

Weekly Takes a First Prize for Feature Articles

—Photos by Chuck Hauser

Joe Jones (right), managing editor of the Weekly, and Governor Luther Hodges are shown in Carroll Hall on the University campus Thursday night immediately after the Governor presented Mr. Jones with a plaque signifying that the Weekly had won first prize among semi-weekly newspapers in the state for excellence of feature articles.

For having had the best feature stories printed by a North Carolina semi-weekly newspaper in 1955, the Chapel Hill Weekly won first place in that category of the annual newspaper contests sponsored by the North Carolina Press Association, which held its 31st annual Midwinter Institute here Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Governor Luther Hodges announced the winners and presented the awards at ceremonies held Thursday evening in the auditorium of Carroll Hall. The Weekly's award was received by Managing Editor Joe Jones.

Judging was based on the general excellence of the features in four copies of newspapers submitted by each contestant. The jury was composed of four newspapermen known only to Walter Spearman of the University's Journalism School, who managed the contests for the Association.

Most of the features in the four papers submitted by the Weekly were written by J. A. C. Dunn and Chuck Hauser. Although the first place award is not given for any one story, but for general excellence in the category, the judges gave special praise to Mr. Dunn's story about his accompanying a Chapel Hill milkman on a delivery route. This story is reprinted on page six of this issue. The bulletin listing the judges' comments on the results of the contests said:

"First place to the Chapel Hill Weekly for an astonishing number of good, bright, very well written features. Commendable imagination, resourcefulness and initiative in seeking out stories. Any reporter who rises from his bed, as J. A. C. Dunn did, to ride with the milkman and report the look of the town in the first

Chapel Hillnotes

Collegiate excitement reaching new peaks at the late show as Carolina Theatre mistakenly films expurgated scenes from French movie in its previews of coming attractions.

Village children discovering what a radio looks like as their parents set up equipment for enjoying "broadvised" basketball games from Woolen Gymnasium.

The University's acting president-elect Bill Friday amused as he is referred to as "Doctor" Friday by Duke University Controller A. S. Brower at press institute dinner session.

gray of dawning is rising above the call of duty." Other winners in this category were the Stanly News and Press, second place, and the Morganton News-Herald, third place.

The Chapel Hill News Leader was third in the Photography category, which was won by the Richmond County Journal of Rockingham, with the Elkin Tribune second. The Smithfield Herald took first place in both other categories, news coverage and editorial page. Other winners were the Morganton News-Herald, second, and the Carteret County News-Times, third, for editorial page, and the Elkin Tribune, second, and the

Carrboro Community Needs, Specially Recreation, Will Be Discussed Tonight

Fathers of Carrboro school children, and all other men interested in the community, are invited to a special program being held for them by the Carrboro Parent-Teachers Association at 7:30 this (Tuesday) evening in the Carrboro School's Cafeteria. "Community Needs and Opportunities" will be the topic of this special program for men, with special emphasis on recreation needs and facilities. R. E. Jamerson of the University's Department of Physical Education will speak and lead an open discussion. Others present will include Boy Scout leaders and men who helped put on the Little League baseball program last summer.

Arrangements for refreshments are being made by a committee composed of Doug Hard-

Ann Bell Speaks To Beta Sigma Phi

Miss Ann Bell gave a talk on "Music Appreciation" last Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Beta Zeta Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority at the home of Miss Rudie Clark on Chapel Hill Route 2. The program also included a short business session and the serving of refreshments.

Other members present were Mrs. James Durham, Mrs. George Tracy, Miss Eva Mae Hill, Mrs. E. E. Shannon, Mrs. Ernest Rackley, Mrs. Donald Hrabak, Miss Mary Calloway, Mrs. Troy Sluder, Mrs. Richard Lee, Mrs. Hugh Horton, and Mrs. Walter Horton.

Also present was a guest, Miss Betty Snyder.

Examinations Under Way
Final examinations for the fall semester are now under way at the University and will end Friday. Spring semester classes will begin Wednesday, February 1.

Gift From Exchange Club
The Exchange Club's board of control has voted to allocate $125 of the club's funds to the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Little League baseball program this year.

Whiteville News-Reporter, third, in news coverage.

The Weekly has been fortunate in having such a talented writer as J. A. C. Dunn on its staff. A University student from Charleston, S. C., he worked for us last summer and had to quit for a while this winter to give more time to his studies, but he will rejoin the staff next month. A short story by Mr. Dunn was published last spring in the Saturday Evening Post.

The first-place plaque and certificate received by the Weekly are on display in a show window of the J. B. Robbins store.

