

This Old Fire Truck Did Its Part—You Do Yours

This old fire truck of the Town of Chapel Hill has done its part in putting out fires. Now, the people of the Town can do theirs by helping to prevent fires. That was the message of Fire Chief J. S. Boone as he mounted the ancient vehicle for a Fire Prevention Week picture. The truck was parked at the corner of Franklin and Columbia Streets all week.

Board Declines to Loosen Town Parking Regulations

Representatives of student organizations pleaded with town officials at Monday night's Board of Aldermen meeting to loosen up on the new parking restrictions on South Columbia and Rosemary Streets. But despite their efforts, the Board refused to take any immediate action on the problem.

Ed Hudgins Jr., president of the University Inter-Fraternity Council, speaking for the fraternities which line the west side of Columbia Street between Cameron Avenue and Franklin Street, asked that the two-hour parking restriction placed on cars in that area at the September meeting of the Board be changed back to unlimited parking or that the ordinance be rescinded for 30 days until some solution is found to the problem.

Hudgins argued the fraternities needed parking space because they didn't have such space around their houses; they pay taxes to the town; the University grants the students the privilege of cars and the town takes it away; there is a parking lot on North Columbia which is never more than half full; and that the restrictions were passed during the summer when there were no students here to discuss the problem. In noting that the Merchants Association had asked for the restriction, Hudgins said that organization's and the town's problem but had hurt the students.

Bob Young, president of the University Student body, asked that the restriction be lifted temporarily until some solution could be found. Young said that the student government was now taking action to solve the parking problem and that it had already limited the number of freshmen car owners and had placed a $2.50 registration fee on all student cars. He said that a student committee was now at work on the problem, and said:

Miss Margaret B. Dolan, associate professor of public health nursing at the University, will be the moderator of a panel discussion of "New Patterns of Field Teaching" this week in Ann Arbor, Michigan, at a conference on field instruction and experience in public health nursing.

Record Star on Godfrey Program

George Hamilton 4th, popular recording star of Colonial Records of Chapel Hill, will be on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts television program over WFMY-TV Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

He will sing "I've Got a Secret." Hamilton's newest recording "A Rose and a Baby Ruth" is selling well throughout the nation.

Now a student at American University in Washington, D. C., Hamilton, who is a native of Winston-Salem and who attended the University here last year, has a regular television show over WMAL-TV in Washington.

Chapel Hill High School Will Tackle Graham Footballers Here Tonight at 8

Chapel Hill High School's Wildcats, looking for their fourth win after having taken their second loss at Hillsboro last Friday, will meet an improving Graham football team in the Carrboro Lions Park at 8 o'clock tonight (Friday) in a District III AA game that should shape up as a close contest.

Chapel Hill, which has been hobbled by minor injuries to key men most of the season, is expected to be up for the game. Coach Bob Culton said, "We are in the best shape we've been in since our first game." But the Chapel Hill mentor added that the Wildcats would have to be in their best shape if they expect to upset the heavier, higher-scoring Alamance County outfit.

While the locals were able to beat Cary only 12-0, Graham walloped the same team 25-0 two weeks ago.

Coach George Heckman, who played fullback to Coach Culton's tailback in the same backfield at Catawba a few years ago, has a tricky offense, featuring both single wing and wing T-plays, while the Wildcats

United Nations Day Program Announced

A varied and appropriate program for United Nations Day on Wednesday, October 24, was announced yesterday by Kenneth McIntyre, Chapel Hill chairman for the UN observance.

United Nations functions and activities will be detailed in Chapel Hill High School and University government and political science courses on that date, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a tree will be planted by the Chapel Hill Garden Club on the Elementary School grounds. University students from foreign countries will be in attendance at the tree-planting ceremony.

Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, a continuous film titled "Defense of the Peace" will be shown in the "Y" lobby on the campus.

And at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at Hille House a committee of women under the direction of Edward Danziger will serve foreign refreshments to a UN party. The party will feature folk dances of foreign countries as well as the U. S. They will be performed by members of the University Cosmopolitan Club.

On WUNC-TV, channel 4, beginning at 8:30 p.m., a movie featuring Danny Kaye will be presented. It is titled "Assignment Children," and is appropriate to the UN day.

20 Thousand Expected at Homecoming

With indications pointing to a crowd of more than 20,000 for the Carolina-Georgia game and attendant program Saturday, the weekend's gala celebrations of homecoming will get under way with a rousing pep meeting tonight (Friday).

