

Weekly Offers $50 in Prizes For School Bond Issue Essays

Who knows better than the youngsters who use them that there are many schools in Orange County with inadequate toilet facilities. These same youngsters, many of them, have inadequate lunchroom facilities and several times a day they use non-fire-resistant wood staircases. Over a thousand of them are using basements, cafeterias, libraries, auditoriums, and other substandard rooms for regular classrooms.

The students know these things, much better than their parents. The Weekly would like for the students to let the parents know.

For that reason the Weekly, in the interest of community service, is going to sponsor an essay contest. Prizes totaling $50 will be awarded to any student of the Orange County Schools and city units in Orange County. First prize will be $20 in cash, second prize $15, third $5, and 10 prizes of $1 each.

All the student must do is write, in 100 words or less: "I want my parents to vote YES on the school bond issue March 27th because . . ."

Rules of the contest are simple. Entry must be in child's own handwriting. Parents, teachers and other citizens interested in better schools for Orange County may offer suggestions and advice but the actual writing must be done by the individual entering the contest.

Essays must be mailed to the Weekly and postmarked not later than March 20.

25 Are Charter Members of Honor Society

The chapter is an affiliate of the society's national organization, from which it received its charter. Its objects, as stated in the constitution, are "to create an enthusiasm for scholarship; to stimulate a desire to render service; and to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character."

Members are selected by a faculty committee on the basis of scholarship, service, leadership, and character, and the candidates must be approved by the school faculty.

The chapter's organizational program at which the charter members were announced, was presented by members of the faculty. Miss May Marshbanks presided and explained the purpose of the meeting. Miss Jessie Belle Lewis led the devotional. Mrs. Lucile Ingram presented a discussion of scholarship; Mrs. Jane Price talked on service; Coach Robert Culton on leadership, and I. C. Yagel on character.

A formal induction ceremony will be held later.

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.

When I met Mrs. Bruce Strowd at the post office one afternoon last week she told me how happy she was that her steers had got well. Then, in response to my questions, she described her recent performance in home doctoring.

Mrs. Strowd lives on a Chatham county farm about eight miles from here. Most of the work of taking care of it she does herself. Her principal interest is in her cattle—two bulls and half a dozen or so steers. She goes about in her pasture, with the bulls present and close by, as casually as you or I would play with a couple of cocker spaniels. I know this because I have seen it.

Early in the morning about three weeks ago, with a cold rain falling, she went down to the stable on the edge of the pasture to feed the herd. Two of the steers stood with their heads held down and refused to take any notice of the food she offered. She knew this was a case of illness that might be fatal and she ran back to the house and telephoned Dr. Vine, the veterinarian, at his home. He was about to leave for his hospital.

"I'll come out right away," he said. When he got there and examined the steers he diagnosed their case as a virus influenza and prescribed some sort of medicine like penicillin. How Mrs. Strowd got it down their throats she didn't tell me, but from the experience she had had with cattle, she knew how to do it. She had to keep on walking through weather that was cold and wet but she was too much interested in her steers to be annoyed by that. On the second day they nibbled at food. They ate more day by day and in about a week

Boy Scouts to Take Part in Council Show

More than 200 Boy Scouts and Cubs, accompanied by parents and Scout leaders, will represent the Orange District in the Occaneechee Council's 1956 Scout Exposition to be held in Raleigh Saturday, according to District Chairman L. J. Phipps.

The Exposition will be staged in the State Fair Arena and is expected to attract some 20,000 participants and spectators from the Council's 12-county area who will attend one or more of the Scouting events scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. and lasting until 9 p.m. The day's main event will take place at 8:00 p.m.

The following booths will be arranged and maintained by Orange County Boy Scouts: Troop 9—Chemistry; Troop 39—Pioneering; Troop 835—Quiz; Troop 826—Tin Can Cookery and Airplanes; Troop 438—Radio; Pack 450—Auto Races; and Ship 402—Navigation.

Wilbur Kutz is serving as ticket sales manager for the Orange district. In urging attendance on the part of local Scouts and parents, Mr. Kutz reminds each troop that he will be glad to help each unit make "some money" on exposition ticket sales.

Robert L. "Rip" Collins, District Scout Executive, is the Council's staff representative and has overall responsibility for the coordination of activities in this year's council-wide event.

Tommy Tapp Picked By Future Farmers

Tommy Tapp was elected president of the Chapel Hill High School's Junior Future Farmers of America at a meeting held last Tuesday at the school. Other new officers are Jerry Sturdivant, vice-president; Gerald Farrell, secretary; Dan Atwater, treasurer; David Honigsmann, reporter; and Tommy Burns, sentinel. Mr. Yagel is the group's faculty adviser.

