

Observe Founders' Day Here Friday

This will be Chancellor House's final time of being master of ceremonies at a University Day; he retires at the end of this school year.

The pageantry will be colorful, including student choruses, band, ROTC uniformed units, and the costumed representatives of Davie and the others.

Davie is the "Father of the University of North Carolina," and in his day he was a dashing and spectacular figure in the state. Born in England, he came to North Carolina, lived in Halifax County, was graduated from Princeton University, and returned to active life in this state. He was, according to people who knew him, "tall, elegant in person, graceful, and affable in manner."

By his eloquence and his influence he got the Legislature to authorize the University and to appropriate funds. He personally selected the site, and announced his choice under a huge tree, now called the Davie Poplar.

His interest continued. He helped to select the first faculty. He helped establish the courses to be taught. And in the years that followed he sometimes dropped into Chapel Hill and asked questions of the students to determine what and how much they were learning. He was frequently a "one-man visiting committee."

Following the ceremonies next Friday morning the Annual Alumni Luncheon will be held at Lenoir Hall. Classes will be dismissed at 11 o'clock and will resume again after 12.

Executive Board of Elementary School PTA Makes Plans for Academic Year

The Executive Board of the Chapel Hill Elementary School PTA met Thursday evening at the school to make plans for the academic year.

A. K. King, president, asked the chairman of each committee to submit the respective budgetary requests for the year on or before Monday, October 15, to Miss Mildred Mooneyhan, principal of the school. Miss Mooneyhan was instructed to give them to H. R. Ritchie, who in turn will arrange for hearings if necessary and be ready to present the budget to the PTA meeting on November 8.

The Board unanimously agreed that the programs of the PTA for the year should be limited to activities and discussions about the work of the children, their problems, their needs as seen by the parents and the teachers, and possible remedies.

The first meeting of the PTA will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, October 11, in the auditorium of the school. After a brief business meeting the parents will go to their children's respective rooms to meet the teachers and become acquainted with their children's work.

The following appeal for help is from Neville's Chapel: "Neville's Chapel is a small Negro church five miles west of Chapel Hill and five miles away from any other church. The members owe $15 on a $65 heater, and they want to have their piano tuned and finish painting the church. They will appreciate any amount you may give to help and thank you for same. Send your offering to E. W. Neville, 425-A Canteron Avenue, Chapel Hill, and he will receipt you for your amount."

Radio Listeners Hear Baptist Preacher When Expecting to Hear Kimsey King

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. King sat by their radio Sunday morning to hear WCHL's broadcast of the regular 11 o'clock sermon of their son, the Rev. Kimsey King, pastor of the Aldersgate Methodist Church. At the appointed hour they heard the announcer say that the Rev. Kimsey King's sermon would now be heard.

When questioned yesterday, the radio station management was embarrassed about the mix-up but obligingly explained it, as follows: The control board had not been cleared from the football pick-up from Raleigh station WRAL on Saturday. Therefore, the church service being broadcast by WRAL for pick-up by other stations was still feeding into WCHL here.

At the same time the local telephone company was feeding the Aldersgate service to the station, but the feeder line had not replaced the Raleigh patch in the control board. When 11 a.m. arrived, the engineer on duty at WCHL switched to the circuit from the Oberlin Road Baptist Church in Raleigh.

Rain Postpones Scout Gold Rush

The third annual Gold Rush, scheduled for last Saturday on the Philip Schinhan farm on University Lake Road, was postponed on account of rain and will be held instead on the first Saturday in November, according to President J. Herbert Holland, of the Exchange Club, sponsor of the event.

"If we hadn't postponed the event Saturday, we'd have had a swimming party instead of a gold rush," Holland said. "But we've had a wet dry run over the course and we'll be ready in November."

A real nugget, mounted by Dr. Duncan M. Getsinger of the Exchange Club, will be presented in rotation to Boy Scout Troops having the best percentage of attendance at the contest, while each Scout who is there will be given an attendance badge. The troop or team which has the best record during the rush will be given an appropriate prize.

