

Models Offer Fashion Preview

Mrs. Mary Smith (left) and Mrs. Georgia Kyser model two of the dresses to be featured at the Faculty Newcomers Club spring luncheon and fashion show to be held next Wednesday at the Carolina Inn. Fashions are by the Little Shop and hair styles by the Vogue Beauty Shop. Other models to be seen at the show are Mrs. Ernest Craigie, Mrs. Marvin Evans, Mrs. Robert A. Gray, Mrs. John Kelton, Mrs. William Noland and Mrs. Albert Suskin.

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.

"We just had a talk with the children and they're all well and happy." It was Mrs. Loren MacKinney talking on the wire, and she sounded happy, herself, too. The talk she referred to was one she and her husband had been having by telephone with their son and daughter-in-law and three grandchildren some six or seven hundred miles away. Here let us call the roll of the family in western Pennsylvania near Pittsburgh: Dr. Loren MacKinney Jr. and his wife; Marian, 6 years old; Abby, 5 years old; and Loren 3rd, 4 years old.

When I hung up the receiver it occurred to me that here was one more piece of magic that people had become so used to that, most of the time, they no longer thought of it as magical. Of course you can't use the long-distance telephone casually and freely, whenever the whim seizes you, unless you have a lot more money than most people have, but to be able to use it only now and then is a blessing. I am talking now not about the value of the long-distance telephone in the world of finance and industry, as an expediter of business, but of what it means in the home. What a comfort to know that it is ready for you in an emergency, in case of illness or an accident! What a convenience when you want to make (or cancel) arrangements for meetings and visits! What a pleasure for the exchange of news, for chatting and gossiping!

ever spare time is available to me in renewing my contacts with the people in the Sixth District, who have placed confidence in me and my efforts in the past, and who I trust, will see fit to extend that confidence again in the coming elections."

Mr. Durham will be opposed by Ralph Scott of Haw River, Counties in the Sixth Congressional District are Orange, Alamance, Durham, and Guilford.

Richard Taylor to Give Two Lectures

The Departments of Philosophy of the University here and Duke University are jointly sponsoring two public lectures by Professor Richard C. Taylor of Brown University.

Professor Taylor will lecture on "The Justification of Memory and the Analogy of Vision" Monday night, March 5, at 8 o'clock in the philosophy seminar room of the West Duke Building on the East Duke campus. On Tuesday, March 6, he will present a lecture on "The Problem of Future Contingency" on the UNC campus in the Library assembly room at 3:00 p.m.

There will be a coffee hour and discussion period immediately following the UNC lecture. These meetings are open to the public.

Downtown Reaction

Consensus: Ike Will Win, Won't Live

By Chuck Hauser

When President Eisenhower announced at his Wednesday morning press conference that he would seek a second term in the White House, the news spread quickly through the East Franklin Street business district.

Most people on the street and in the stores showed little surprise at the announcement. The consensus seemed to be that Ike would win his race, but that he would not live through the entire four years of office.

Jeff's Campus Confectionary was one of the first places of business to hear the news, because proprietor Jimmy Mousmoules had a radio tuned in waiting for the word from Washington. Said Mr. Mousmoules, "He's a good man and I think he'll win, but he won't last in office. I hope I'm wrong, but I don't think he'll last."

A hairdresser employed next door at the Carolina Barber and Beauty Shop was in Jeff's ordering a container of milk at the counter. Her comment: "He's crazy." And a student reading a magazine by the big wall rack in the shop added, "He shouldn't have done it."

Here are some other comments gleaned in a hurried interviewing tour up and down the main drag:

Mrs. Nina Wallace, at the Continental Travel Agency: "I don't think Ike will live through the term. I'll vote for Stevenson if he runs. I think Stevenson has a better chance this time than last time."

Gus Culberson, at the University Service Plants office: "He'll win—in a walk. I'll give him two years in office, and you can quote me as saying he's a damned fool. Stevenson will give him a better battle this time; he's getting away from

(Continued on Page 12)

'Sleeping Beauty' Set for Tomorrow and Sunday

These performers in the production of Harry Davis's "The Sleeping Beauty" to be given at 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Playmakers Theatre by the Lamont School of Drama are (left to right) Bill Roe as King Augustus; Lee Milner, Queen Beatrice; Becky Ranson, in the title role; Gloria Di Costanzo, Uglyanne; Charles Shaffer, Prince Florimond, and Martha Hunter, Benvolia. The play is being directed by Mrs. Louise Lamont, director of the school. Only a few tickets are left for sale at the door, so those who haven't bought tickets in advance are advised to come early. (Photo by Brinkhous)

Young President

William C. Friday took over yesterday as the third youngest president in the history of the oldest state university in the nation.

At the age of 35, Mr. Friday, secretary of the University, succeeds Harris Purks as acting president. Mr. Purks left to become executive director of the Board of Higher Education.

