Today, Friday, is Homecoming Day at Chapel Hill High School and a full program has been planned to make the event a festive one.

The main attraction of the day will be reeled off at Carrboro Lions Park beginning at 8 p. m. when the Chapel Hill Wildcats play host to Roxboro in a regular conference game. But before the game begins, the celebration will already have commenced, in the form of a parade which will consist of many floats and cars and will begin from the Lions Park at 3 p. m., after an assembly program. In between the halves of the game, the homecoming queen, Miss Sarah Williams, will be crowned; and after the game, a victory celebration, it is hoped, will be held at the Recreation Center.

The football game shapes up as a good one, with Chapel Hill holding the advantage of the home field and Roxboro sporting the best record. In conference play, the Wildcats have won four, lost two and tied one game, while the Roxboro Rockets, coached by George Cushman, have defeated five opponents while dropping two contests. The Rockets, however, have defeated two teams, Hillsboro and Northern, which beat the Wildcats, and which were favored to win.

Cocher Bob Culton says that with the exception of fullback Co-Capt. Tommy Goodrich and Subir Roy, substitute halfback, who will be out the remainder of the season with injuries, the Chapel Hill squad is in good shape for the game, and that "we can win if we play the best we can."

Carrboro PTA to Hold Fall Festival

The parents who attended the meeting of the Carrboro PTA Tuesday night had an opportunity to hear an entertaining and enlightening talk by Mrs. Dick Weiss.

Several important announcements were made at the business session prior to the program.

Reid Suggs, principal of the Carrboro School, and the executive board of the PTA, extended an invitation to the Orange County Council of PTA's to hold their fall meeting at the Carrboro School. The meeting, which will be in the form of a workshop, will be held Thursday, Nov. 29, at 7:30 p. m.

The budget and finance committee announced that plans were being made for a Fall Festival to be held Friday, Nov. 2, at the school.

Mrs. R. B. Studebaker's first grade won the award for having the greatest percentage of parents present at the meeting.

Special Service Is Planned by Church

A special service in commemoration of the Protestant Reformation will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday, October 28, at the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Wade Hook, will give the sermon. Lawrence L. Lohr and Gunter Tachow, members of the Lutheran Student Association at the University, will present a summary of statements from Reformation documents of historical significance. Special anthems will be presented by the church choir, directed by Mrs. Edward Bernasek.

Special guests will be members of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

On Conference Program

William H. Parker, associate professor of economic history at the University here, recently delivered a paper on "National States and National Developments" at the Social Science Research Council's conference on "The Role of the State in Economic Growth." The conference was held in New York.

Drive-Up Teller Window to Open Monday

The new drive-up teller window of the Bank of Chapel Hill on its East Rosemary Street parking lot will open Monday, it was announced yesterday by W. E. Thompson, executive vice-president of the bank.

The bank parking lot is immediately in rear of the bank.

The facility will serve customers who wish to make deposits, withdrawals, secure change or obtain a new check book without leaving their car.

"We feel that this new window will be of particular benefit to those who desire fast, efficient service. We hope this new addition will help to indicate to you that we are growing both in resources as well as services," Mr. Thompson said.

Building Permits

Recent building permits issued by Building Inspector T. L. Burch included: J. F. A. Thompson to repair residence at Otis Road, $200; R. H. Marks to erect a carport at 408 Pittsboro Road, $800; Lennox Development Corporation to erect single family dwelling at 244 Hayes Road, Glen Lennox, $14,500.

Galloway Attends Conference

Joe Galloway, the University's placement officer, was recently at Old Point Comfort, Va., attending the annual meeting of the Southern College Placement Officers Association. The meeting was held at the Chamberlin Hotel.

You May Park Free 2 Hours

Chapel Hill shoppers may now park for two hours without charge on the customer parking lot at the corner of North Columbia and East Rosemary Streets.

President Carl Smith said the two-hour limit, extended from one hour, is designed primarily to "enable people to shop without rushing instead of feeling they are being chased off the lot."

The extended time limit went into effect this week, and all one has to do to park free on the lot is have his or her ticket stamped by one of the members of the Chapel Hill Parking Association.

No other changes were made at the meeting of the association this week. There are still charges for parking more than two hours, night parking, and not having tickets stamped by participating merchants. And, free parking to all is still offered Sunday mornings during church hours.

Jaycee-Sponsored Halloween Carnival Will Be Staged Next Wednesday Night

The annual Halloween carnival sponsored by the Jaycees will be held in the Fowler's Food Store parking lot on Wednesday night, October 31, between 7 and 9 o'clock. According to Co-Chairman Clyde Wheeler, all the children of the Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and Glen Lennox area are invited.