Taking Leading Roles in 'Anastasia'

The Carolina Playmakers' first production of the season, "Anastasia," will be presented Oct. 17 through 21, in the Playmakers Theatre here. Leading players in the UNC version of the recent Broadway success are shown above: Joe Whiteaker portraying Prince Paul, and Rusti Rothrock as Anna. Both are graduates of the University of Arkansas. Mr. Whiteaker coming originally from Pine Bluff, Ark., and Mrs. Rothrock from Anniston, Ala. Tickets for "Anastasia" are available at 214 Abernethy Hall on the UNC campus, at Ledbetter-Pickard's and from Box 1050, Chapel Hill. The allotted 1,000 season ticket books have been sold out, but single tickets at $1.50 will go on sale, Wednesday, Oct. 10.

Carrboro Boy Scout Drive to Be Held Today Under Auspices of Lions Club

At the last meeting of the Carrboro Lions Club it was agreed unanimously that the club would sponsor the Boy Scout's drive in Carrboro for the Occaneechee council with a concerted drive to take place on Tuesday, October 9th. The committee to plan the drive is headed by the Rev. J. Paul Edwards with the help of Carrboro's postmaster, Claiborne Oakley, and its mayor, R. B. Todd.

This drive is to be completed in one day with the help of some 64 workers. The day will begin with an Early Bird's breakfast at Red's Cafeteria, at which time the final plans for the drive will be made known to the workers and names will be given to the workers to be seen during the day. The cashier of the Bank of Chapel Hill, Carrboro branch, Mr. Hubert Neville, will serve as treasurer, and money as it is collected during the day will be turned in to him at the bank.

The workers have been organized with majors, captains and workers. The committee mentioned above are the majors. The captains are: R. H. Marks, the Reverend Henry Stokes, Harold Dark, Tete Lloyd, A. B. Whitefield, Carl Ellington, Joe Augustine, H. Mack Williams, John McLaughlin, Coy Durham, June Merritt and Dwight Ray.

Chapel Hill Chaff

The baying of hounds disturbed the autumn night at the Sample B. Forbus place. Mr. and Mrs. Forbus heard the unwelcome sound as they sat in front of the huge fireplace in their old converted mill-house home on the banks of Cane Creek twelve miles southwest of Chapel Hill. A few minutes later they heard footsteps in the yard and a knock at the door.

The callers were coon hunters. Their hounds had treed a coon on the Forbus property, they said, and would it be all right to shoot it down out of the tree? It would not be all right, the Forbuses replied. "We try to protect all animals and birds that come on our place," they said. "You can go in and get your dogs, but please don't shoot the coon. Just leave it in the tree."

Mrs. Forbus, who is a friend of every living creature, has had similar experiences with people who weren't hunters. One such had to do with the carpenters who killed a blue-tailed skink. The carpenters were repairing a building on the Forbus place when they killed the skink, which is a beautiful little brown and bright-blue lizard. Mrs. Forbus scolded the carpenters soundly when she saw what had happened. Defending themselves, they said the lizard was a scorpion and that its bite was deadly poisonous. The skink killers scoffed when Mrs. Forbus said this was a ridiculous superstition and that there were no poisonous lizards in this part of the world. "I may not be able to convince you that what I say

The people of Carrboro are asked to be on the look out for one of the above mentioned men on October 9th, for they will be contacted, and it is hoped that all will give to the scouts generously.

Carrboro PTA's Grade Representatives Make Plans to Help Better the Schools

Mrs. Bruce Riggsbee, chairman of the grade representatives of the Carrboro P.T.A., reports that a meeting of the grade representatives was held last Tuesday evening in the school library and that it was well attended by the representatives, including many mothers of newly enrolled pupils.

The duties of grade representatives as outlined by the State P.T.A. Handbook were read by Mrs. Bruce Ray. One of the most important duties of grade representatives as stressed by the handbook is to play an effective role in maintaining good parent-teacher relationships.

Reid Suggs, principal of the Carrboro School, discussed some of the major items of equipment needed by the school. Those present agreed to cooperate in setting up a general fund with which the principal and teachers could buy as many of the needed items as possible. The members of the group also voted to work within their own grades in close cooperation with the membership committee to achieve the goal of doubling the P.T.A. membership.

It was pointed out that the grade representatives can be of great help in assisting the Bud-

Hillsboro Noses Out Chapel Hill, 7 to 0

Hillsboro turned back Chapel Hill, 7-0, in a hard-fought football game at Hillsboro Friday night.

Charles Stanley ran 15 yards on an end-around play to set the stage, then snared a 16-yard aerial from Harvey Reinhardt for the game's only touchdown. The Reinhardt-Stanley pass climaxed a 60-yard drive in the second quarter. Hillsboro started the move when the Hillians failed to make a first down on their own 40.

