

Two Candidates in Senate Race

John Manning (left), Chapel Hill attorney, and Ed Hamlin, Hillsboro newspaper publisher, are the first two candidates to formally announce for the vacant Orange-Alamance seat in the State Senate. Political observers predict a heated campaign, with a much larger field expected than just the two men who have jumped into the race so far.

Operation of Local Schools Is Being Studied by Interracial Fellowship

Studies in the operation of the local School Board under current state education laws and on the effects of desegregation on school costs were launched here Thursday evening at a meeting of the Chapel Hill Interracial Fellowship for the Schools. The group also decided to begin plans for interracial work with children and young people's groups, and to publish a monthly bulletin to report these activities and to summarize news of progress towards integration elsewhere in North Carolina and the South.

Legion Post to Receive Honors

The Chapel Hill Post of the American Legion will be presented with a special Certificate of Distinguished Service at a meeting tomorrow (Wednesday) night at 8 o'clock at the Legion Hut here. Jake Nurkin of Durham, chairman of the state and national membership and past activities committee, will make the presentation. The local post is being honored for re-enrolling a 1956 membership equal to the 1955 membership.

Dieticians to Meet

George S. Abshier, State College extension specialist in consumer marketing, will address a meeting of the Chapel Hill-Durham Dietetic Association at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) in the School of Nursing Auditorium at Memorial Hospital. His topic will be "The Nation's Food Supply." The meeting is open to all dieticians and nutritionists and all others interested in the subject.

Wildcats to Play Two Games Away

Now in fourth place in Class AA District Three conference, Chapel Hill High School's basketball team takes on both Oxford and Hillsboro High Schools this week. Neither of the games, to be Tuesday and Friday nights respectively, will be played here. The Wildcats apparently recovered from a siege of injuries that caused them to drop three games in a row. Last Friday night they defeated Graham with Gordon Neville back in the line-up and scoring 17 points. Coach Bob Culton has a strong team when not beset by injuries, and maybe the Wildcats can advance in the standings this week. They have beaten both Oxford and Hillsboro in earlier games. In last Friday night's game against Graham, the Wildcats returned to the victory column with a 56-49 victory. In addition to Neville's 17 points, Jim Doshier and Merle Teague, both starters, followed up with 15 and 10 points, respectively. In the preliminary game, the Graham girls captured a 51-30 win over the Chapel Hill girls' team.

Pat Preston Hired As Grid Assistant

Pat Preston, former athletic director at Wake Forest College, has been hired as assistant football coach at the University. He is regarded as one of the all-time great linemen at both Duke and Wake Forest College. Mr. Preston is the fourth assistant to be named to Coach Jim Tatum's staff. The other three, Ed Kensler, Emmett Cheek and Eddie Teague were all Tatum assistants at Maryland. Mr. Tatum said he will hire one more varsity assistant. Speculation is that it will be Felix (Doc) Blanchard, a cousin of Mr. Tatum and former great Army All-American fullback. Meantime, the University of South Carolina announced it had employed Ralph Floyd, freshman coach here for the past two years. Marvin Bass, another former side here, was employed by the Gamecocks several weeks ago.

'Football Road' Is To Be Completed Starting in March

It wasn't known whether the hiring of Jim Tatum as the University's football coach had anything to do with it or not, but the State Highway Commission announced over the weekend that the Chapel Hill-Durham "football road" will have its second lane paved as soon as warm weather arrives.

The final grading and paving of the remainder of the dual-lane boulevard will get under way "probably around the middle of March," according to John W. Thompson Sr., president of the Thompson-Arthur Paving Company of Greensboro, which was awarded the contract by the Highway Commission. Mr. Thompson said he expected the work to be finished in late August or early September.

Highway Commission Chairman Sandy Graham said the surface of the second lane will be similar to the present surface of the existing road.

The Commission had twice before rejected bids for paving the 5.5-mile strip as "too high." The Thompson bid was $292,757.20. The low bidder on the previous two occasions was the Nello L. Teer Construction Company, which paved the original half of the boulevard. Last March, Teer offered a bid of $433,902.25.

Bartholomew Heads Local News Office

Robert Bartholomew has resigned from the staff of the University News Bureau to become director of the Durham Herald's Chapel Hill bureau, replacing Hank Messick. An alumnus of the University, Mr. Bartholomew had worked for the University News Bureau since last April. Before that he was on the staff of the University Library about three years. He worked for the Chapel Hill Weekly in 1950 and 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew live at 110 Carr Street. Mrs. Bartholomew is employed at Memorial Hospital.

