John Ensing are shown doing the honors at the laying of the cornerstone of the fifth building to be occupied by the New Hope Presbyterian Church in its 200 years of existence. Members of the congregation saved about one-third on the estimated $60,000 cost of the new brick building by doing a large part of the labor themselves.

Members of the congregation of the New Hope Presbyterian Church are shown leaving the final services held in the fourth church building. The new building will be the scene of services beginning this Sunday.

Planning Board Votes 5 to 3 Against Rezoning of Area on Durham Highway

The Greater Chapel Hill Planning Board has, by a five to three vote, refused to endorse a request by a local real estate firm to rezone a strip of land on the Chapel Hill-Durham Highway from residential to suburban commercial.

The request, presented to the board Tuesday night by attorney L. J. Phipps on behalf of realtors R. G. Windsor and Walter West, involved a strip of land on the north side of the highway near the entrance to the old Durham Road.

Stuart Chapin, secretary of the board, said the board voted to recommend disapproval of the petition to the Board of Aldermen because it felt the rezoning move would "begin a splattering of small business developments all along the highway." He said the policy of the board was to confine business developments to centralized areas.

The petition was originally presented to the board a month ago by the three men who owned the property at that time—J. R. Ellis, E. T. Broadway, and J. R. Crisp.

Mr. Chapin said Mr. Ellis intended to put a restaurant on his piece of land, along with a lake which would sit between the restaurant and a motel to be built on the Broadway property, which has now been taken over by Paul Roberts. Messrs. Windsor and West now hold an option on the Crisp land, and intended to construct a business building there.

The Chapel Hill Exchange Club approved installation of a Freedom Shrine in the High School at its weekly meeting at Watts Grill Tuesday night. The club also took in Bill Ray, local fireman, as a new member.

The Planning Board turned over to its subdivision committee a request for approval of a new subdivision planned by Bobby Roberts. The area, to be known as Hillview Extension, lies between Bolin Creek and Plant Road beyond the present development in that area of Stroud Hill.

The board received an interim report on a revision of a land development plan for Chapel Hill and environs from Webb and Associates of Chapel Hill. Robert Gladstone represented the company before the board.

W. F. Babcock, thoroughfare and traffic planning consultant from Raleigh, also met with the board. He and Mr. Gladstone discussed their plans for joint submitting an integrated plan on land development and traffic control for the Chapel Hill area.

The Rushes Skim Over Los Angeles

Day before yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rush were skimming over Los Angeles in a helicopter, combining two forms of enjoyment, (1) looking down on the city from a level low enough for them to get a good view of all the buildings and streets and parks and scurrying people, and (2) saving time in getting from the airport to the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Caldwell.

When Mr. Rush was asked Monday for his schedule he said: "We'll leave the Raleigh-Durham airport tomorrow (Tuesday) night. At Washington we'll board a plane for a non-stop flight to Los Angeles. We are scheduled to arrive there at 6:10 Wednesday morning. The Los Angeles airport is on the west side of the city, toward the ocean. Pomona, where we are to visit our son-in-law, is east of the city. If he had to come to meet us in an automobile the drive, most of the way through crowded traffic, would take him about two hours. The round trip, four hours. But we are going to take what they call the "taxi-helicopter," and that takes only twenty minutes to get to Pomona."

Mr. and Mrs. Rush will be in California about three weeks and then they will visit Mr. Rush's two sisters in Santa Fe, New Mexico. They will get home April 4.

Hobbs Files For Coming May Election

Chairman R. J. M. Hobbs of the Orange County Board of Commissioners announced last Monday that he would run for re-election to his third term as a member of the board.

The coming election, in which the seat held by Sim Efland will also be up for re-election, will be the first one in which members will be elected for a four-year term. Previously, when the board was composed of only three members instead of the present five, members were elected for two years. With the 1954 change to a five-man board, four years was established as the length of the terms.

Mr. Hobbs, who is acting dean of the School of Business Administration at the University, is the only candidate who has announced his intention to run in the coming election, which will come in November after a May 26 primary.

It is unknown at present whether Mr. Efland plans to run for re-election or resign. He is in Texas and will return on March 23.

Other members of the board are Edwin Lanier, candidate for state senator; Dwight Ray, and Henry Walker.

Carrboro to Hold Pre-School Clinic

The Carrboro Elementary School, in cooperation with the Orange County Health Department, will hold its annual pre-school clinic at the Carrboro School Tuesday, March 13th, from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

All children who will have reached their sixth birthday on or before October 15, this year, and are planning on entering the Carrboro School in the fall, are expected to attend with at least one of their parents. This is necessary to get information required for beginning the child's school record.

No immunizations will be given at the clinic, but because State law requires that all children on entering school must have been immunized for smallpox, diphtheria, and whooping cough, parents are required to bring a record of such immunization to the clinic. Parents should bring the child's birth certificate and a record of his illnesses, if any, so this information can be entered on his record. All parents are urged to have their children examined and immunized by their family doctor, and bring the record of the physical examination to the clinic. The school health doctor will be at the clinic for physical examination of those desiring his services.