Collins and Ray Barnes picked up yardage through the middle for Hillsboro on its TD push. Glen Collins ran an end-around for the extra point. Chapel Hill, stymied by an aggressive Hillsboro forward wall, was unable to penetrate beyond the 30 but played well defensively with the lone lapse when Hillsboro scored.

Community Chest Drive to Be Held Here on Nov. 2

Community Chest Day in Chapel Hill will be November 2, it was announced yesterday by Campaign Chairman Emery B. Denny Jr.

On that date the annual campaign for funds for participating agencies in Chapel Hill and Carrboro will begin. Walt Baucom, chairman of the Community Council of which the Chest is a part, announced yesterday that the goal will be fixed and final plans for the drive made at a meeting to be held this (Tuesday) afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Don't Let Whirlybirds Scare You

Don't be disturbed at a low-flying aircraft over the town and campus on Friday of this week. A helicopter will fly just above the rooftops. Photographers will be inside, making aerial pictures of the campus.

The University News Bureau is having the photographs made, and the helicopter is borrowed from the day.

It's safe for the helicopter to be flying low, but concern has been expressed that students and townspeople and faculty might be frightened by the whirlybird.

Town Manager Tom Rose has notified the police to assure any excited telephone callers that all is well and that there is no danger. Chancellor Robert B. House says so long as it's safe he doesn't care how much the machine flies around the campus.

The helicopter, stationed at Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill Airport, will land near Woollen Gymnasium, take on the photographer and then hover about the village, getting details. All this is contingent upon fair weather prevailing.

Music Winners: Adelaide Corbin, Janet McAllister, Gerrie Ham, David Jones

By Ray Smith Four young Chapel Hillians, three girls and a boy, have earned the opportunity to compete in the state contests for high school musicians next spring. They were winners in a local contest Saturday night at Hill Hall.

Democrats to Meet Here on Thursday

Democrats of Chapel Hill and Carrboro propose to organize to carry the community as solidly as possible for Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

The first meeting "of all good Democrats who are willing and want to work for the party during the campaign" will be held at the Town Hall here Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The meeting is open to all Democrats, the announcement said.

Jane Steel Given Schwenning Award

The Carrie Heath Schwenning Scholarship, given annually to a University woman graduate student by the Chapel Hill branch of the American Association of University Women, was presented last week to Mrs. Jane Mears Steel of Asheville and Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Steel is a graduate student and a part-time instructor in the UNC English Department. The scholarship, a memorial to the late Mrs. Carrie Heath Schwenning, was presented to Mrs. Steel at an AAUW meeting held last week in the assembly room of Wilson Library.

Receives Award

Dr. H. S. Willis of Chapel Hill, above, was presented the Southern Tuberculosis Conference Award at the annual meeting of the Conference last Thursday in Dallas, Texas, for his research work in the field of tuberculosis.

The Conference embraces the southern area of the United States from Maryland to Texas and is composed of all state and local tuberculosis associations in the region. The award, created three years ago, is given annually for conspicuous service in the field of tuberculosis.

Dr. Willis has done extensive work on protection against tuberculosis and on the nature of resistance, as well as clinical work on bedside treatment, drug therapy and on the complications of the disease. He has written three books and more than 100 articles on tuberculosis.

A graduate of the University here, he obtained his medical training at Johns Hopkins, where he remained on the staff for ten years before becoming Medical Director of Maybury Sanatorium, Detroit, Mich. He returned to his native North Carolina in 1947 to become Superintendent-Medical Director of the North Carolina Sanatorium System, the position he now holds.

To Present Paper

Marvin L. Granstrom, associate professor of sanitary engineering in the Department of Sanitary Engineering of the University School of Public Health, will present a paper in Pittsburgh on Oct. 18. Mr. Granstrom will speak before a joint meeting of the Sanitary Engineering Division of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the United States Section of the International Association of Sanitary Engineers.

To Open Concert Series This Evening

Eileen Farrell, popular radio and recording artist, above, will be said to possess one of the best voices in America today. Memberships in the Concert Series, which will admit holders to Miss Farrell's and three subsequent concerts, are still available. Costing from $5 to $7.50 for the entire series, they may be obtained at Kemp's and Danziger's or at the door this evening.