Panel of Foreign Students to Discuss Changing Status of Women Everywhere

A panel of foreign students in the University here will discuss "The Changing Status of Women Throughout the World" at a meeting of the Chapel Hill unit of American Association of University Women at 8 o'clock this (Tuesday) evening in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Planetarium. Preceding the meeting, coffee will be served at 7:30.

All student participants are attending the University on fellowships or grants from their respective countries.

Mrs. Kirsten M. Milbrath, executive director of the University YWCA, will serve as moderator. Although born in Brooklyn, Mrs. Milbrath grew up in Norway. She studied at Oslo University, received an A. B. degree from St. Olaf College, and an M. A. degree from the University of Minnesota. Before coming to Chapel Hill, she taught in the public schools and worked for the Girl Scouts in Nashville, Tennessee.

Miss Milagros Guzman, from San German, Puerto Rico, holds a government scholarship to study in the Department of Psychology. She is a graduate of the Polytechnical Institute, Puerto Rico, and is employed as a test technician for the Office of Personnel. After a year's study in the United States she will return to her position with the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

Dr. R. Vasantina, a specialist in gynecology and obstetrics, is studying for an M. A. degree in public health. Dr. Vasantini received a Ph.D. from the Medical School in Bangalore, India. She was a member of the government of India Project for Family Planning. The fourth member of the panel will be Miss Neora Garfunkel. Born in Danzig, Miss Garfunkel emigrated to Israel in 1936 where she graduated from the Hadassa Nursing School in Jerusalem. She has had experience as a nurse in the Israeli army and is now employed by the Israel State Department of Health. At present she is studying public health nursing at the University.

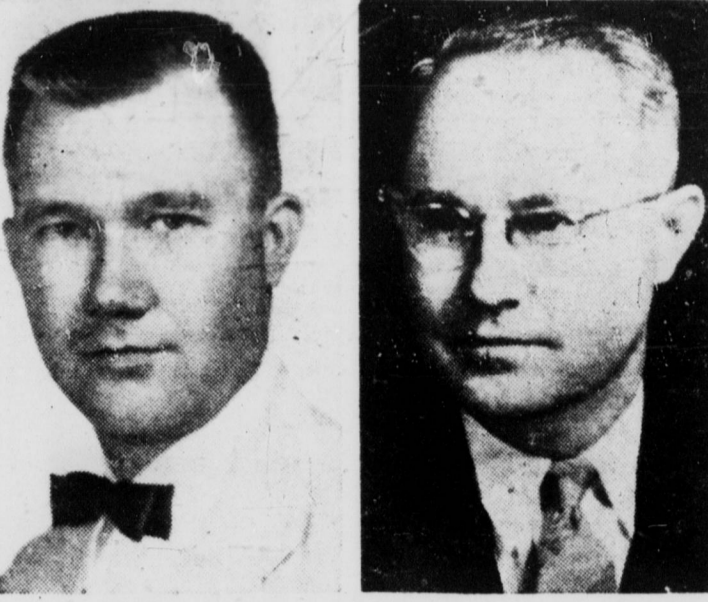

Glenwood Parents To Hear Discussion

"After Glenwood, What?" will be the topic of the Glenwood PTA meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 2, in the school cafeteria. Wesley Noble, principal of the Chapel Hill High School, and Mrs. R. B. Millman, seventh grade teacher in the Junior High School, will describe the education that awaits boys and girls after they finish their sixth grade studies at the Glenwood School.

The teaching of mathematics, English, and foreign languages, the physical education program, guidance facilities, and social activities will be discussed. The educational philosophy, the adequacy of physical plant and teaching faculty, and the degree of success of the schools in preparing students for college will also be described. The meeting is open to the public.

On Way to Alaska Captain and Mrs. Edward P. Didier and their five children, on their way to Alaska, stopped off here to spend the weekend with Mrs. Didier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith. They will live in Anchorage, Alaska, where Captain Didier will be stationed with the U. S. Air Force. The children are Karen, Michael, Jill, Alison, and John Matthew.

Bond Campaign Leaders Meet

Judge William Stewart of Chapel Hill (left) and Remus J. Smith Sr. of Hillsboro, co-chairmen of the two-million dollar-county school bond campaign, met yesterday to begin planning strategy for the March 27 bond election. Mr. Stewart said he and Mr. Smith hoped to announce names of committee chairmen within the next few days.