Public Invited to Hear School Panel

A panel discussion on community education will be held at an open meeting of the Junior Service League at 2:30 this (Tuesday) afternoon at the Episcopal Parish House. Mrs. Arthur Fink, president of the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters, will be the moderator.

Sender Candidate For Lion Governor

Lloyd M. Sender, a Carrboro druggist, is being presented by the Carrboro Lions Club as a candidate for the office of district governor of the new Middle Carolina Lions District 31-G. His name will go before the state convention at Carolina Beach in June.

Mr. Sender has a 10-year perfect attendance record, has twice been president and four times secretary of the Carrboro club. He has also been zone chairman and served two years as deputy district governor.

The new district will include Orange and ten surrounding counties with 30 clubs and more than 1,500 members.

Senior Citizens' Column

(Editor's note: The following article on "Education for Later Maturity" is the second in a series being written for the Weekly by senior citizens about senior citizens.)

By W. Carson Ryan
Kenan Professor of Education University of North Carolina

How can people fairly along in life—say in the fifties or over—get ready for the years that come after? What kind of education should they have?

This is the question Wilma Donahue and her associates attempt to answer in their recent book, "Education for Later Maturity" (New York, William Morrow, 1955. 338 pp., $4.50). The authors point out that the long-desired goal of longer life, with more and more men and women living in the seventh and eighth decade of life, has brought with it an ironic tragedy:

"Many older persons living today are unhappy and bewildered. Some are bitter and resentful. For the most part they feel iso-

Two Villagers Get Top Award Given To Scout Leaders

Two Chapel Hillians have been awarded the highest honor which can be given to adult leaders in the Boy Scouts of America organization. The local men were Jim Wadsworth and the Rev. Charles Hubbard, and the award was the Silver Beaver.

The awards were made at the Annual Recognition Dinner of the Occoneechee Council of the Boy Scouts, held in Lenoir Hall at the University on Thursday evening.

There are 12 counties in the Occoneechee Council, and a total of seven Silver Beavers were awarded at the dinner for the Council area, so it was considered quite a compliment to Chapel Hill and its Scout leaders that two of the seven awards went to village residents.

It was also announced at the dinner that three Chapel Hillians will hold important committee chairmanships for the Occoneechee Council during the coming year. They are Mr. Hubbard, "Boy's Life" chairman; Roy Armstrong, camping chairman; and W. D. Carmichael Jr., finance chairman.

Other persons who received the Silver Beaver awards were Brigadier General Pearson Menoher of Southern Pines, E. M. Herndon of Durham, Charles S. Pinkston of Fayetteville, J. Glenn Morris of Siler City, and Carl A. Harris of Louisville.

Al Resch, newspaper publisher from Siler City, mentioned to Weekly staff members at the Midwinter Press Institute here over the weekend that the two Chapel Hillians had received the awards, and he said of all the honors he had received for various activities during his life, he considered the Silver Beaver his most cherished award. He said Chapel Hill should feel highly honored that two of its residents had received the award in a single year.

State Regent Will Talk to DAR Here

Mrs. Roy H. Cagle of Asheville, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will address the January meeting of the DAR here tomorrow (Wednesday). The meeting will be a luncheon gathering at the Carolina Inn, beginning at 12:45 p.m.

W. S. C. S. Workshop

A workshop session for the officers and members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the new Aldersgate Methodist Church will be held at 8 p.m. this (Tuesday) evening at the Glenwood Elementary School. Four women from the W. S. C. S. of the University Methodist Church will be present to acquaint the Aldersgate officers and members with the workings of a W. S. C. S. organization. This group of four will be led by Mrs. Frank Hanft, who will be assisted by Mrs. W. P. Pierson, Mrs. E. E. Peacock, and Mrs. J. S. Henninger.

Studies on St. Augustine

A series of studies on St. Augustine are being given at the Baptist Church's Tuesday evening family suppers by the Rev. Samuel Habel, pastor of the church. Mr. Habel opened the series last Thursday with a discussion of St. Augustine's life. At this week's supper he will discuss St. Augustine's books, "The City of God" and "The Confessions of St. Augustine." The supper begins at 6:30 and is followed by the study period.

Friday Gives Talk
William Friday, acting president of the University, spoke Thursday in Durham at the January dinner meeting of the Durham unit of the National Secretaries Association. His topic was "The Role and Function of the University of North Carolina." He was introduced by Mrs. Edward Sloax.

Borrow Supply Of Salk Vaccine

The District Health Office has borrowed some Salk polio vaccine from other counties and has urged Chapel Hill area children under 14 to report to the office within the next two weeks for first or second shots.

