Mayor Oliver Cornwell makes awards as three more mothers are selected for the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association Mother's Day drawing. The three winners are, from left to right, Mrs. E. D. Ellison, Mrs. Beulah Jones and Mrs. Katherine Morris. The papers in the foreground are the more than 2,300 entries which were submitted during the second week of the event.

Two Mother's Day contests ended here this week with the selection of ten Chapel Hill and Carrboro women as "Mothers of the Year."

Mrs. J. R. Poole of 40 Hayes Road and Mrs. Robert Neal, housemother at the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, were picked as "Mothers of the Year" in the J. B. Robbins House of Fashion Contest. Runners-up were Mrs. George Eastman Jr. of 188 Daniels Road and Mrs. Sedalia Gold of Smith Dormitory.

Three mothers were drawn as finalists in the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association contest. They were Mrs. Beulah Jones, entered by her daughter, Marjorie Stone; Mrs. Katherine Morris of Kappa Delta Sorority, entered by Marcia McCord; and Mrs. E. D. Ellison of Carrboro, entered by her daughter, Martha Ellison.

These three joined the three last week finalists—Mrs. P. G. Phialas of Flemington Road, Mrs. Ruth B. Pendergrass of Carrboro, and Mrs. Myra Lauterer of Chapel Hill—in the grand drawing yesterday (Thursday) afternoon after the Weekly's deadline. In the order that the six names were to be drawn from a hat, they were to receive gift certificates of $60, $50, $40, $30, $20, and $10. In addition all finalists received corsages and engraved medallions.

In the Robbins contest, both Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Neal will receive $100 wardrobes, and Mrs. Eastman and Mrs. Gold will be presented $25 in merchandise.

Mr. Robbins explained that he had planned for only two grand prizes, but that the quality of the many nominating letters seemed to justify runners-up. More than 100 mothers, some nominated by several different persons, were entered in the Robbins contest.

The Merchants Association reported 2,300 entries in the second week and 1,600 during the first week.

Children's Ward to Get Record Player

An automatic record player (phonograph) is being given to the children's ward of Memorial Hospital by the Chapel Hill unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. It will be presented by Mrs. Raymond J. Kiddoo, principal, John J. Keller and Mrs. Norman Jackson, co-chairmen of the Auxiliary's child welfare committee, in ceremonies to be held at 4:30 this (Friday) afternoon at the hospital.

The record player is expected to be of considerable help to the hospital in the play therapy project recently inaugurated in the children's ward. This project is aimed at combatting homesickness, believed to be one of the greatest bars to recovery among hospitalized children, especially those of pre-school age.

Chapel Hill High School defeated the Oxford High baseballers there Wednesday afternoon. The score was 6 to 5. Bill Rigdon pitched for the winners.

Hyde Speaks to Kiwanians
Wallace Hyde, chief of Records and Driver Improvement Section, State Highway Patrol, was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday evening. I. C. Yagel was the guest of Kiwanian Charlie Davis. The club voted to dispense with their meeting next Tuesday and participate in the "Bunn Hearn Night" scheduled for the Tin Can on Monday night. Mr. Hearn is an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club.

Gilliland to Talk At Symposium on Sunday Evening

"Civil Liberties under the Law" will be the title of a symposium to be held in the University Library assembly room at 8 p. m. Sunday, May 13. The program is being planned by Chapel Hill and Durham members of the American Civil Liberties Union. W. Carson Ryan, Kenan professor of education at the University, will serve as moderator for the meeting which will include three panel members, as follows:

James D. Gilliland, attorney-at-law in Warrenton, N. C., and solicitor of Warren County Recorder's Court, will present "Personal Liberty and our National Security." Mr. Gilliland is a native of Warren County, went to Wake Forest College, and received his L. L. B. there after returning from seven years of service in the U. S. Navy where he reached the rank of Lieutenant Commander and received seven Battle Stars in the Pacific area. At the hearing of the U. S. House Un-American Activities Committee recently held in Charlotte, he acted as counsel for several individuals subpoenaed to appear and accused of being Communists. He is a member of the Baptist Church, is married, and has a 12-year-old daughter.

F. B. McKissick, an attorney-at-law in Durham and Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Lawyers Association, will speak on "The Southern Negro—Gains and Losses since May, 1954." Mr. McKissick is a native of Asheville, was in military service four years, in the European theater, and received his A. B. and L. L. B. from North Carolina College. He is director of the Durham Business and Professional Chain, a member of the Public Solicitation Review Board of Durham County and is active in civic organizations such as NAACP, AMVETS, Alpha Phi Alpha and others. He is married and has four children.

Hornell N. Hart, professor of sociology at Duke University, an authority on social change, will deal with "Major Goals in Civil Liberties," presenting some aspects of the sociological problems now confronting this region and ways in which the American

At Barbecue Monday

Chapel Hill Chaff

L.G.