"We're going to split the kids up into three age groups and give a prize to the child with the best hand-made costume in each group," Mr. Wheeler said. "Furthermore," he continued, "we're going to take care of the parents by giving a prize to the mother that makes the best costume and by providing Belk-Leggett-Horton's lot for them to park in, a boon which Belk's has so kindly granted us."

Besides the costume judging there will be other attractions, such as a wishing-well, an apple bobbing contest, a house of horrors, a merry-go-round, and a pop corn stand. "Everything is for free," Mr. Wheeler said, "and we're even going to have a few clowns circulating to keep things going." He said that there would also be a live pony pulling a cart, for those who want to ride. The colored children are also going to have a party on the night of the 29th at the Community Center. All of this has been made possible by the Jaycees and the 100 per cent cooperation of the community.

Symphony Drive Reaches $1,838

As of Wednesday of this week, a total of $1,838 in memberships in the N. C. Symphony Society had been received from Chapel Hill and Carrboro.

The goal is $3,000 and will make possible a concert by the Little Symphony and the Full Symphony in Chapel Hill next year. One of these concerts will be free to school children.

Among the business firms which have taken out group memberships are the Bank of Chapel Hill, Service Insurance and Realty Co., Carrboro Woolen Mills, and the University National Bank.

Name Division Chairmen for Chest Drive

Chairmen for the six divisions of the Chapel Hill Community Chest drive were named this week by Walt Baucum, chairman of the fund raising campaign.

The divisions and the chairmen are: special gifts, W. J. Ogburn Jr.; residential, Sarah Umstead; Negro, Mr. and Mrs. Bynum Weaver; campus, O. V. Cook; health affairs, Mac Norwood; and business, Harvey Bennett, Baucum said.

These chairmen will spearhead the Community Chest drive to reach a goal of $27,977.57 which will benefit ten local agencies during the coming year.

The drive will begin with "an all-out attempt to collect as much of the goal as possible" on a big "Community Chest Day," on Friday, November 2, he added.

The ten agencies which benefit from Chest funds are the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Y-Teens, the Recreation Center, the Community Center, the Holmes Day Nursery, the Humane Society, the Chapel Hill High School Library, the Peter Garvin Library at the Glenwood School, and the Mary Bayley Pratt Library at the Chapel Hill Elementary School.

The whole Community Chest campaign is arranged so that people will be called on only once to contribute, Mr. Baucum said.

Harry J. Thomas Jr. Promoted to Captain

First Lieutenant Harry J. Thomas, Jr., son of Mrs. D. R. Brooks of Chapel Hill, was promoted to captain this week, at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio.

Captain Thomas is assigned as chief, Internal Information Division, Office of Information Services at Headquarters, Air Materiel Command.

The captain wrote a prize-winning short story that has won three Air Force prizes totaling $165.

Chapel Hill Garden Club to Meet Monday

The Chapel Hill Garden Club will meet at 3 p. m. Monday at the Institute of Pharmacy. Mrs. H. R. Totten will speak on "Native Plants of North Carolina." She will also show slides. Mrs. Totten is a judge in National Flower Shows and an expert on native flowers.

Chapel Hill Chaff

By Louis Graves

After all, there's no reason why you should know anything about the past of a person who has lived in places far away from you and whom you've been acquainted with only a little while. Yet, because you've both left the fires of youth far behind and you see him like yourself, settled down to a humdrum sort of life, it comes to you as a surprise to learn that he was not always as sedate as he is now but used to go gallivanting back and forth across the world and enjoying the lively adventures of a vagabond.

The man I am thinking about now in this connection is Wynnie King who, with his wife, is here for his second winter at the Carolina Inn. When they first came to Chapel Hill a year ago I remembered having seen his illustrations often in the Saturday Evening Post and soon after that I discovered that Mrs. King was the Hortense Flexner whose poems I had seen in the New Yorker.

The surprise I have mentioned is in a clipping that somebody sent me from a Post of many years ago, a little story about Mr. King's career. As a matter of fact the story contains several surprises to me; but here I will give only one of them with no more than enough accessory items to make the narrative understood.

Because of financial distress in the family, then in Tennessee, young Wynnie had to get a job when he was nineteen. He got one as weighmaster for the L. & N. Railroad. In the intervals of weighing freight cars he drew pictures of his companions. To test his belief that he could draw better

Girl Scouts Will Observe Founder's Day at Their Camp Site on Kerr Lake

The Girl Scouts of the Bright Leaf Girl Scout Council, representing 2,000 Girl Scouts in Durham, Granville, Orange, Vance, and Warren Counties, will observe Founder's Day on Sunday, Oct. 28, at their new camp site on Kerr Lake in Vance County.

