

Gov. Hodges Here Tonight To Explain Amendments

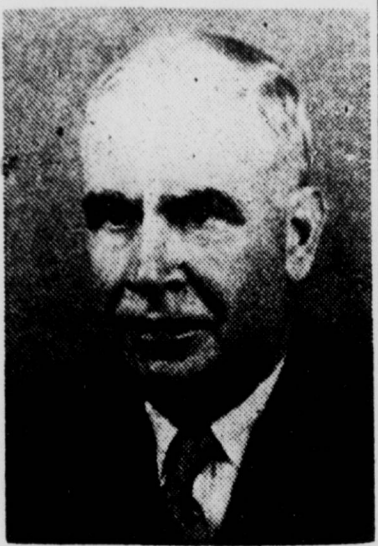

To encourage support of the proposed amendments to the N. C. Constitution implementing the Pearsall Plan for the schools, Governor Hodges will speak twice—once to the public and once to a joint meeting of civic clubs—here tonight (Tuesday).

Gov. Hodges will address the public at Carroll Hall at 8:15 p.m. Earlier he will speak at a joint meeting of the Chapel Hill Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at the Carolina Inn at 6:45 o'clock.

He will be introduced by Rep. John W. Umstead at both places.

Mr. Hodges has been lending the weight of his office to passage of the amendments on which the citizens of North Carolina will vote next Saturday. His talks here are part of a series of speeches he will make in support of the amendments in the state this week.

Mr. Hodges is coming to Chapel Hill at the invitation of the Kiwanis Club, which invited the

Newmans Return From West Coast

William S. Newman, professor of music at the University, has returned from a two-month tour of the west coast and western states, which included recitals, lectures and teaching engagements.

Mrs. Newman and their son, Craig, accompanied Mr. Newman on the trip, which also included camping and vacationing at Grand Canyon and Yellowstone National Parks.

During the fall semester Mr. Newman will have a Kenan leave of absence, working on a long-time project, his "History of the Sonata Idea," which he hopes to complete this year.

University's Footballers Open Drills

The University's football team began practices Saturday morning under a new regime headed by Coach Jim Tatum.

Mr. Tatum is expecting much this season from a 6-3, 230 pound lineman starting his 10th year in organized football and from powerful and speedy halfback Ed Sutton who has bordered on stardom for years.

Coach Tatum figures wherever you put Stewart Pell he will bolster a team, and that's why he has no misgivings about switching him from center to tackle in summer manipulations of the Tar Heels. Too, he expects Sutton to come into his own as one of the nation's top halfbacks.

Pell was originally a tackle, anyway.

And he got that ten years' experience this way:

The 24-year old Pell came to UNC from a four-year Navy hitch, during which he was named to the All-Navy team.

He played one year of freshman football at Shippensburg State Teachers College in Pennsylvania prior to entering the service.

And prior to that he had four years of high school play.

Pell was ineligible here last year, but worked out regularly.

When Tatum took over, he envisioned the big boy as a certain All-American as a linebacker center. So last spring Pell was a center on the Tar Heel squad.

Spectators who saw him in the Blue-White game were duly impressed with his outstanding talent, strength and speed. Some contended, however, that he was more at home at tackle.

Coach Tatum had been worrying all along about his tackle position and toyed with the idea of shifting Pell. He made the decision when it was learned veteran star tackle Jack Lineberger would not be back this fall.

Mr. Tatum has fingered both Sutton and Pell as potential All-Americans, calling Sutton "one of the finest halfbacks in the country" and ranking Pell with his best at Maryland.

Sutton, the Morehead Scholar from Cullowhee, averaged better than eleven yards per carry as a sophomore, and was the Tar Heels' best last year with 7.6 every time he took ball in hand.

An explosive runner with both speed and power, Sutton has his spectacular days each season. In 1954, he scored from more than 50 yards away the first three times he carried the ball against Wake Forest, and in 1955 dashed 70 and 90 yards against South Carolina.

Bounds Family in New Home

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Bounds and their children have moved from Pine Bluff Trail into the new house they recently bought on Mt. Bolus. Their phone number there is 8-0502.

Carrboro School, Reid Suggs, principal, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Sarah P. Rose, Carrboro; Mrs. Martha B. Brooks, Carrboro; Mrs. Pansy E. Dubson, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Jewel K. Alexander, Carrboro; Mrs. Constance B. Strupe, Chapel Hill; Miss Kay Rogers, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Virginia M. Grantham, Carrboro; Miss Corinne Lambeth, Carrboro; Miss Agnes Andrews, Chapel Hill; Miss Ann Huie, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Loula L. Madry, Chapel Hill, route 2; Miss Claudia M. Cates, route 1, Chapel Hill; Mrs. Ethylene F. Studenaker, Carrboro.

Roberts Comparing Pullets

Reid Roberts of St. Marys Community is comparing 2000 Hyline hybrid pullets with 2000 H and N first cross Leghorns. Mr. Roberts says that it is too soon to make any comparison yet, but his H and N Leghorns seem to be immune to the black-head disease which has given so much trouble in some other chickens this year.