An opportunity will be given parents to meet the first grade teachers and to visit the first grade rooms. The P. T. A. will serve refreshments, and there will be favors, some made by this year's first graders.

School Board Hires One New Teacher

The Chapel Hill School Board accepted the resignations of two teachers and hired one new teacher at its meeting on Monday night.

The new teacher is Mrs. Ethel Walker, who replaces Earl Lowery. Mr. Lowery, a mathematics and science teacher at Lincoln High School, resigned in order to take a position in Washington, D. C.

The other resignation was that of Mrs. Joan Falk, third grade teacher at Chapel Hill Elementary School. No replacement has yet been hired for her.

The board voted to double the size of the playground at the Glenwood School in Glen Lennox. C. W. Davis, superintendent of schools, said the project would begin soon.

Grey Culbreth was authorized to seek a site for a new elementary school for Chapel Hill. Construction of the school depends on the successful outcome of the two million dollar school bond election to be held March 27.

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.

Old-timers in Chapel Hill, and I mean real old-timers like me and Clyde Eubanks and Archibald Henderson and L. R. Wilson and Roulhac Hamilton and W. D. Carmichael—and, if you want to know why I put me first, it's because I'm the oldest old-timer of them all in point of residence—hold clear in our memory the fireplaces in the buildings on the University campus.

To think of them is one of those adventures in reminiscence that please you because you can go on them entirely in your imagination. There's nothing you would hate worse, short of long-lasting physical pain, than to have to depend, in these days, on a fireplace for heat throughout a winter; but when you can sit in an easy chair, reading by an electric light at your left shoulder, in a furnace-heated, thermostatted room, the red, yellow and blue flames licking up from the logs make a fascinating picture indeed. And what sweet music is the sizzle of the burning sap!

The vision is varied now and then by the flames' dying down and your going over to the corner of the room to get a new log to throw upon the fire. This you can do without suffering the shortness of breath or the tinge of arthritis that will attack you fifty years hence when you rashly undertake such a chore.

You have the logs in your room because you have bought them from a farmer and had them cut into proper lengths and toted upstairs. And the reason you have done all this is that if you had left them on the ground down behind the South building, or beside whatever other dormitory you might be living in, some of your fellow students, maybe your best friends, (Continued on Page 2)

How, When, and Where to Register to Vote in March 27 School Bond Election

The following is a resume of information which should answer the question of residents concerning voting and registration in the coming March 27 School Bond election. In the next issue of the Weekly (Tuesday) will be a map of the various voting and registration precincts.

REQUIREMENTS: A residence of one year in North Carolina and 30 days in Orange County prior to March 27 must be established for registration and voting eligibility. Residents must be born or naturalized citizens of the United States, 21 or over by March 27, and must be able to read and write. When a resident goes to register he will be asked to state his party affiliation—Democrat, Republican, Independent. This information will have no bearing on his eligibility for the March 27 election, but is being collected for the purpose of simplifying the registration process for the May primary. A voter need not state his party affiliation if he does not intend to vote in the May primary.

TIMES: The registration books will be open from 9:00 a.m. to sunset on Saturdays, March 10 and 17. Any person not finding it convenient to register at these times may contact his or her registrar at the registrar's home or place of business between these two dates. The books will close on March 17 at sunset and no one may register after that time.

STIPULATION: The following quote from the Institute of Government Guidebook for County and Precinct Election Officials should settle any uncertainty on the part of residence as to intention of remaining a resident. "A person shall not be considered to have gained a residence in any county of this state, into which he comes for temporary purposes only, without the intention of making such county his permanent place of abode." This is to be interpreted as meaning that a "permanent place of abode" is one any move away from which at any time in the future should occur contrary to the expectations of the resident. For example, enrollment in the University, and its concomitant residence in the area, is not considered as a valid "permanent place of abode" if the person in question plans to leave the county or state at the termination of his school attendance. It should be noted that a person need not own property in order to register and vote. REGISTRARS: Precinct number 1: Polling Place, Town Hall; Registrar, Mrs. W. E. Merritt, 413 Pritchard Avenue. Precinct number 2: Polling Place, the American Legion Hut; Registrar, Mr. J. A. Warren, 301 Hillsboro Street. Precinct number 3: Polling Place, the main entrance to Woolen Gymnasium; Registrar, Mr. Harold Walters, 714 Greenwood Road. Precinct number 4: Polling Place, the Cone House next to the Chapel Hill High School; Registrar, Mrs. Irene E. Scroggs, 322 McCauley Street. Precinct number 5: Polling Place, the Glenwood School; Registrar, Mrs. L. C. Neville, 4 Oakwood Drive. Precinct number 6: Polling Place, Carrboro Town Hall; Registrar, Benson Ray, Lloyd-Ray Co., Carrboro.