The village and campus will take on a masquerade effect with elaborate decorations which will be displayed on storefronts, dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, and other buildings about Chapel Hill and the University campus.

A Homecoming Queen will be presented and crowned at half-time of the football game Saturday afternoon in Kenan Stadium.

Propose Changes in Zoning Statute

The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen at its meeting Monday night set a public hearing for Friday, October 26, at 7 p.m. on nine proposals for changes in the Chapel Hill zoning ordinance. The proposed changes, which will have to be advertised twice before the public hearing, were brought by:

1. V. I. Moody, which would rezone a tract of land on the Airport Road from residential to suburban commercial.

2. T. M. Green Jr. and C. Paul Roberts, which would rezone a 168 acre tract on the Taylor-Green farm on the Airport Road from agricultural to RA-20 residential.

3. J. R. Ellis, which would rezone property on the Durham Highway from residential to business.

4. C. E. Stephens, administrator of the Hudson estate, which would rezone lots off the Durham Road from residential to business.

5. Service Insurance and Realty Company, which would rezone the north side of Rosemary Street from a point 330 feet east of North Columbia Street to the west side of Henderson Street, from RA-6 residential to business. The petition was signed by:

Coach Culton said that he expected to start the same men as last week with the exception of the fullback spot, which will be filled by Leigh Skinner tonight instead of Tommy Goodrich. Other probable starters will be Clark and Carroll at the ends; Hogan and Rogers at the tackles; Pendergrass and either Mangum or Blake at the guards; Todd at center; Harville at quarterback; and Costello or Roy and Williams at the halfback posts, to go along with Skinner.

Rural Fire Group To Seek Members

Directors of Orange Rural Fire Department will meet at the County Agent's Office in Hillsboro Monday night at 7:30 to discuss the drive for additional membership in the association.

Several home owners have already paid their membership dues, but not enough money has come in to allow the purchase of the two-way radio requested by Fire Chief George Gilmore. Letters have been sent out this week to several hundred new home owners around Hillsboro asking them to join. In the event this appeal is not successful, the directors might plan a house-to-house membership drive.

The Rev. W. Robert Insko Has Leading Role in "Anastasia", the Playmakers' First Production, Opening Wednesday

The Rev. W. Robert Insko, chaplain to Episcopal students at the University, assumes a feature role in the Carolina Playmakers' first production this year, "Anastasia." The drama, adapted by Guy Bolton from the French of Marcel Maurette, will appear at the Playmakers Theatre Wednesday through Sunday, October 17 through 21, at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Insko will appear as Dr. Serenski, who befriended the heroine, Anna, during her long illness, and returns to convince her to leave the plot in which she is involved. Anna, under the tutelage of exiled Prince Bounine, presents herself to the Russian Royal Family as their supposedly-dead heiress.

The chaplain, who was ordained in 1950, was born in Paris, Ky. He received his A. B. and M. A. degrees at the University of Kentucky, and his M. R. E. and B. D. at the School of Theology, University of the South, in Sewanee, Tenn. He spent three years in the U. S. Infantry in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany.

Married and with two children, a boy and a girl, Mr. Insko is extremely popular among the students and is often seen having coffee with them or participating in their discussions. He first showed interest in UNC dramatics last year when he played the Parson in the one-act "Punch and the Parson," by Martha Rankin.

Chapel Hill Chaff

L. G.

All of us have read books and stories about the slowness and difficulties of travel long ago. For example, George Washington's tour of the South in his carriage in the 1790's. He was driven over roads part of the time deep in mud and part of the time deep in dust, and it took him about two weeks to get from Washington on the Potomac to Fayetteville on the Cape Fear in this state.

But goodness alive! think of what hardships three North Carolinians (Collier Cobb Jr., Roland McClamroch, and Jerry Hudson) had to undergo when they went to see the New York Yankees play the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series last week!

With Mr. Hudson piloting, they set out from here Thursday morning in the Cobb (Service Insurance and Realty Company) 4-passenger plane. It was a dark and gloomy day but they hoped for a change.

Bad weather grounded them at Richmond. Only one seat on a commercial plane was available and Mr. McClamroch took that. The weather improved and Messrs. Cobb and Hudson took off for New York. Bad weather again and they landed at the Northeast Philadelphia airport. They rode into Philadelphia in a taxi and went by train to New York. They reached their rendezvous with Mr. McClamroch, the Hotel Lexington, just 20 minutes ahead of him, for his flight from Richmond had been slowed down by bad weather.

