

Village Is to Pay Tribute to the U.N. Next Monday

Here are three members of the Mayor's committee on United Nations Day, shown as they made plans for next Monday's celebration at a recent meeting in the Town Hall. From left to right, they are Edward Danziger, representing Rotary International, Committee Chairman John Riebel, representing the YMCA, and Ram Desikan, representative of the University Cosmopolitan Club.

Chapel Hill will pay tribute next Monday, October 24, to the United Nations on its 10th birthday.

William J. Koch has arranged a tree planting ceremony on the school grounds from 3 to 3:15 p.m. with town officials and Boy Scouts participating. A bronze plaque will commemorate the event. Planting a United Nations tree is a community expression of faith in the future of the organization. Places of business will close during the ceremony.

A booth will be maintained downtown for the distribution of United Nations materials during the afternoon. Many Chapel Hill civic and religious groups plan programs devoted at least in part to international understanding. Short United Nations films will be shown in the local theaters through the courtesy of the League of Women Voters and the theater management. United Nations flags will be interspersed with American flags on Franklin Street.

The University Library and several Chapel Hill merchants plan special United Nations exhibits. A film, "Workshop for Peace," will be shown over WUNC-TV at 9 p.m. A United Nations Week drama entitled "Alice in Puzzle Land" under the direction of Mrs. Louise Lamont was given at the Chapel Hill Elementary School and will be presented again Thursday evening, October 27, at the Baptist Church.

Jack Lasley, finance chairman, reports that the following Chapel Hill organizations have contributed funds for United Nations Day activities:

American Association of University Women, Rotary International, Altrusa International, Junior Chamber of Commerce, American Legion Auxiliary, Daughters of the American Revolution, University Women's Club, and the Catholic Women's Guild.

Hundreds of Children Receive Benefits From Community Center, Day Nursery

Hundreds of Negro boys and girls from the ages of five to 20 use the facilities of the Negro Community Center on North Graham Street and 44 younger children are daily cared for by the Harold Holmes Day Nursery in the same building.

Welfare workers stress the importance of recreational facilities in developing better citizens, and Miss Lucille Caldwell, Chapel Hill native and director of the Recreation Center, believes that the various recreational activities, indoors and out, provided at the center are doing much to help the youth who make use of them become better potential citizens.

Orville Campbell Nominated President Of Chapel Hill Kiwanis Club for 1956

Orville B. Campbell, general manager of the Weekly and owner of Colonial Press and Colonial Records, Tuesday night was nominated for the presidency of the Chapel Hill Kiwanis club for the calendar year of 1956.

The nominations of club officers will remain open so that other nominees may be presented.

The choir of the Methodist Church elected the following new officers last Sunday: Miss Carla Stancell, president; Mrs. Charles Ann Bell, secretary-treasurer; Miss Betty Marks, publicity chairman, and Nicky Hester and Mrs. Frances Gaines, library co-chairmen. Phil Nelson is the choir director.

Chapel Hill People Return From Miami

Chapel Hill Legionnaires at the annual national convention of the American Legion in Miami, Fla., were Paul Robertson, State Commander of the Legion in North Carolina; Norman F. Jackson, Commander of Chapel Hill Post 6, and Mrs. John Heitman, who attended both as a member of the Legion and President of the Women's Auxiliary of Chapel Hill Post 6. They were accompanied by Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Jackson, and Mr. Heitman.

Concert Series Has Tickets Available

A number of memberships in the Chapel Hill Concert Series are still available, James Davis, chairman of ticket sales, said yesterday.

They may be obtained, he said, until the time of the first concert, next Thursday night, October 27, by Ruggiero Ricci, nationally known concert violinist.

The memberships are available in $5.50, $6.50 and $7.50 denominations, depending on the selection of seats, and will entitle holders to attend all four of the concerts to be sponsored by the Concert Series during the year.

Membership Campaign

Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity of faculty members, graduate students and advanced undergraduates in history is currently conducting a membership drive on the University campus. Vincent H. deP. Cassidy, a member of the Library staff, is president of the fraternity this year.

