monday at the Pick theatre by Roger Tory Peterson, famous author and artist. It will be the first in a series of five wildlife movies to be given here this season by the Chapel Hill Bird Club.

The admission price, for non-holders of season tickets, will be 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for children under 18. Season tickets for the series ($2.40 for adults, $1.20 for children) are on sale at Ledbetter-Pickard's and will also be on sale at the box office. The club's profits from

Chapel Hill Chaff

Football players of my student generation (1899-1902) are naturally looked upon as old-timers in the game, but they are late comers beside one I had a talk with last Saturday, Dr. Hubert A. Royster. He was playing on the Wake Forest team in the fall of 1888, just 60 years ago, when Wake Forest and Carolina met for the first time. In the lobby of the Carolina Inn last Friday night I saw a man who was on the University team that same year, George M. Graham.

When Wake Forest is not involved, Dr. Royster is a hot Carolina fan. Carolina's failing to win from William and Mary three weeks ago made him sad; he was in a more cheerful mood when I saw him after the Duke game.

Dr. Royster retired from the practice of surgery a few years ago because of a heart attack. From his vigorous appearance and bubbling spirits when I saw him Saturday I would never have thought that there had been anything the matter with his heart or any other part of his body. I would have thought, rather, that he could still give a pretty good performance on the football field.

Noel Houston telephoned me after he read the piece in last week's issue about Congressman Carl Durham's asking the Congressional Library to tell him what the word genocide meant. "If Carl hasn't yet learned who coined the word," said Mr. Houston, "he may be surprised to know that it was one of his own constituents, a professor in Duke University. At the moment

Despite Loss of G. I. Students, No Falling-Off Is Expected in University's Total Enrollment

New Secretary

Mrs. Mildred Cartee, former clerk of the War Ration Board here, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association. The appointment was made at a meeting of the association's directors Monday evening at the Carolina Inn.

A selection committee composed of L. J. Phipps (chairman), Harvey Bennett, and E. C. Smith recommended Mrs. Cartee for the place.

She succeeds Mrs. Lois Cranford, who has been serving the Merchants Association and F. O. Bowman, executive secretary of the N. C. Bottlers Association, each on a half-time basis. Henceforth Mrs. Cranford will be full-time secretary for Mr. Bowman.

Besides serving for the Ration Board, Mrs. Mildred Cartee has held posts with the Hazzard Motor Company, the University, and (most recently) with S. H. Basnight.

She will assume her new duties next month.

Dr. W. P. Jacocks Is Coming Here to Live

Dr. William P. Jacocks is going to move from Raleigh to Chapel Hill in January. In the beginning he will live at the Inn. Whether he will get other quarters later, and, if so, when, he is not yet certain.

Dr. Jacocks, a native of Windsor, was graduated from the University in 1904; took his M.A. degree here in 1905; and took his M.D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1911. For many years he was director of the International Health Board (Rockefeller Foundation) work in India and Ceylon. Since his retirement from that post he has been with the N. C. Board of Health.

In his student days here Dr. Jacocks was a football star. Since then, as a spectator (or, when far distant, a radio listener and sports-page reader), he has been just as enthusiastic about football as when he played himself. He rarely misses a game in Chapel Hill. And he visits the village on other occasions. He has many friends here, including Dr. William MacNider, Felix Hickerson (a classmate), Dr. Foy Roberson (who should be counted a Chapel Hillian even if he does live in Durham county), Louis Graves, Clyde Eubanks, Bruce Strowd, Collier Cobb, W. C. Coker, and Archibald Henderson.

Mrs. Johnson, Service League Speaker

Mrs. Guy Johnson will speak on "The American Home: The Privileges of Its Problems" at a meeting of the Chapel Hill Junior Service League at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon in the Episcopal parish house. Mrs. Olin T. Mouson will make a report on the possibilities for a dental clinic in this area. Chapel Hill Girl Scouts will be on hand at the parish house for a stint of baby sitting during the meeting.

Children's Books to Be Discussed

The annual fall meeting of the Mary Bayley Pratt Library association will be held at 3:30 Tuesday, December 7, in the elementary school library. James S. Tippet, Chapel Hill writer of children's books, will speak. An exhibit of children's Christmas books from the Bull's Head and Ab's Intimate Bookshop will be prepared. Everyone is invited.

Large Reservoir of Applicants Who Cannot Be Admitted Now Because of Overcrowding

A reservoir corresponding to a manufacturer's "backlog of orders" will prevent the University's total enrollment from falling off as a result of the loss of the G. I. students.

This is the expectation of Roy Armstrong, the University's director of admissions; an expectation founded on evidence that has accumulated in his office in the form of applications from would-be students and in the form of North Carolina birth-rate and high school census figures.

The reservoir is made up of, first, young men and women in other states who want to attend the University but who cannot be admitted now because of our overcrowded condition, and, second, the rapidly increasing number of North Carolina high school students who intend to have a college education.

"We have fewer G. I. students this year than last year but a total enrollment larger by about 100," said Mr. Armstrong yesterday. "We are in a state of 'saturation.' We have not been able to take in more than about 200 new out-of-state students. Hundreds more would be here today if we had been able to admit them."

"Our records show a steadily increasing number of North Carolina high school students who are seeking admission to the University. Two hundred and seventy high schools are now represented in the freshman class, many more than ever before. And when we make estimates for the future we have to bear in mind that it won't be long now before the high wartime birth-rate will be reflected in university and college attendance."

Laurinburg Got Title In Drawing of Lots

It was a sad and bitter ending to a glorious football season. The Chapel Hill high school team had gone through its regular season undefeated and untied, for the first time in 25 years. Then came Laurinburg and the mud. Last Friday, the Chapel Hill boys went to Laurinburg to play for the eastern Class "A" championship. The game, played in a drizzling rainstorm, ended in a tie, 6-6. Collier Hill of Chapel Hill suffered a crucial injury, a twist of the knee, and had to leave the game.

In order that one of the teams could qualify for the State championship game with Mt. Airy this week-end, Laurinburg and Chapel Hill had either to play off the game early this week or draw for the eastern championship. The Laurinburg coach agreed to come here for a game Tuesday, but he was overruled by some person or persons in Laurinburg and the game was canceled. This made a drawing of lots the only way of deciding the championship. In the drawing Laurinburg won.

New Arts and Crafts Group

The arts and crafts department of the Community club will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. B. Sanders, Forest Hills. The refinishing of furniture will be demonstrated. The last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Weeks, who demonstrated book-rug making. Mrs. Walter Heilman has been chosen chairman of the new group.

Church Christmas Bazaar

A Christmas bazaar will be held at the Congregational Christian church hut at 4 o'clock next Thursday.

The Bank of Chapel Hill will have