None of 'em could go to Friday's game in Brooklyn because they couldn't get

Symphony Society's Annual Chapel Hill Drive Will Begin Monday, October 22

The annual membership drive of the Chapel Hill chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society will open Monday, October 22, according to Captain Walter C. Holt, membership chairman, and will continue through October 29. Plans for the drive were developed last week by the local Symphony Board, meeting October 4 at the home of Mrs. Benjamin F. Swalin.

In the 1955-56 season the Orchestra visited 56 communities, presenting 107 concerts heard by 140,000 children and 40,000 adults, in addition to radio and television appearances. Conducted by Mr. Swalin, founder of the orchestra in its present form, the nationally known Symphony will give two concerts here in the 1956-57 season, a free matinee for school children, and an evening program for members.

The minimum goal for the local chapter is $1,950, the standard fee for one adult concert by the full Symphony, now projected for May 5, 1957, with the children's matinee presented without further cost. A substantial portion of this amount has already been received from membership renewals.

Membership in the Symphony Society, which admits an adult to the concert here and to other adult concerts throughout the State, are available for $3, with joint memberships for two persons at the same address for $5. Students of any age may enroll for $1. There are also the following memberships which entitle the subscriber to vote and hold office in the Symphony Society: Active, $10; Donor, $25; Patron, $100; and Group memberships ranging from $25 to $100.

Jaycees to Hold Halloween Party

The Chapel Hill Jaycees will again stage a children's Halloween party this year.

Claude Wheeler and Don Mullis are the chairmen. Hank Cheney will be chairman of another Jaycee-sponsored event, the Voice of Democracy Contest in the schools next month.

$27,937 Community Chest Goal for 10 Agencies Set

A goal of $27,937.57 has been set for the 1956 Community Chest drive in Chapel Hill, W. B. Baucom, chest chairman, announced yesterday. Ten agencies will benefit from funds collected during the drive, which will begin with a big "Community Chest Day" on Friday, November 2.

The ten agencies are the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Y-

Teens, the Recreation Center, the Community Center, the Holmes Day Nursery, the Humane Society, the Chapel Hill High School Library, the Peter Garvin Library at the Glenwood School, and the Mary Bayley Pratt Library at the Chapel Hill Elementary School.

All of these agencies, except the Chapel Hill High School Library, were participants in the drive last year.

"Community Chest Day," Baucom said, "will be an all-out attempt to collect as much of the goal as possible. The campaign is being arranged so that people will be called on only once to contribute."

During the campaign fund collecting will be done in six divisions, Baucom added. There will be advance gifts, residential, health affairs, Negro, campus and business divisions.

The purpose of the Community Chest is to combine into one drive the raising of funds for community organizations, rather than having each of the 10 organizations conducting their own drive, Baucom pointed out. This way it is easier on the contributors, the collectors, and all concerned, he said.

Each of the organizations that benefit from the Community Chest in Chapel Hill serves worthy purposes in the community, Baucom said.

The Recreation Center, in the Old Methodist Church, provides entertainment and recreation for the children of the community. Among items included in its budget are the purchase of books and games, heating, directors' salaries and janitor service, entertainment, and refreshments.

The Negro Community Center is actively used and provides a recreation center for young people, a meeting place for civic groups, a playground for children, a library, and a center for activities by persons of all ages and interests.

The Boy Scouts include more than 50 boys active in the Cubs. (Continued on page 6)

Aldersgate Church Building Fund Drive Opens Sunday

The Aldersgate Methodist Church will launch a $30,000 building fund drive at the 11 o'clock Sunday morning worship service at the Glenwood Elementary School.

Gran Childress, chairman of the church finance commission and building fund campaign, said every member, as well as friends of the church, would be asked to make a contribution and pledge to the building fund. The campaign will last two weeks.

The Aldersgate church has acquired property on the U.S. 15-501 by-pass on which it proposes to erect an edifice at a cost of about $45,000. The church is so designed that it can be added to as the congregation grows.

Mr. Childress will be assisted in the campaign by Robert V. Cox, Dr. William Joyner, Leonard Hampton, Dr. Dwight Price, George Rettie, Mrs. Frank West, and Glenn May.