A friend of a neighbor of ours came by air for a visit last week. She had never flown before and so, naturally, starting on the flight made her uneasy. Soon after taking her off the ground the plane ran into sharp winds. The weather didn't seem to be regarded as dangerous by the hostess and the other passengers, but it seemed plenty dangerous to the lady bound for Chapel Hill. Every now and then an air pocket would insert itself on the course and the plane would drop into it and fall—and fall—and she wondered when if ever it was going to be cushioned on the air again.

The weather improved and she gained so in confidence that she felt disposed to try the good-smelling luncheon that the hostess was serving along the aisle.

What tough luck now! Here was another one of those air pockets and just as the plane dropped into it a pitcher of soup, poised for emptying into the neat little bowl of the tray in front of her, was so jolted that the soup not only missed the bowl but splattered widely over her jacket.

She recovered her confidence and her appetite before arriving at the Raleigh-Durham airport, and the soup that fell on her jacket was well cleaned off in Chapel Hill. But it is not surprising that when she started on the return flight it was without enthusiasm for air travel.

She is a devotee of crime fiction and just as she was leaving for the airport her hostess took a paper-back from the living room table and held it out to her saying: "Here's an Agatha Christie to take along with you."

Then they looked at the

Candidates' Rally Tonight

Tomorrow is Last Registration Day for Primary and Special Annexation Voting

Except for the actual voting on May 26, tomorrow (Saturday) is the big day in 1956 Orange County politics, because:

1. It is positively the last day one may register to vote in the state-wide Democratic primary and the special Chapel Hill annexation election.
2. It is absolutely necessary that one register if he chooses to vote in the annexation election. No other registration at any time makes one eligible.
3. The Orange County Democratic Convention will be held at Hillsboro Courthouse at 2 p. m.
4. Chapel Hill voters will be digesting the remarks of candidates for office after hearing them speak tonight (Friday) at the Chapel Hill Elementary School in a "Meet the Candidates" rally, sponsored by the local unit of League of Women Voters. The rally begins tonight at 8 o'clock.

For the rally tonight, Congressman Carl Durham and his opponent, Ralph Scott, will head the list of candidates, which will include those for the State Senate, County Commissioner, and Board of Education.

All of them will speak, and then they will submit to questions from the floor on the campaign issues. Mrs. Richmond P. Bond, League president, will be moderator. The program was arranged by Mrs. Everett Rush, Mrs. J. S. Henninger, and Mrs. Lawrence Newman.

Proponents of annexation yesterday (Thursday) were vocally and visibly concerned about the small registration for the special election. They knew, they said, opponents were registered and that the annexation stood to fail unless more proponents put their names on the books before sunset tomorrow (Saturday). It is possible for people to register at the homes of the

Building Boom Reached Peak in March, Tapered Off in April, Up Again in May

The Chapel Hill community building boom, which skyrocketed to an unprecedented peak in March, tapered off in April and began climbing back toward the heights again this week with a third of May gone.

On Wednesday, records at the Town Hall showed that building permits for May had already totaled more than half of the construction costs for the entire month of April. So far this month permits have been issued for $277,448 worth of construction. The total for April was $434,185, while the history-making figure for March was $720,504.

The largest single permit for April was issued to Joseph Hayden, James Freeland and S. C. Forrest Jr. To construct a $150,000 26-unit motel on the 15-501 highway bypass beside the Wishung Well Restaurant.

Since May 1, permits have been issued to:

- Paul Roberts, to construct six apartments on the Airport Road at a cost of $9,500 each.
- Claude B. Thomas Jr., to build a five-room masonry house in Cameron Court at a cost of $5,000.
- E. A. Brown, to repair a house on South Graham Street at a cost of $1,500.

The Chapel Hill Country Club, to build an extension to the present clubhouse at a cost of $57,974.

Service Insurance and Realty Company, to build a six-room frame and brick veneer house in Estes Hills at a cost of $17,000.

J. F. A. Thompson, to build an eight-room brick veneer house on Old Mill Road for Dave McGowan; estimated cost $24,000.

Schools to Close June 2
The Chapel Hill public schools will close for the summer on Saturday, June 2, and will reopen on Wednesday, September 5. School will be dismissed at 11:30 a. m. Friday, June 1, with the buses to leave immediately. All pupils are to return to school at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, June 2, to receive their report cards. That'll be all till September.

Retiring Baseball Coach Bunn Hearn Will Be Honored

A barbecue supper honoring Bunn Hearn, who will retire as University baseball coach after 27 years of service, will be held at the University Tin Can Monday night, beginning at 7 o'clock.

The supper is open to the public, but tickets costing $1.50 each must be purchased by noon Saturday. They may be obtained at the Carolina Barber Shop, Town and Campus, and Woolen Gym.

