

Jaycees Hold Annual Awards Banquet; Sandy McClamroch Wins the Coveted Distinguished Service Award; 'Key Men' Are Cherry, Childress, Jennings, Sparrow, Stancell

master for the evening; and Mr. Childress, president of the Jaycees. In the picture at the right are persons who received Certificates of Appreciation and Honorary Jaycee awards. They are, from left to right, Chuck Erickson, University athletic director; Bob Fowler of Fowler's Food Store; Joe Robbins of J. B. Robbins Store; Mr. Sparrow of University Trucking Company; and Mr. McClamroch of radio station WCHL. Richmond Sloan of Wentworth and Sloan Jewelers was also presented one of the awards, but was not present for the picture.

Other aspects of the Monday night meeting: Mr. Wentworth became the first Chapel Hill Jaycee ever to be awarded a life membership in recognition of his services; and Mr. Umstead, during the main address of the evening, said the Chapel Hill Jaycees have done more to promote and help this community than any other civic organization. The Rev. Richard L. Jackson delivered the invocation for the gathering. Mr. Jennings presented the Participation Cup, and Mr. Wentworth made the presentation of the Key Man Awards.

Greater UNC Split to Be Given Study

The newly-created State Board of Higher Education plans to make a recommendation to the General Assembly on whether consolidation of the University of North Carolina should or should not be continued. So said D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville, chairman of the board, at Charlotte this week. He added, however, that the matter had not been discussed by the board and that "it will take a lot of study." He pointed out that a number of individuals and newspapers in the state had recommended deconsolidation and that it would be wise to make a decision on the matter while the post of president of the Greater University is still vacant.

Funds raised between February 6 and February 11 will go into the trade promotion treasury, Mrs. Whitefield said. The two teams will be competing against each other in their efforts to raise the funds. The losing team will be required to treat the winning team to a steak dinner. Members of the "White" team, captained by Monk Jennings, are Whid Powell, Carlton Byrd, Roland Guduz, Sandy McClamroch, Mrs. Lucy Sutton, Crowell Little, Orville Campbell, Bill Hobbs and E. G. Danziger. Members of the "Blue" team, headed by Joe Augustine, are Moyle Johnson, O. T. Watkins, R. B. Todd, Vance Hogan, Bernice Ward, E. C. Smith, Bernard Whitfield, and H. S. McGinty. ### No Slump Seen in UNC Enrollment

University officials predicted yesterday that enrollment for the spring semester would approximate that during the fall. And that is extraordinary. Usually registration for the spring studies is considerably under that of the previous semester. However, after taking a quick peek at the present figures, University authorities said the enrollment would be close to 6,575 students, the number enrolled in the fall. But they would give out no official figures, because the last day of registration for all students does not come until Tuesday, February 7. Meantime, let's just say there are more than 6,500 students on hand, trees bare, temperature in the low 50's, scholars zestful, and visions of academic processions in June far beyond immediate horizons—but well within imaginative visions.

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.
When I entered the University in 1899 there were only eight buildings on the campus. Three (the Carr, the Alumni, and the Mary Ann Smith) were added while I was a student. There were no buildings south of Memorial Hall, Gerrard Hall, the South Building, the Library (now the Playmakers Theatre), and the Carr dormitory. Against the south side of the Library were several long wooden benches. The sun beat down upon them and they were protected from chill winds. On many days in the late fall, winter, and early spring they were ideal for basking, and I remember that I used to go there between classes and stretch out on one of the benches to read or doze. The good feeling this gave me is one of the happiest memories of my student days. That is the place I think of whenever I hear or read the phrase, southern exposure. And I am reminded of it by another southern exposure that we have in Chapel Hill today, the wall of the courtyard of the Carolina Inn on your right as you go up from the highway to the cafeteria. The path here is the one that runs alongside the Alumni Association offices and the private dining room which, when not being used for dinners, is used for television.

Star rank, presented by Jess Dedmond to Bob Spearman, Mike Culbreth, Paul Houston, Charles Hubbard, David Nash, and Herman Thompson. The program also included the presentation of a new advancement trophy in the form of a miniature planetarium, to be given quarterly to the troop that has had the most advancements among its members during the preceding quarter. This trophy, a gift from the Morehead Planetarium to the Orange Scout District, was presented by Mr. Jenzano to Dick Donnan, who is district committee chairman of advancements. Any troop that wins the trophy three times will keep it permanently. A picture of Eagle Scout Milner and his parents is on page eight.

TV Parties Being Planned for Viewing Of Omnibus Programs on Constitution

Television parties for people who want to know more about the federal Constitution are being planned here so friends and neighbors can get together to watch the next three "Omnibus" telecasts in which the Constitution will be presented in a way both entertaining and instructive. The three CBS programs will be on Greensboro's Channel 2 from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. for the next three Sundays, beginning day after tomorrow, February 5. The TV parties are being promoted by the Freedom Agenda Committee of Chapel Hill, which is backed by the local unit of the League of Women Voters. At the completion of the TV series, the committee will arrange a public meeting at which a panel of experts will answer questions that may have come up during the telecasts. In announcing plans for the TV parties and the public meeting, Mrs. Christopher T. Bever, chairman of the national study committee of the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters, said: "How much do you know about your federal Constitution? How many of the rights enumerated in the Bill of Rights (the first ten amendments to the Constitution) can you list? If you know more than two you are one of less than five per cent of the high school graduates in the United States who can do so. "The Freedom Agenda Committee is engaged in an effort to revitalize in our community an interest in the U. S. Constitution, the system of government under which we live, and to bring to open discussion our differences in interpreting our freedoms. The League welcomes the cooperation of all local organizations in the planning, organization, and participation of the Chapel Hill Freedom Agenda Project, which is part of a nationwide program originated by the Carrie Chapman Catt Memorial Fund, Inc., a research and educational fund created by the League of Women Voters of the United States."

The money for purchase of 160 shares of stock in the corporation was sent Wednesday to Bill Henderson, in Reidsville, who is one of the chairmen promoting the sales of stock by the Jaycees. He will turn it over to the Governor, and shares will be issued in the name of the purchasers in three to four weeks.

If the $1,000,000 issue, authorized by the General Assembly, is oversubscribed, large stockholders will be asked to surrender some of their earlier purchases, Mr. Cobb said. In that manner the issue will be spread among more stockholders, and more citizens of the state will be permitted to participate in this development venture.

Thirty persons attended the Jaycee-sponsored dinner at the Pines last Thursday night when the plan was explained by John Neal of Greensboro, president of the N. C. Jaycees.