Research Grants Amounting to $60,000 Are Given to Six University Doctors

He is one of 11 "representatives of disciplines" in the nation serving the Society. His specialty is French literature. Among topics being discussed in New York is the third edition of the Society's publication, "Studies in the Renaissance," published at the University of Texas. John H. Randall Jr. of Columbia University is President of the Renaissance Society of America.

Mr. Bensen and His 'Flivver'

Come, Josephine, in My Flying Machine: 1956 Version

By Chuck Hauser My natural curiosity being what it is, I didn't hesitate a second when Harry Snook stuck his head in the door of my office at the Weekly on Saturday morning and asked me to accompany him to the Raleigh-Durham Airport to take a look at Igor Bensen's latest flying machine. The demonstration was scheduled for 11 o'clock, and it was just that as we reached the airport. Harry dropped me off while he hunted for a parking space, and I strolled out in front of the new terminal building just in time to see a pair of Army two-man helicopters awkwardly soar in for a landing. Helicopters have always intrigued me. Their gawky appearance and their flap-flap-flap sound as they paddle the air and hover a few feet off the ground continue to excite and amaze me as I realize that these strange creatures are man-made and man-controlled and actually fly. Carl Goerch was at a microphone telling everyone about the Bensen Aircraft Corporation, which has headquarters at Raleigh-Durham Airport, and introducing the president of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and a number of

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G. It was my agreeable experience, one day this week, to meet Bertram Colgrave, a member of the faculty of Durham University in England, who has come here as a visiting professor of English for the present semester. He has been going about, in and around the village, and he remarked to me that it made him feel at home to see so many highway signs bearing the name, Durham. Something else that may have reminded him of his home town was the Gothic architecture of Duke University. Whatever differences there may be between the ancient cathedral in Durham, England, and the thirty-year-old chapel at Duke, nevertheless they are kin. Often, when a visitor from afar comes to Chapel Hill, I look in some book to find out something about the place he is from. Thousands of our American family names had their origin in England, and of course I knew that our family named Durham, which gave its name to the city, was one of these. But I didn't know that the name was not originally what it is now until I read these words in the Britannica: "The place was first called Dunholme. It was softened in Norman times to Duresme, whence came Durham."

The next time I see our Congressman, Carl Durham, for whose great-uncle, Dr. Bartlett Durham, the city of Durham was named, I am going to ask him if he knew his original name was Dunholme. My guess is he'll say no. When I said to Mr. Colgrave that last summer on the way from Edinburgh to London my wife and I had a view of Durham's beautiful village, they should do their shopping at home.

The subcommittee, part of the Trade Promotions Committee headed by Carlton Byrd, discussed the following events to be held during the coming year: Feb. 17-18, Dollar Days, under the supervision of O. T. Watkins; May 13, Mother's Day, headed by Mr. Byrd; June Dairy Month, R. B. Todd; June 17, Father's Day, Monk Jennings; July 23, No-Name Special Sales Event Day, Joe Augustine; Aug. 18-19, Dollar Days, Moyle Johnson; University Orientation Week, E. C. Smith; Nov. 23, Christmas Season Opening, Roland Guduz and Sandy McClamroch.

The subcommittee also discussed its campaign to raise money to finance the various trade promotion events throughout the year. A separate fund will be set up so regular Merchants Association funds will not be channeled into the special events. Two groups of merchants, broken down into a number of two-man teams, will be named by Mrs. Jane Whitefield, executive secretary of the association. A contest will be held to see which of the groups can raise the most money for the trade promotion treasury. The losing team will be required to treat the winning team to a steak dinner.

The Chapel Hill Exchange Club will hold a business meeting at the Ranch House tonight (Tuesday), beginning at 7 o'clock.

Tryouts for Playmakers' 'Seventeen'

To Be Held Thursday in Memorial Hall

Tryouts for the Carolina Playmakers' production of Sally Benson's musical comedy, "Seventeen," will be held at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Thursday, February 2, in Memorial Hall. The cast calls for ten principals, including men and women who can sing and a ten-year-old girl, plus a chorus of at least ten women and ten men who can sing and dance. Specialty dances will be needed. Auditioners will be asked to sing a number from any Broadway musical or another song of that type. The tryouts are open to everybody, whether or not they are connected with the University. Based on the novel and later the play of the same name, both by Booth Tarkington, Sally Benson's "Seventeen" appeared on Broadway in 1951. It is a comedy about adolescent love in the first decade of this century. Willie Baxter, moonstruck from the moment he meets cute, blonde, and baby-talking Lola Pratt, goes to hilarious lengths to impress her as he competes with other boys in the neighborhood for her attention. "It is one of the most charming musicals I know," says Thomas Patterson of the Playmakers staff, who will direct the production. "It is not only a good play, but it has music that is exuberant, light, and very melodic." The play will be given March 2, 3, and 4 in Memorial Hall.

