

Voters Favor Annexation by Big Majority

Some 2,350 persons and approximately $5,700,000 in property valuation were added to the Town of Chapel Hill Saturday.

Unofficial returns in the special annexation referendum showed 298 for and 117 against. Only 39 registered persons failed to vote in the Country Club, Laurel Hill, Greenwood, Glen Lennox, Ridgewood, and Oakwood-Rogerson Drive affected areas.

In precinct No. Three the vote was 94 to 57 and in No. Five it was 205 to 60.

Addition of the area to the town will become effective upon the official canvass by the Board of Elections.

Two Directors Elected by Jaycees

Lindy Sparrow and Everett Wilkinson were elected members of the board of directors of the Chapel Hill Jaycees at their meeting at the Carolina Inn last Thursday night. The two additional directors were named to comply with a recent by-law change which upped the number of directors from six to eight.

Guests at the meeting included Eddie Osawa, Japanese exchange student at Chapel Hill High School, Marilyn Marcell of Chapel Hill who will go to Germany next fall as a high school exchange student, and Art Bennett with whom young Osawa has stayed while in Chapel Hill. The Jaycees have financial part of the expenses of the exchange student program.

Congregation Pays Honor to Hartungs

The congregation of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and the Lutheran students in the University recently presented a silver tray to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartung for their faithful service to the church. The presentation (a surprise to the Hartungs) was made at the church's picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartung will leave this summer to move to Richmond, Va., where Mr. Hartung will join the Medical College of Virginia as head of graduate research work in its School of Pharmacy. In order to take his new post there, he has resigned from the faculty of the University's School of Pharmacy.

Hobbs and Durham Win Second Primary Likely to Decide State Senate and County Commissioner Posts

Chairman R. J. M. Hobbs of Chapel Hill was renominated as a Democratic candidate for the Orange County Board of Commissioners Saturday in a primary that left two possible run-offs and gave a generous vote to Congressman Carl T. Durham, also of Chapel Hill.

In carrying every county in the Sixth Congressional District, including his opponent's home county of Alamance, Mr. Durham was renominated by an unofficial vote of 26,395 to 16,631. Only one precinct is not included in the returns.

The possible run-offs in Orange County are between John T. Manning and Edwin S. Lanier, both of Chapel Hill, for the State Senate; and Donald M. Stanford of Chapel Hill and Sim Efland of Efland for the second seat at stake on the Board of Commissioners.

In the Board of Education race, John Hawkins of Cedar Grove led Vernon Truesdale of Durham RFD by a narrow margin. Hawkins is the incumbent.

The official returns from the primary will be canvassed by the Board of Elections in Hillsboro today (Tuesday), after which runners-up will decide whether they will call for a second primary.

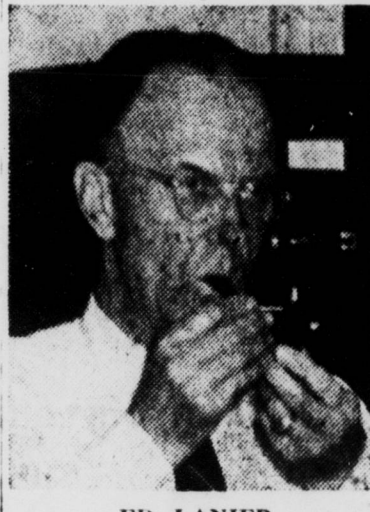

Mr. Lanier, with 1,764 votes, was runner-up to Mr. Manning with 2,024 votes. Ed Hamlin of Hillsboro ran third with 1,366 votes.

Mr. Lanier said yesterday (Monday) that he appreciated "very much the vote given me in the primary, and I have under consideration calling for a run-off. I will

Chapel Hill Chaff L.G.

When Governor Hodges was here last Saturday for the unveiling of the Frank Graham portrait one of his friends spoke to him of having been deeply interested in his recent speech about the shortages of water in North Carolina. I happened to be in the surrounding group and heard the conversation. The occasion was not one for the discussion of serious matters and so, naturally, the Governor did not go into this one at length. He commented upon the crises that had been created by the great increase in the use of water—an increase the extent of which nobody had foreseen and hence many communities had not provided for. He spoke of the State government's unceasing study of the problem and its determination to do everything possible to conserve the water supply by giving expert advice to local governments and industries about the building of reservoirs and the prevention of the pollution of streams.