Three Old Apple Trees on a Hill That Wasn't Lonely

By Ina B. Forbus

The hill is a steep rise in a grain field. We see it every time we come in or go out of our driveway. We see it when we walk up the dirt road leading to the neighboring farms. The three apple trees had stood at the top of the hill for more than anyone around here could remember. They were gnarled. Their apples were neither large nor sweet. But to bite into one of them, carefully avoiding the wasp or bee that might also be tasting the fruit, was a crunchy, juicy delight.

Chapel Hill People Return From Miami

Mr. Robertson and Mr. McKee will conduct a meeting to be held here Sunday at the Carolina Inn for the discussion of Legion membership procedure.

Roses on Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose are on vacation this week. They were expected to make a trip to the mountains, and they planned to go to Fayetteville to the wedding of Mr. Rose's sister.

Pythians to Get Charter

The newly organized Pythian Lodge of Chapel Hill and Carrboro will receive its charter at ceremonies to be held at 8 p.m. Monday, October 24, at the Lodge's hall in Carrboro. The program will include talks by state and national officials of the order. George Stansbury is Chancellor, Commander of the Lodge.

Plan 'Harvest Bazaar'

The University Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will hold a "Harvest Bazaar" at the Curb Market here November 9. The bazaar is to raise funds for the chapter's charities.

Attend Library Meet

Miss Lucille Kelling, dean of the School of Library Science at the University, and four other faculty members—Miss Margaret E. Kalp, Miss Jean Freeman, Robert A. Miller, and Carlisle J. Frayer—are attending the biennial meeting of the North Carolina Library Association in High Point.

Ridgefield Hearing Slated for Monday Before Aldermen

Owners of the new Ridgefield real estate development east of Chapel Hill are scheduled to appear at a public hearing before the Board of Aldermen Monday night and make another appeal for annexation.

Annexation of the 20-acre area has been turned down by the board's finance committee. Town Manager Thomas Rose has said that the area is too far from the town's limits to give it satisfactory police, fire and garbage collection service. Town vehicles would have to drive more than a mile outside the town limits to service the area, he said.

However, owners of the development contend that the town would profit from the annexation in bringing in more property subject to ad valorem taxes. The annexation, they said, would, in the near future, add at least $250,000 to the total property evaluation for tax purposes.

The owners, Herb Wentworth, Bernice Ward, Bill Sloan, and Whid Powell, are proposing the annexation with the offer that they will install sewer lines and pave streets for the first 25 lots of the 86 lot area.

Under the proposal the town would not pay for maintenance of the sewer lines until the property evaluation of the area reaches $250,000. Then the town would take over the lines for maintenance and pay the owners a maximum of $15,000.

The development owners opposed the suggestion that they wait and be annexed with other areas such as Greenwood, Glen Lennox and Oakwood. These areas, they said, already have sewer lines, and will get fire protection under the fire district for the southeastern area outside town. Therefore, they added, the area would not now be interested in annexation.

The owners said although the area is not adjacent to the town limits, its annexation would still be legal since the town and the area border a public highway, U.S. 15-501.

Chapel Hill Chaff

J. J.

We've finally learned why it takes so long to get griddle cakes on Sunday morning at the Carolina Inn cafeteria. Jim Waller told us. He says it's the fault of North Carolina's Democratic administration.

A man who ate breakfast with Mr. Waller at the Inn cafeteria last Sunday went down the line when the doors opened at 8 o'clock but had to wait till 8:25 for a bus boy to bring his cakes. By then his coffee and sausage were stone cold. It's that way every Sunday, said the cake eater, adding that the explanation given him was that the batter wasn't ready or the griddle wasn't hot when the place opened.

"The scrambled eggs and the fried ham and the grits and everything else are always ready when they open," he complained. "I don't see why they can't have the batter and griddle ready too."

"I can tell you in one word," Mr. Waller said. "Socialism. This hotel is owned by the State, and the State is run by the Democrats. They believe in socialism, and socialism doesn't give a hang about the individual customer and his complaints. If this were a privately-owned cafeteria, as it would be under the Republicans, you can bet you wouldn't sit here every Sunday morning waiting for your griddle cakes."