Roy Armstrong will be master of ceremonies at the occasion, and the Chapel Hill Athletic Club will present awards to members of the 1956 University baseball team.

Mr. Hearn is one of the best known figures, especially among baseball fans, in Eastern North Carolina. Although his home is in Wilson, he is now actively engaged in the

Board Hears Plea To Block Racing

Two ministers appeared before the Board of County Commissioners in Hillsboro on Monday to request that something be done to curb commercial automobile racing in Orange County.

The commissioners, on advice of their attorney, informed the Rev. Charles E. Maddy and the Rev. W. I. Conway that the board has no power to prohibit such racing. The authority must first be granted to the board by the General Assembly.

The Board heard a report from the Negro Home Demonstration organization, which stated that it had raised $500 to equip a demonstration kitchen, was looking around for a place to situate the kitchen, and hoped that the Board would also produce $500 for the project as it had previously agreed to do. The Board said it would do so.

The Assistant Orange County Farm Agent, Ed Barnes, gave a report to the Board.

Edwin M. Lynch, Clerk of Superior and County Courts, also gave a report concerning fines levied and collected from the County Court.

Several petitions for road maintenance were also heard.

The Commissioners also issued requests to the various heads of county departments that they have their budget requests for the year 1956-57 in the hands of County Accountant Sam Gattis by the first Monday in June. The Commissioners will set dates for budget hearings at that time.

Aldermen to Vote On Zoning Action

According to Town Manager Thomas Rose, the Board of Aldermen will consider the Planning Board's approval of the Crowell Little rezoning petition at its meeting next Monday night.

Mr. Rose also said the Aldermen would hear the Planning Board's annual report and budget request; would confirm the sale of a $35,000 bond anticipation note, and would hear routine reports from the Health, Police, and Fire Department.

Jaycees Trek To Charlotte To Back Cox For President

Chapel Hill Jaycees will be in Charlotte en masse today (Friday) and tomorrow pressing the candidacy of their Bob Cox for the presidency of the North Carolina Jaycees. The election will be held tomorrow afternoon.

This afternoon at 2:30 a motorcade of his supporters from throughout the state will roll into mid-Charlotte to boost his candidacy.

Mr. Cox has been actively campaigning for the honor during the past four months. He carries to Charlotte a record of community and Jaycee service. For the Chapel Hill community he has served as chairman of Christmas Seal and Heart Fund campaigns, and has been active in Y-Teen, Community Chest, Cerebral Palsy Foundation, Chapel Hill Parking Association, Chapel Hill Country Club, and the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association. He is also a member of the board of stewards of Aldersgate Methodist Church.

In the Jaycees he has been president of the organization here, national director of the 3rd, 4th, and 5th districts, fifth district vice-president, and was the outstanding State Jaycee Committee Chairman in 1954. That year he won the Chapel Hill Distinguished Service Award.

Little League Play Will Start June 8

Practice sessions for Little League baseball play this summer will get underway May 17, and the season will run from June 8 through July 13, it was decided at the meeting of officers and directors at Woolen Gym Wednesday night.

Six teams will be in the league this year, and the following will be managers: Dick Jamerson, James (Pepsi) Perry, Ralph Cheek, Collier Cobb III, Joe Augustine, and Reid Suggs. They will select their own coaches.

Bob Ray was named in charge of equipment, and Coy Durham and Hughes Lloyd in charge of the fields. The Chapel Hill High School and Lions Club Parks at Carrboro will be used again this year.

The 12-year-olds will practice May 17, 18 and 21, the 11-year-olds May 22-24, and the 10-year-olds May 28-30 at Navy Field. The practices will begin at 4:30 p. m. After the practice sessions, the coaches will rate all players, and they will be selected for the teams on which they will play.

Cubs Strengthened; Play Here Saturday

The Carrboro Cubs were strengthened this week by the addition of Brownie Fitch who has just returned from service in Puerto Rico and is expected to see considerable action with the local semi-pro club.

The Cubs will be host to the Durham Bees Saturday afternoon in the Carrboro Lions Park at 3 o'clock.

Additional hitting power is expected from Iva Lee Hill, Russell Perry and several other members of the Carolina Varsity team, who will join the Cubs after May 14.

On Wednesday night the Cubs journeyed to Hillsboro where they defeated the home club 5-2 behind the pitching of Lloyd McKnight. George Foti fired two doubles and a single in his three trips to the plate.

Annual Carnival On Tap Saturday

The Intermediate M. Y. F. of the University Methodist Church will hold its annual carnival in the church yard tomorrow (Saturday) from 1:30 to 6 p. m. Entertainment will include bingo, cake walk, pet show, fish pond, miniature golf, darts and other games. Hot dogs with homemade chili will be served. Each entertainment will be five cents a game or 50c a dozen. The public is invited.