The youngest president in the history of the institution was its first, Joseph Caldwell, who assumed office at the age of 31. David L. Swain, the second president, was 34 when he became president. Three presidents later Edwin A. Alderman took over at the age of 35—the same as Mr. Friday.

What did Mr. Friday have to say yesterday about his new job? He told the Weekly, "I'll do all I can to keep the office of the president functioning in good order until the Board of Trustees selects a permanent president. The biggest job facing us right now is the preparation of the biennial budget request for the University."

Drive for Special Funds Is Finished

Final returns were expected to be reported today in the solicitation of members of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association for support of the budget of the Trade Promotions Committee.

When the final figures are tabulated, the winner will be determined between the two merchant teams which have been conducting the solicitation. The losing team is scheduled to buy the winning team a dinner on March 9.

The Trade Promotions Committee reported yesterday that 90 per cent of the firms solicited up to that time had subscribed to the special fund. A $4,000 budget for promotion activities for this year has been drawn up.

The committee declined to accept responsibility for helping promote the annual Watermelon Festival sponsored by the University Student Union each summer. It recommended to the Merchants Association Board of Directors that the matter be referred to the Public Relations Committee for its consideration.

Durham's Greetings to Durham

Bertram Colgrave, of the faculty of the University of Durham, England, now visiting professor of English in the University here, will deliver the greetings of the Mayor of the ancient city to the Mayor of our city of the same name at a ceremony in the Durham City Hall Monday evening. The response will be made by Mayor E. J. Evans.

Faculty Club Luncheon

Professor Knud Jeppesen, director of the Institute of Musicology at the University of Aarhus, Denmark, will speak at the Faculty Club's luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, at the Carolina Inn.

On February 29th

It's a Long Time Between Birthdays

A Chapel Hillian who is a retired naval captain celebrated only his 15th birthday Wednesday, February 29. On the same Leap Year date, seven infants were born at Memorial Hospital here, and they, too, will actually observe their birthdate every four years.

Captain E. E. (Swede) Hazlett, U.S.N. ret., of Forest Hills, was 60 years of age Wednesday, but it was only the 15th time he had had real occasion to celebrate.

Facing birthdays every four years were these new citizens born Wednesday: sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen, Chapel Hill, Route 2; Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Carrboro; Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Leatherwood and Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Widra, all of Chapel Hill; and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hesmer, and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kennedy, all of Chapel Hill.

'Tales of Hoffman' to Be Heard Tonight

Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffman" will be heard at 8 o'clock this (Friday) evening on "Let's Listen to Opera," the weekly program broadcast by WUNC, the University's FM radio station, with Norman Gordon as commentator.

The performance will be on Columbia Records made in the Paris Opera-Comique, with Raoul Jobin in the leading role and supported by other stars; the chorus, and orchestra of that opera company conducted by Cluytens.

In announcing the broadcast, Mr. Gordon said: "The 'Bacchante' from 'The Tales of Hoffman' is probably one of the best known pieces of music written in the last one hundred years. The opera from which it comes is much less well known in America, but it is a great favorite in the European theatres. Its composer, Jacques Offenbach, was the most prolific of all operatic composers. He wrote 110 operas, but only wrote one on which he worked for many years. He was deprived of hearing the world premiere of this work, 'The Tales of Hoffman,' which was his greatest pride. He died four months before it reached the boards of the Paris Opera-Comique on February 10 of 1881."

The Tar-Daubed Heel
The motif of the tar-daubed heel is used in the new design painted on the front window of the Tar Heel Sandwich Shop.

Playmakers' Production of 'Seventeen' to Open This Evening

"Seventeen," Booth Tarkington's famous novel concerning puppy love in 1907, will be presented in musical comedy form by the Carolina Playmakers beginning at 8:30 this evening (Friday) in Memorial Hall on the University campus. Other performances are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday evenings at the same time. Tickets will be available at the door, and are also on sale at the Playmakers business office in Abernethy Hall and at Ledbetter-Pickard's. Thomas M. Patterson of the Playmakers staff is the director, Gene Strasser of the University music department is the musical director, and Foster Fitz-Simons of the department of dramatic art is the choreographer.

The leading roles in the annual spring musical are played by James Sechrist of Thomasville, who portrays Willie Baxter, the adolescent who is hopelessly in love; and Judy Brown,

No Strong Opposition Voiced In Annexation Public Hearing; Bankruptcy Predicted in Five Years if Annexation Rejected

By J. A. C. Dunn

The public hearing on the annexation question held by the Board of Aldermen last Monday night in the courtroom of the Town Hall was marked by a large attendance among which there appeared to be no appreciable opposition to the annexation project.

The meeting was started off by Town Manager Thomas Rose, who outlined in detail the changes and improvements which would be entailed in annexing outlying residential areas—the fire service, the police service, sewer construction, curb and gutter construction, streetlight installation, taxes, etc., all of which subjects are extensively dealt with in the mimeographed pamphlet circulated by police car last week.