Only 27 Persons at Hearing on Limiting Number of Commissioners Per Township

Only 27 persons, including the five Orange County Commissioners, were present at the Monday night Hillsboro hearing on a proposal to limit the Board of Commissioners to not more than two per township, beginning in 1958.

The hearing had been requested after the commissioners this past summer passed a resolution to ask the General Assembly to enact a law limiting the number of commissioners per township. Following the hearing Monday night, no action was taken on the matter and there was no indication when a move to reconsider the resolution would be made, or if one actually would be.

Speaking against the proposal were Paul Wager, Mrs. Raymond Adams, Roland McClamroch, Mrs. Richmond Bond, all of Chapel Hill, and favoring it were R. O. Forrest and G. W. Lloyd of Hillsboro, and Hugh M. Wilson of Chapel Hill. Expressions of W. E. Thompson in favor of Collier Cobb Jr. in opposition were read at the meeting.

Mr. Wager said the proposal would "rob the county of unity and leadership" and pointed out that the trend now is away from elections by wards or townships or geographical boundaries. Mrs. Bond termed the move one which would result in representation by geography rather than population.

Mr. McClamroch said to limit the number of representatives per township may eliminate the best men from membership on the board and therefore would be a "risk." He maintained that such a plan has not worked well where it has been tried and urged the commissioners to reconsider.

Mr. Forrest, who is chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee and a past chairman of the board of commissioners, emphasized that the proposal is an "approach to fairness to the whole county." He pointed out that no objection was voiced last year to limiting the number of members per township on the board of education.

Mr. Wilson said he felt the limitation was "a step in the right direction," although he preferred a five-member board, all members of which are elected at the same time. "The people will take care of where they come from," said Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Forrest quoted Mr. Thompson as saying he still favored the proposal, and Board Chairman R. J. M. Hobbs read a letter from Mr. Cobb, who termed it "unwise."

Campaign Tomorrow Will Benefit Blind Singers Invited to Join Choral Club

The Carrboro Lions Club's eighth annual white cane sale will be held tomorrow morning (Saturday) in Hill Music Hall. Membership in the club is open to all singers in Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and nearby communities. There is no limitation to the size of the group, which is sponsored by the University's Music Department and directed by Joel Carter, but it usually levels off between 50 and 75 voices.

Last season the club presented a varied concert in the fall and with the University Glee Clubs and Orchestra, sang Mozart's "Requiem" in February, and gave its annual Commencement concert in June. As its first performance this season, it will sing the "Missa Brevis" in December as a part of the Mozart Festival being sponsored by the Graham Memorial.

Officers of the club are Charles Fulghum, president; Mary Nies, secretary, and Gene Strassler, librarian. Its accompanist is Mrs. John Shannon, a graduate assistant in the Music Department.

At Ford Foundation Meeting

F. Stuart Chapin Jr., professor in the Department of City and Regional Planning at the University, is attending a Ford Foundation conference in New York City on problems of urbanization in the United States and underdeveloped countries abroad.

University to Observe Founding Day

The annual ceremony marking the founding of the University 163 years ago will be held on the campus today (Friday), beginning at 11 a.m.

As usual, the Carolina Playmakers will depict the founding. The ceremony will begin on the steps of South Building and will end with a pantomime of the cornerstone laying of Old East Building.

Chancellor Robert B. House will preside, and this will be his final time as master of ceremonies, because he retires at the end of this school year.

As usual, too, the pageantry will be colorful, including student choruses, the University band, the ROTC uniformed units, and the costumed Playmakers.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Samuel Tilden Habel, pastor of the Chapel Hill Baptist Church. The Men's Glee Club under the direction of Joel Carter, will sing, and the University Band, under direction of Herbert W. Fred, will play. James Heldman is director of the pageantry.

Immediately following the cornerstone laying, those taking part in the commemoration will follow the band and proceed to the Davie Poplar where the morning program will be concluded. Following the ceremony, the annual Alumni Luncheon will be held at Lenoir Hall.

It Won't Rain

It won't rain today (Friday) and it hasn't rained on an October 12th in Chapel Hill as far back as Louis Round Wilson can remember.

Mr. Wilson, retired UNC Librarian, said it was a good thing the cornerstone of Old twelfth of October in 1795 because the cause of the celebration of University Day can be handled out-of-doors with the assurance (from patriotic weather prophets) that it won't rain on that particular day of that month.