Chapel Hill Chaff

J. J. The Rupert Jernigans' short-legged mongrel Snuffy is a one-woman dog. The woman is Mrs. Jernigan. Snuffy only tolerates other members of the family. He loves Mrs. Jernigan and carefully observes every move she makes. He thinks nothing of it when Mr. Jernigan takes off for work, but if Mrs. Jernigan leaves the house without taking him along he is as good as whipped.

Mr. Jernigan says Snuffy and Mrs. Jernigan have an understanding from which he is excluded. "A week or so ago when the weather turned cold," he said, "we were in the living room after supper when Snuffy stationed himself directly in front of my wife and just sat there looking at her. I had no idea what was the matter with him. But she did. She said, 'He wants his sweater,' and went upstairs and got an old sweater we put over him when he's cold. She threw it across his back and shoulders and he was set for the evening. Laid right down and went to sleep. It was the first time he'd seen the sweater since last winter."

Some Chapel Hillians like dogs and others don't. Miss Mary Gilson is among the don'ts. One thing that's soured her on them is that she's often kept awake at night by the barking of her neighbors' dogs. This seems reasonable enough.

A recent issue of the Weekly quoted Postmaster Paul Cheek as saying Chapel Hill dogs don't bite postmen as often as dogs in other towns are reported to do. When Miss Gilson received that issue of the paper in North Adams, Mass., where she was visiting, she wrote us the following letter:

"Isn't your dog article an example of the tendency to whitewash any fault of Chapel Hill? Whether our good postmen enjoy freedom from dog-bites or not, I think you will find they do NOT enjoy having their legs and trousers nipped at. Send a photographer around Chapel Hill to spend a day in impartially observing the dogs. They gang up and rend the trousers of garbage men, delivery men, our postman and any guests who dare to appear in our bailiwick.

"New England towns seem to recognize the priority rights of humans. Wherever I visit I am not awakened by the yelping of terriers or the baying of hounds!"

Only Two Railbirds

When the University's football squad began its first before-breakfast practice session at 6:30 Saturday morning the only spectators (in addition to the players and coaches themselves) were Bob Bartholomew of the University News Bureau and E. R. Edmonds, Pfc. Briles, the son of Mrs. Clara Briles of Carrboro, is in the U. S. Marines and stationed at Camp Lejeune.

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Mary Edmonds of Chapel Hill, Route 1, to Pfc. Carl Briles of Carrboro on August 11 in Hillsboro has been announced by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Edmonds, Pfc. Briles, the son of Mrs. Clara Briles of Carrboro, is in the U. S. Marines and stationed at Camp Lejeune.

Returns to WCII

Ty Boyd, popular announcer, has returned to radio station WCII as an early morning disc jockey and announcer. He has been working at WTVD-TV in Durham, and will continue there on a part-time basis.

Welfare Head Resigning To Take Post in Durham

Mrs. Jane Parker of Chapel Hill, Orange County welfare superintendent for the past two years, has been named executive secretary of Durham's Family Service Agency.

She will begin her new duties some time between October 1 and November 1.

The wife of John A. Parker, a member of the University faculty, Mrs. Parker was described by Durham executives who employed her as being "adequately equipped to handle the position. . . and will add much to the program of the agency and community at large."

Mrs. Parker, who has two sons, ages 18 and 21, is a native of Maine. She received her degrees in social work from the University.

Prior to her UNC work, Mrs. Parker attended Radcliffe College at Cambridge, Mass., and Simmons College in Boston.

Mrs. Parker was employed by the Orange County Welfare Department as a child welfare worker for four years before she became department superintendent.

Her experience also includes six years as a probation officer with the Boston Juvenile Court and two years of service during World War II with USO-Traveler's Aid.

Mrs. Parker is a member of the National Assn. of Social Workers, and the American Public Welfare Assn. She has served for four years as secretary of the Chapel Hill Community Council.

Schools Open Wednesday Throughout the County; Orientation Here Today

Weekly Holiday

Today's is an abbreviated issue of the Weekly in order that members of the staff could enjoy the Labor Day holiday yesterday (Monday) the same as you and yours. The staff thanks you.

All schools of Orange County will open for the 1956-57 scholastic year tomorrow (Wednesday). About 7,000 students are expected to be enrolled, according to tentative estimates. Schools will begin at 8:20 a.m. and will turn out about noon following a short schedule. But on Thursday, September 6, the regular and longer instruction hours will begin. Lunchrooms will open on Thursday, too.

Orientation

Chapel Hill High School Principal J. Wesley Noble yesterday reminded all new students, whether newcomers to town or from feeder schools in the county, of the orientation program today (Tuesday) at the High School Auditorium, beginning at 10:30 a.m. It is imperative that the new students be present to meet teachers, tour the schools and be instructed on the high school operating methods, Mr. Noble said.

Efland Firm to Occupy New Site