Of course, as everybody who can read knows, the dwindling of the water supply is not peculiar to North Carolina. The falling of the "water table" (the water level beneath the surface of the earth) has become so well recognized as a threat to the national welfare that it is engaging the attention of scientists and engineers in the employ of the national government.

I have used the word shortages, in the plural, for the shortage of water in North Carolina is not continuous and is not spread over the whole State. There are periods of heavy rainfall when we have far more water than we want; and consider the difference in the quantity of water available.

Friday Sounds Warning on Loss of Faculty Members; Graham Resigns; Trustees Approve Car Restrictions

William Friday, Acting President of the University, yesterday sounded a warning to the Board of Trustees that immediate steps must be taken to stop the exodus of faculty members to better paying jobs.

During the lengthy meeting in Gerrard Hall the Trustees:

1. Accepted the resignation of Chancellor Edward Kidder Graham from the Woman's College in Greensboro and appointed W. W. Pierson, dean of the University's Graduate School, as Acting Chancellor, effective about June 5.

2. Approved the Visiting Committee's report barring freshmen students from keeping cars at the University beginning in the fall of 1956 and prohibiting car ownership by sophomore students who have not maintained a "C" average, effective in the fall of 1957.

3. Adopted a resolution proposed by D. L. Ward of New Bern reaffirming "that Consolidation be continued and strengthened."

Almost 200 faculty members have resigned from the University in the past 18 months, and more than half of that number quit to take better paying or more responsible positions, Acting President Friday told the Trustees.

"Sufficient salary funds to retain the competence and ability we have here" was declared a must by Mr. Friday. "If something isn't done, and done soon," he said, "the loss to our institutions will be tragic and the damage beyond the possibility of repair in the foreseeable future."

Just during the past week, he added, he has learned that seven members of the faculty are considering jobs with salaries ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 over their present salaries.

In his letter of resignation Chancellor Graham said that "dissatisfaction" at the Woman's College relates not only to faculty-administrative differences but also to "basic differences of educational philosophy which cannot be reconciled." A change in administration is essential, said Mr. Graham, both for the administration and the college.

President Friday commended Chancellor Graham for his cooperation during inquiry on the situation and said that his decision "reflects great personal concern for the welfare of the Woman's College."—C. H.

Lesley Frost Makes a Short Stop Here; Returns Later for Illustrated Lecture

Lasley Frost, writer, editor, and lecturer, daughter of the celebrated poet, Robert Frost, was in the village for a hurried visit at the week-end. Traveling alone in her automobile, she arrived from Washington Friday evening, spent the night at the Carolina Inn, and left immediately after luncheon Saturday to join her husband, Joseph W. Ballentine, former head of the Far Eastern division of the State Department, in Miami, Florida.

Miss Frost was eager to make the acquaintance of Chapel Hill because of what she had heard of it from her father. Year after year he has charmed audiences here with readings of his poetry and with his humor and philosophy. He and Mrs. Clifford P. Lyons, and his daughter were sorely disappointed to find that they were out of town.

An extraordinarily handsome woman, with an unmistakable likeness to her father, Miss Frost has led a life of variety and, sometimes, of adventure. Once she was the only one of two women (the other being the skipper's wife) in the crew of a sailing vessel that made the voyage from Gloucester, Massachusetts, through the icy waters north of Scotland, to Oslo, Sweden, in 23 days.

She and her husband are now preparing to conduct a tour of Greece, the Greek Islands, and other Mediterranean lands. They will go on the Greek Line flag-ship, Olympia, leaving New York July 27 and returning there September 11. This is called a classic tour. Both the tour conductors speak several languages and are versed in European culture. On this trip they will add to their already splendid collection of colored photographs and these will be shown in the fall on a lecture tour which will embrace Chapel Hill.

The Olympia's passengers will visit Athens, Daphni, Corinth, Mycenae, Epidaurous, Nauplion, Delphi, Thebes, Ledavia, and Marathon, and will then take a short cruise to the islands of Thases and Samothrace. There will be a side trip to Madrid (where Miss Frost used to be director of the U. S. Information Library Service). The itinerary for Italy includes Rome, Assisi, Florence, Milan, and the Italian lakes. And there will be a call at Lisbon.