"We feel that a good many of the people who live on the fringes of town should share in its obligations and also reap its benefits," said Mr. Rose.

The remainder of the meeting consisted of questions, comments, and, occasionally, answers, from the floor.

The first attending citizen to rise was Floyd Hunter of Hidden Hills, who announced that he had a petition in favor of annexation signed by all but two of the residents of Hidden Hills.

"I just wanted to submit it," said Mr. Hunter, and submitted it. The Hidden Hills petition appeared to set the tone of the meeting from there on. For the most part, citizens with questions or comments rose and spoke but did not identify themselves.

Such questions as the following indicate where the people's interests lay:

Question: Will garbage trucks come into the driveways?
Town Manager Rose: Yes, or men will go in and get the garbage; there will be no garbage on the streets.

Question (same person): That's one of the difficulties, because they'll go across flower beds and so on. (Laughter).

Rose: We've had no complaints of that so far.

A question about the special fire tax led Town Attorney J. Q. LeGrand to

(Continued on page 6)

Police Department Has Hired Three New Lady Officers

Chapel Hill has three new police officers—and they are all ladies.

Mrs. Alice Martindale, Mrs. Lucille Horne and Mrs. Lattice Vickers are now employed as part-time members of the police department to guard street crossings used by children on their way to and from school.

Mrs. Martindale is stationed on Cameron Avenue at Fetzer Lane, Mrs. Horne in front of the elementary school on West Franklin Street, and Mrs. Vickers at the corner of Graham and West Franklin Streets.

A male police officer will continue on duty both mornings and afternoons to assist children crossing at the main intersection of Columbia and Franklin Streets.

The lady officers were hired to permit full-time policemen to tend to other law enforcement duties and be available for emergency calls.

"We appreciate the ladies taking these jobs," Police Chief W. T. Sloan said yesterday. "They are performing a real service for the town."

School Bond Issue Discussed by PTA

The Carrboro Parent-Teacher Association observed P. T. A. Founders' Day at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Carrboro School and also heard a discussion of the $2,000,000 school bond issue to be voted on this month. Mrs. J. B. Wilson and Mrs. James Strupe gave reading in connection with the Founders' Day observance.

The bond issue was discussed by Paul Carr, Superintendent of county schools, County Commissioner Dwight Ray, and two members of the Orange County Board of Education, Clarence Jones and Charlie Stanford. A members present were urged to vote in the bond election on March 27.

Mack Watts showed slides of a fine modern school in Ashboro, and Carl Elington discussed possible plans for a new Carrboro school similar to the one shown.

(Continued on page 6)

Cubs Will Vote on Joining a League

Members of the Carrboro Cubs, a semi-professional baseball team, are expected to vote Monday night to join the Central Carolina League, with headquarters in Burlington.

W. F. Poythress, business manager of the team, and Fenn McGinty, one of the players, went to Burlington Wednesday night to attend an organization meeting of the league, which scheduled to contain 10 or 12 teams.

Mr. Poythress and Mr. McGinty will make a report to the team on Monday evening, at the players will take a vote whether to join the league. Their decision will be carried back to Burlington next Thursday, when another meeting will be held to draw up league bylaws.

This summer the Cubs will have the services of Tom Maulby, who could not play last summer because of participation in summer training with the Marines.

(Continued on page 6)

Chapel Hillnotes

Big operation: Rupert Jernigan wrapping and tying huge and cumbersome bundles of John, an Air Force officer had written and asked the his golf clubs be sent to him in Japan.

The year's first thunder claps Monday night.

Neville Placed on All-District Five

Gordon Neville of the Chapel Hill High School was selected this week as one of the five members of the Eastern Class AA District Three all-district team.

He was selected by a vote of coaches and sportswriters. Jim Doshier of Chapel Hill High was given honorable mention.

Young Neville played in 14 of the season's 16 games and had a 13.5 scoring average.

Garland Spangler of Hillsboro was named to the second team.

Ed Kenney Leaves Hospital

Ed Kenney, the pro at the University's Finley golf course, has returned to his home at 11 Hamilton Road after being a patient in Memorial Hospital. He will be confined to bed several more days.

Colgate Instead of Colby

George B. Cutten was described in Tuesday's issue as a former president of Colby College. This was an error. He was formerly president of Colgate University.

Parking Meeting

All interested merchants and members of the Chapel Hill Parking Association have been invited to attend a meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon (Friday) in the Town Hall to discuss the operation of the commercial parking lot to be opened soon on the corner of East Rosemary and North Columbia Streets.

Work was scheduled to begin today in the grading and paving of the lot, which has been used for free public parking since it was cleared several months ago. The lot was expected to be re-opened for parking within a week to 10 days.