Annual Mothers' Polio March Is Scheduled for Tonight; You Are Asked to Leave a Light on

Chapel Hill and Carrboro mothers will make their annual Mothers' March against polio tonight (Tuesday). The house-to-house canvass will begin at 7 o'clock with the sounding of the fire sirens in both Chapel Hill and Carrboro. Last year the Mothers' March collected about $1,000 in contributions, but E. C. Smith, director of the county-wide March of Dimes drive, reports that this figure needs to be tripled in tonight's march if the county goal is to be reached. You are urged to turn on your porch light as a signal for a mother to ring your doorbell to receive your contribution for the battle against polio. "Make certain that light stays on," Mr. Smith urges, "because regardless of the weather the children crippled by infantile paralysis need your support to help them along the road to recovery, and the mothers will be by to pick up your contribution even if it's pouring down rain."

The Mothers' March will be in two parts. Mrs. Orville Campbell is directing the mothers of Chapel Hill and Mrs. Jessie West is in charge of the March in Carrboro. The police station in Chapel Hill will be the headquarters for the Chapel Hill mothers and the Baptist Church in Carrboro will be the other headquarters.

Any family that is missed during the march is requested to call one of the headquarters and a car will be sent out to receive the contribution. In Chapel Hill, the Chapel Hill police department will have squad cars out to pick up the money from the various group captains. The money will be brought to the police station where it will be counted under the direction of Miss Sarah Umstead.

In Carrboro the marching mothers will bring their collections to the Carrboro Baptist Church for counting. Refreshments will be served at the church. Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. West urge all families in Chapel Hill and Carrboro to contribute to the drive. All parents know the value of the work being done by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and this work must be continued, so have your porch light on tonight.

Plans Are Formed For Sales Events

A Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association subcommittee met on Friday night to lay the groundwork for a year of sales and bargain days to convince villagers they should do their shopping at home.

The subcommittee, part of the Trade Promotions Committee headed by Carlton Byrd, discussed the following events to be held during the coming year: Feb. 17-18, Dollar Days, under the supervision of O. T. Watkins; May 13, Mother's Day, headed by Mr. Byrd; June Dairy Month, R. B. Todd; June 17, Father's Day, Monk Jennings; July 23, No-Name Special Sales Event Day, Joe Augustine; Aug. 18-19, Dollar Days, Moyle Johnson; University Orientation Week, E. C. Smith; Nov. 23, Christmas Season Opening, Roland Guduz and Sandy McClamroch.

The subcommittee also discussed its campaign to raise money to finance the various trade promotion events throughout the year. A separate fund will be set up so regular Merchants Association funds will not be channeled into the special events.

Two groups of merchants, broken down into a number of two-man teams, will be named by Mrs. Jane Whitefield, executive secretary of the association. A contest will be held to see which of the groups can raise the most money for the trade promotion treasury. The losing team will be required to treat the winning team to a steak dinner.

The Chapel Hill Exchange Club will hold a business meeting at the Ranch House tonight (Tuesday), beginning at 7 o'clock.

Baptists Schedule Five-Day Revival

A five-night revival will be held at the Chapel Hill Baptist Church from February 27 to March 2, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Samuel Tilden Habel, pastor. The Rev. Edward Hughes Prudden, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Washington, D. C., will preach. He was President Truman's pastor for several years, is active in the Baptist World Alliance and was formerly president of the American Baptist Convention.

Attend Gift Market Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, proprietors of the University Florist, have been in New York attending the annual Midwinter Gift Market.

Dill to Speak at Bull's Head Tea

Alonzo T. Dill, author of "Governor Tryon and His Palace," will speak at the Bull's Head Bookshop tea at 3:45 tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon. Mr. Dill is a native New Bernian, a graduate of the University, and former newspaperman who is now director of the Tryon Palace Restoration Commission. The tea will be held in the University Library's assembly room and is open to the public.
