Here are photographs taken at random during the past few weeks of some of the local activities and agencies your Community Chest funds support. In the first picture are members of the Senior Y-Teens, shown at a meeting in the basement of the Methodist Church, making tray favors for patients at Memorial

Humane Society. Then come the Cub Scouts, representing all local Scouting activities which are supported by the Chest. The Cubs, shown making stools for their den room, are, left to right, Kirk Hamilton, Clay Jones and John Allen Hurlbut, all members of Den 830 of Pack 2. The last picture shows Alice Smith and Glenn Davis using the facilities of the Mary Bayley Pratt Library at the Chapel Hill elementary school. To support these agencies, $25,733 must be raised in the current campaign which continues through November 9.

Roxboro Rolls Over 'Cats by 32-12 Score

By Clyde Campbell
The Roxboro Rockets rolled over Chapel Hill for an easy 32-12 victory Friday night in Roxboro.

Roxboro halfback Johnny Morris scored the only tally in the first quarter from one yard out to cap a 71-yard scoring drive by the Rockets, featuring the running of fullback Jerry Clayton.

In the second quarter Roxboro guard Billy Long intercepted a Chapel Hill pass on the Rockets' 49 to set up the second Roxboro touchdown. Jimmy Green plunged over from the one.

Quarterback Billy Strum hit end Jimmy Edwards with a 25-yard scoring aerial for Roxboro's second score of the quarter. Roy Russell's extra point attempt was good.

Roxboro took over on the Chapel Hill 18 after a bad pass from center on fourth down. Green went 18 yards to score on the first play after the Rockets got possession of the ball.

The halftime score was in Roxboro's favor, 25-0.

Chapel Hill scored its first of two third quarter tallies after tackle Tommy Hogan fell on a free ball at the Roxboro 20-yard line. Halfback Jimmy Turner went 10 yards for the score.

Green scored the last Roxboro drive from the one after a 40-yard drive. Russell kicked his second PAT.

After an exchange of fumbles on the Roxboro 9, quarterback Rudy Barker scored the final Wildcat tally on an option play from the one.

Tommy Goodrich was the big man for the Chapel Hill backfield. Line play was led by Richard Gunter and Tommy Hogan.

Cast Is Announced for Playmaker Show

In his review of the first production of "The Rainmaker," Brooks Atkinson, dean of American theatre critics, said "Nothing so original and jovial has turned up on our stages for a long time." The delightful N. Richard Nash comedy will be the Carolina Playmakers' second production of the season, and will follow its appearance in Chapel Hill, November 9 through 13, with a tri-state tour.

The story takes place during a paralyzing drought in the West, and revolves about a plain girl whose father and two brothers are as worried about her becoming an old maid as they are about their dying cattle. When the glib, refreshing comedian, Starbuck, suddenly appears, he not only convinces the plain girl that every woman is pretty—if she is a real woman.

The role of Lizzie, the plain girl whose father and two brothers are trying to marry her off, is played by Louise Fletcher, of Birmingham, Ala., who is entering her second year as a Playmaker. Her two brothers, one a dreamer, the other too practical, are played by veteran Playmakers James Sechrest, of Thomasville, and Charles Barrett, of Hickory. Lizzie's father, who is equally concerned over his daughter's situation, is portrayed by William Casstevens, of Yadkinville.

Starbuck, the glib and persuasive young "rainmaker" who brings fulfillment to the Curry household, is James Heldman, of Durham and Chapel Hill, who played the male lead in the Playmakers' opening production this season, "Ondine." The role of File, the woman-shy deputy whom Lizzie would like to handcuff, is filled by Ken Lowry, of Troy, Ohio, who has spent the past summer with the Myrtle Beach Playhouse, Carl Williams, of Charlotte, who acted in "Ondine" and was stage manager for that production, is the Sheriff seeking outlaw Starbuck. Stage manager for the production is Lewis Goldstein, of Baltimore, Md., who directed the lighting for "Ondine," and June Eschweiler, of Parma, Ohio, is again master electrician; John Cagle, of Hickory, is designing sets and lighting, and James Sechrest and Sue Whetstone are in charge of costumes and makeup.

Chapel Hill Chaff J. J.

The other day an attractive, vivacious, and pregnant young woman came in the office and said she was conducting a survey in Chapel Hill and would we mind answering three simple questions. Somehow, without saying so, she gave the impression that she was a local woman working for a local organization.

She rattled gaily on for four or five minutes before she gave herself away by asking the first question. It was, "What features do you like best in the Saturday Evening Post and Newsweek?"

"We didn't let her waste enough of our time to ask the next question, which certainly would have been, "How would you like to subscribe to these magazines?"

On the way out she paused in the front office to try her luck with Mrs. Harden, our bookkeeper, who asked to see her card. This she readily produced. It gave her headquarters as Fort Worth, Texas.

We were reminded of the young woman's visit by the following letter received today from a Weekly reader in Glen Lennox:

"We think you might want to let people know there is a new twist to the hard-to-get-rid-of door-to-door salesperson. Today a woman let herself into my living room without knocking. The door was open since the weather was warm. She was so nicely dressed and refined looking that I thought surely she was somebody I was supposed to know paying a social call.

"By the time she unwound and told me her business I had lost a good bit of time and most of my patience. She was selling an inferior looking (at least to me)

The Community Chest Drive for $25,733 for 1956 operating funds for nine Chapel Hill agencies officially gets under way today. It will run through Wednesday, November 9.

Groups of volunteer workers divided into Residential Division, under Mrs. Walter Spearman; Campus Division, headed by Roy Armstrong; and Negro Division, under the direction of James H. Peace, will start their solicitation of homes and campus offices Tuesday.

The Commercial District group, responsibility for which is in the hands of the Jaycees, will open its solicitation on Thursday. William R. Cherry is captain of this group, aided by Jaycee members.

The Special Gifts Division, headed jointly by D. D. Carroll and Crowell Little, has been working for 10 days seeking special gifts.

$25,733 is the amount needed to make our calls promptly and by following up on those who are away at the time of our first calls," J. A. Branch, general chairman, said as the 1956 Drive opened.

"Chapel Hillians want to take care of their own. This year's drive is concentrated on nine agencies all of which are local. We should stress this fact in our presentations. I feel certain that every individual approached will want to contribute to the support of these agencies," Mr. Branch emphasized.

Agencies approved for the 1956 Community Chest funds by the Evaluation Committee and the Executive Committee of the Community Council are:

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Holmes Day Nursery, Humane Society, Negro Community Center, Recreation Center, Mary Bayley Pratt Library, Peter Garvin Memorial Library, and Y-Teens.

Volunteer workers are asked by Mr. Branch to report daily to their lieutenants and captains. First general report will be due Thursday. The importance of prompt reporting was stressed by the general chairman so that the drive may reach a successful conclusion in the November 1-9 period.