"The supply is definitely limited," said a representative of the office, "and we're asking everyone to come down this week." The office is open on Thursday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Dr. O. David Garvin, the district health officer, said shots will be given free to qualified children as long as the supply lasts. The office had exhausted its supply of vaccine, until it was able to borrow a stock from other counties where it was available.

Lawtons Leave to Return to Madison

The Gerald Lawtons, who have been occupying the Lee Brooks house, left yesterday to return to their home in Madison, Wisconsin. Dr. and Mrs. John Cassel are moving into the Brooks house.

A farewell coffee hour given for Mrs. Lawton by Mrs. David Monroe was attended by Mrs. W. W. Cort, Mrs. Daniel A. Okun, Mrs. S. N. Roy, Mrs. Raj Chandra Bose, Mrs. Hugh Bryan, Mrs. H. C. Hurlburt, and Mrs. John G. Kunstmann.

The Lawtons were honored at a party for students in the University Public Health School's department of sanitary engineering. The event was sponsored by Mrs. Daniel Okun, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Granstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Chanlett, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Kelso.

Auxiliary to Meet Tomorrow Evening

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Chapel Hill American Legion Post will meet at the home of Mrs. Norman F. Jackson at 12 Justice Street tomorrow (Wednesday) night at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Jackson will direct the program, the theme of which is "Scholarships." Members desiring transportation may phone Mrs. John Keller, the co-hostess, at 9-6591.

Public Invited to Hear School Panel

A panel discussion on community education will be held at an open meeting of the Junior Service League at 2:30 this (Tuesday) afternoon at the Episcopal Parish House. Mrs. Arthur Fink, president of the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters, will be the moderator.

W. S. C. S. Workshop

A workshop session for the officers and members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the new Aldersgate Methodist Church will be held at 8 p.m. this (Tuesday) evening at the Glenwood Elementary School. Four women from the W. S. C. S. of the University Methodist Church will be present to acquaint the Aldersgate officers and members with the workings of a W. S. C. S. organization. This group of four will be led by Mrs. Frank Hanft, who will be assisted by Mrs. W. P. Pierson, Mrs. E. E. Peacock, and Mrs. J. S. Henninger.

Senior Citizens' Column

(Editor's note: The following article on "Education for Later Maturity" is the second in a series being written for the Weekly by senior citizens about senior citizens.)

By W. Carson Ryan
Kenan Professor of Education University of North Carolina

How can people fairly along in life—say in the fifties or over—get ready for the years that come after? What kind of education should they have?

This is the question Wilma Donahue and her associates attempt to answer in their recent book, "Education for Later Maturity" (New York, William Morrow, 1955. 338 pp., $4.50). The authors point out that the long-desired goal of longer life, with more and more men and women living in the seventh and eighth decade of life, has brought with it an ironic tragedy:

"Many older persons living today are unhappy and bewildered. Some are bitter and resentful. For the most part they feel iso-

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.
I have a malady that I have named coviditis. It means covering papers with other papers. All sorts of papers: memoranda, clippings, letters, manuscripts, solicitations, bills, circulars, everything. They accumulate in piles on the desk and the table in my workroom (which you can call a study if you like a more elegant name), and they overflow upon chairs, and then they overflow into rooms where they've got no business to be. What luck that the consort is indulgent about that!

Every now and then I have a cleaning-up spasm. When this happens I clean up backwards; that is, I start at the farthest point in the house where I have piled up my stuff and proceed toward my room. Toward, not always to, because sometimes I get so tired of cleaning-up that I just say to-hell-with-it-I'll-put-it-off-till-some-other-time.

If you think that the habit of keeping papers in order reflects prissiness and is apt to be accompanied by a prosy, pedestrian kind of writing, you are badly mistaken. Many a writer known for his imagination and humor and lively style works in a neat, orderly room where he can lay his hands instantly on anything he wants. And the man who does his writing in a room whose disorderly "atmosphere" suggests bohemianism and a gay abandon is as apt as not to turn out a commonplace, run-of-the-mine product.

I envy persons who have the sense and decency to keep their papers in good order. But nothing comes of the resolutions I am always making to keep mine that way. Evidently all that will help me is some kind of a miracle. I wish the next

(Continued on page 2)

UNC Summer Term Dates Announced

Dates for the 1956 Summer Session at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill have been released by Director Guy B. Phillips, along with other preliminary details for the two six-week terms.

First term registration is set for June 7-8, with classes meeting first on June 9. The first term concludes on July 14, and second term opens two days later and runs through August 22.