Back in 1939 the Carolina Playmakers gave a production of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town." A local version of the same play appeared soon afterwards. The story had been considerably doctored for the movie. The changes included a supposedly happy ending which had

Many Appointments Are Made to Jobs In Chest Campaign

James H. Peace, principal of the Northside Elementary School, has been named associate chairman of the Chapel Hill Community Chest by Judge William S. Stewart, chairman of the Community Council.

Mr. Peace will direct the activities of the Negro community in the November 1-9 Chest Drive for $25,733 for the nine Chapel Hill agencies.

A native of Chapel Hill, Mr. Peace finished high school here, and took undergraduate and graduate work at North Carolina College in Durham. He served three and one-half years in the United States Marine Corps before taking the position at the Northside School.

Ten group chairmen for the commercial district drive being conducted by the Chapel Hill Jaycees have been named by William R. Cherry, commercial district chairman.

These 10 will supervise the solicitation and collection in the commercial area with the actual solicitation being done by the entire Jaycee membership. The

Wildcats, Oxford To Clash Tonight In Carrboro Park

Oxford and Chapel Hill High School renew their football wars at the Carrboro Club Park tonight (Friday) at 8 o'clock.

Both teams have approximately the same won-loss record, although Chapel Hill has won one more conference game than Oxford. But they will go into the game on about even terms.

Coach Bob Cutton, however, is looking for the visiting eleven to attempt a walloping of the local club, for it was from Oxford that the Wildcats' mentor came after serving as coach there for nine years. "There'll be a lot of Oxford people over here for the game," he said yesterday, "and I look for them to try to spring something. However, we're ready. The boys are looking good in practice sessions this week, and we're in good physical shape."

The conditioning remarks, however, did not include the fact that Dwight Moody, out with an injured shoulder, and Wayne Poe, who suffered a broken nose in an automobile accident Monday night, are probably lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Tommy Goodrich will be back at his starting fullback position.

'Let's Listen to Opera'

"Let's Listen to Opera," the weekly opera program over WUNC-FM will be heard tonight (Friday) at 8 o'clock with Maria Callas singing the title role of "La Tosca." Norman Cordon, program commentator, said that Miss Callas is one of today's truly great prima donnas. She will be supported by Giuseppe di Stefano and Tito Gobbi. Victor de Sabata is the conductor of the chorus and orchestra of La Scala Opera House where this presentation was recorded.

Warrants Have Been Issued For Persons Who Refuse to Pay Their Parking Tickets; They Can Settle Out of Court

After numerous warnings, the Police Department this week carried out its threat to issue warrants for the arrest of persons who have repeatedly refused to pay fines for parking violations in town and on the University campus.

Officers Began Serving an Undisclosed Number of Warrants Tuesday After Mrs. Fred Howdy, Town Traffic Clerk, Showed them out before Recorder's Court Clerk B. J. Howard.

Mrs. Howdy said the warrants were issued for the arrest of violators who have received and refused to pay for three or more tickets. All warrants, except one for downtown parking, were issued for violation of University parking regulations, such as parking on the campus during unauthorized hours, she said.

Judge William Stewart gave Mr. Howard permission to allow the violators to settle out of court, but specified that they would be required to pay $7.80 in court costs in addition to the fines for parking violations.

Violators wishing to take their cause to court were required to put up a $25 bond for appearance at the next term of court beginning Monday. The Judge, however, in deciding the case, has authority to fine the violator at his discretion, in addition to requiring payment of court costs and the amount of tickets.

Mrs. Howdy said the largest number of unpaid parking tickets for which a warrant was issued by Wednesday was 18. Some violators who did not receive warrants this week hold more than 18 unpaid tickets, she said. Warrants for their arrest will be issued in the near future unless they voluntarily pay their fines.

Mrs. Howdy said the step taken by the police department should be no surprise to the violators since she has sent each one a letter saying a warrant for his arrest would be issued unless he paid for his violations.