The program of the meeting included a discussion of plans for attendance at an F. F. A. camp this coming summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whipple of Boston and their sons, Charles and Jonathan, were at the Inn two days last week.

Aldermen Plan Annexation Vote May 26

The legality of the board of Aldermen's intention to hold the special annexation election on May 26, the same date of the state Democratic primary, was to be decided last (Monday) night at the board's monthly meeting.

Town Manager Thomas Rose said on Monday morning that the Aldermen wished to have both the primary and the annexation election on the same date for several reasons; to save money, to save organizational complications, and to get more voters to express themselves. Mr. Rose said that Town Attorney J. Q. LeGrand, after having done some legal investigation last Friday night, reported on Saturday morning that as far as he could see so far there was nothing to prevent legally holding both elections on the same day.

It was evident, from the remarks of various citizens, that the stream of elections with which the town is presently being deluged has confused many people as to just when each election is taking place. The special county school bond issue election, which is entirely separate from the annexation election, will take place on March 27, though voters will be asked

Carrboro Club Meeting

The Carrboro Civic Club will meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) at its club house, with Mrs. William Wilkins as hostess. Walter Spearman will give a talk on North Carolina authors.

Presbyterians to Meet Sunday Night to Discuss Plans for Building Expansion

The first showing of the plans for the expansion of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church building will be held at a congregational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 18, at the church, it is announced by the Rev. Vance Barron, pastor. All members and friends of the church are invited. An announcement says:

"The Building Council, which has been at work for many months, is working with our architect and the Campaign Committee to have everything ready for this date, which marks the opening of our financial campaign.

"Our goal is to pledge one hundred thousand dollars toward this project, with approximately ten thousand of this as our share in the over-all synod campaign. The Synod campaign, if successful, will contribute an additional $268,000 and the General Assembly has pledged $20,000.

"Dr. Frank P. Graham has been invited to speak at this Sunday evening meeting and we are waiting for his response at this time. It has been suggested that we not bring children to this meeting, since our seating space is limited; however, our young people, sixth grade and up, will want to come. Mr. Alex Seasmans will be campaign treasurer.

"Mr. W. E. Thompson is serving as General Chairman of the campaign. The Special Gifts Chairman is Dr. Joel Carter, whose associates are Messrs. George Coxhead, John Graham, Crowell Little, and Earl Wynn. Mrs. R. B. Fitch is Chairman of Special Arrangements. Messrs. J. M. Saunders and Walter Spearman are preparing the brochure for the campaign."

The club's next meeting will be at 6:15 Thursday, when Dr. Yayashri Katjv will speak on "The Government of India."

To Attend Washington Dinner Willard J. Graham of Chapel Hill will be one of the 350 certified public accountants and government officials who will attend a testimonial dinner to be given Friday in Washington, D. C., for three members of the American Institute of Accountants recently appointed to Federal positions.

Extend Red Cross Drive Three Days

Only approximately 40 percent of the 1956 campaign quota of the Chapel Hill Chapter of the American Red Cross had been turned in as of noon Saturday, Chapter Chairman J. Temple Gobel reported yesterday at noon, the time set for the drive to close.

Mr. Gobel said that as of Saturday $3,566 had actually been turned in against the $9,184 goal, but that only a few volunteer workers had reported.

Therefore, he and Campaign Chairman Ray Ritchie decided to extend the drive three more days in order that all workers might turn in their collections, and that persons who had not been reached might make their contributions. The campaign office in the showrooms of Crowell Little Motor Co. was closed yesterday, however.

Collections and late contributions will be received at the Red Cross office, 138 1/2 East Franklin Street, starting today.

Mr. Gobel said, "We are confident that the people in Chapel Hill and Carrboro are going to see that our quota is reached. We have never failed to meet or exceed our Red Cross goal. If anyone has not been approached by a volunteer worker and wishes to make a contribution or wishes to increase his contribution, he may do so by mailing his check to the chapter office or by telephoning 9-8811."

Amateur daffodil growers here and throughout the state are invited to become charter members of the North Carolina Daffodil Society, which will be organized at a meeting to be held here at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 18, at the Church of the Holy Family (in Glen Lennox). Members of the Chapel Hill Garden Club will be hostesses at the meeting, and there will be display tables for daffodil growers who wish to bring specimen blossoms. Each exhibit should be labeled with its proper name and classification.

Several Chapel Hill gardens will be open to visitors during the afternoon of the meeting. Further information on this may be obtained from Mrs. Noel Houston of 801/2 Greenwood Road.