Director Phillips predicted that the trend in recent years of rising summer enrollments will continue during 1956. He noted that the 1955 summer school attracted 2939 students during the first term and 2271 during the second.

A number of scholarships and fellowships will be available again this year for summer study.

At Washington Meeting

Colonel Robert Burns, commanding officer of the University's Naval ROTC, went to Washington, D. C., yesterday to attend a meeting of a selection board.

New Science Program Goes on WUNC-TV

North Carolina's rocks and minerals will be studied by the State's junior high school students on a new in-school television program WUNC-TV inaugurated yesterday (Monday).

James E. Wadsworth, housing director at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and formerly a science teacher at Durham High School, provided instruction in the new offering sponsored by the UNC School of Education.

Entitled "The Science of Nature," the new program is designed for students in grades 7-10. Mr. Wadsworth discussed rocks and minerals, emphasizing North Carolina gems.

Immediately following the new science show, student viewers saw "A Career For You" at 2 p.m., with two guest speakers being interviewed by Chapel Hill High School seniors Mary Shepard and Teddy Moore.

N. C. Development Corporation Will Be Explained at Dinner Meeting Here Thursday Night

The N. C. Business Development Corporation, conceived by Governor Hodges to increase the state's per capita income through attracting small industries to North Carolina, will be explained at a dinner meeting here Thursday night.

Letters inviting prospective purchasers of stock to attend the dinner at the Pines, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, were mailed during the weekend by the Chapel Hill Jaycees. The Jaycees have been asked by the Governor to attempt to sell $200,000 worth of stock in the $1,000,000 corporation.

The dinner will be paid for by an anonymous friend of the corporation, according to the letter signed by Collier Cobb III, chairman, and Gran Childress, president, of the local Jaycees.

The letter of invitation follows in part: "The Business Development Corp. of North Carolina was chartered and given the authority to sell $1,000,000 in stock. Collier Cobb, Jr. of Chapel Hill is the only Orange County resident among the original incorporators.

"The Corporation will be able to borrow an additional sum of $9,000,000 and make long term loans to businessmen who might not otherwise be able to borrow money to start a new industry. In this way more industries and more payrolls benefit us all.

"Over $800,000 of the stock has been subscribed. Governor Hodges has asked the N. C. Jaycees to attempt to sell the balance of the stock. It is the Governor's idea that many persons buy this stock in small sums so that interest in the Corporation will be widespread. The stock sells for $10.00 per share. It is a good investment.

"We would like to invite you to a dinner at the Pines Restaurant at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 26. At this time, John Neal of Greensboro will explain all of the details of the development plan.

"In case you have any questions concerning the dinner meeting, you may call Mr. Collier Cobb, Jr. or Colby Cobb at 8472 or Gran Childress at 91531."

Faculty Club Luncheon
James W. Patton, professor of history and director of the Southern Historical Collection at the University, will talk about the Collection at a luncheon meeting of the University Faculty Club at 1 o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon at the Carolina Inn.

Benefit Cage Game Scheduled Tonight

A basketball game for the benefit of the March of Dimes campaign will be played at Woolen Gym tonight (Tuesday), starting at 8 o'clock. It is sponsored by the Chapel Hill Post of the American Legion.

The game will be between the Chapel Hill Athletic Club's team, to be known as the Blue Crutch team, and a team of University students recruited by Will Frye. It will be known as the Iron Lung team.

W. Carson Ryan Is Co-Author of Book

W. Carson Ryan, Kenan professor of education at the University of North Carolina, is one of the authors of a new book, "Evaluation in Mental Health," prepared by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mr. Ryan served as a member of a sub-committee that prepared the publication. Other members of the group were Dr. Maurice H. Greenhill, professor of psychiatry, University of Maryland Medical School, chairman; Lyman S. Ford, associate executive director, Community Chests and Councils of America, New York City; Willard C. Olson, dean, School of Education, University of Michigan; Samuel Whitman, executive director, Cleveland Mental Health Association; and Dr. Harold M. Skeels, liaison staff member, Community Services Branch, National Institute of Mental Health.

Sale of the book is being handled by the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Weiss Family Here
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weiss have moved here from Baltimore and are living at 8 Brandon Road. Mr. Weiss is a visiting professor in the sanitary engineering department of the University's School of Public Health.

Miss Saunders Honored
Mrs. A. H. Shepard and Mrs. R. W. Madry gave a tea in honor of Miss Eleanor Saunders last Saturday afternoon at Mrs. Shepard's home on West University Drive.