The program, planned for 3:30, will give Girl Scouts, parents and friends an opportunity to view the progress buildings and plans of the Council's camp, in conjunction with the Founder's Day festivities.

Mrs. Max Schiebel, of Durham, president of the Bright Leaf Council, will preside over a thirty-minute program. Mrs. Van Kenyon will present a short historical sketch on Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouting in the United States; and Major W. A. Graham will explain the plans for the development of the new camp. Others taking part in the program will be Miss Ginger Tucker, Intermediate Scout from Warrenton and Miss Meta Mary Newson and Miss Carolyn Har-

Trustees Consider UNC Presidency Today

An extraordinary meeting of the full Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will be held at the Capitol in Raleigh today (Friday) for the purpose of approving William C. Friday as president of the University.

The meeting will be in the Hall of the House of Representatives, beginning at 2 o'clock. It was called last week when Mr. Friday was announced as the unanimous choice of both the selections and executive committees of the trustees.

Mr. Friday has withheld comment on his selection all week, adding that he hesitated to make any statement until after the trustees' meeting today.

Meantime, he has received scores of congratulatory letters and telegrams for having been the unanimous selection from a

Bermans Mark Anniversary Of Marriage and Business

A young Russian immigrant named Mary Yolek arrived in New York in 1907. She spoke no English. In that same year, unbeknown to her, another young immigrant named S. Berman reached New York from Russia. It was his first glimpse of this great land of freedom in which he was determined to make a place for himself. He had little money but much faith.

These two new Americans eventually became acquainted at the home of mutual friends in New York. Their friendship prospered. A cousin of the girl was the proprietor of a store in Wilmington, N. C., and in 1911 S. Berman left New York and went there to work in the store. The next year, on October 10, 1912, the two young people were married in Goldsboro. That same year they opened a store of their own in Durham, and on October 10, 1914, the second anniversary of their marriage, they opened a department store in Chapel Hill. That store, with Mr. and Mrs. Berman still at the helm, is now celebrating its 42nd anniversary with its annual birthday sale.

Berman's Department Store first opened for business in an old wooden building on the south side of Franklin Street about where the Carolina Theatre now stands. It moved to its present location across the street in 1926. It is the third oldest Chapel Hill business operated continuously under the same management. (Clyde Eubanks has been in the drug business here since 1892 and R. W. Foister in the photo store business since 1911; a close fourth to Berman's is W. O. Laccok's shoe repair shop, which opened in 1915.)

Mr. and Mrs. S. Berman (above) are celebrating the 42nd anniversary of the founding of their store here. The picture was made this year by Wooten-Moulton Studio of Chapel Hill.

In its 42-year history Berman's has become known not only as the place that "outfits the entire family" but as the place to go for an item you can't find anywhere else. In addition to new customers it gains as Chapel Hill grows, it has many old customers who have traded with it right on down through the years. Its employees are just as faithful. Only one of its seven staff members has been with the store less than nine years. Miss Elva Williams has worked at Berman's for 35 years. The others are Mrs. John Canady, 18 years; K. P. Williams, 9; Mrs. John McFarland, 9; Mrs. Gilbert Clark, 7, and, of course, Mr. and Mrs. Berman, 42 years apiece.

Congregational Christian Church Will Install New Pastor This Sunday

The Rev. Harvey L. Carnes will be formally installed as pastor of the United Congregational Christian Church here Sunday afternoon, beginning at 4:15 o'clock.

Open to the public, the worship and installation service will be attended by representatives from 45 neighboring Congregational Christian churches. The Rev. Carl Wallace of Fayetteville will preside, and the Rev. William T. Scott Jr. will give the call to worship.

The Rev. Gaylord B. Noyce of Raleigh will give the sermon, with the scripture reading by the Rev. T. Fred Wright of Norlina. The charge to the minister will be given by the Rev. Wofford C. Timmons of Southern Pines. This will be followed by the prayer of installation by the Rev. J. Frank Apple of Henderson.

The Rev. F. C. Lester, editor of "The Christian Sun," and the Rev. John G. Truit, superintendent of the Congregational Christian Home for Children, at Elon College, will represent the 205 churches in the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

Music will be by the local choir with John Shannon conducting and Lee Bostian at the organ.

Before coming here August 1, of this year Mr. Carnes served for three and a half years in Franklin, Va.

Assigned to Quantico

Having completed the 26-week Officers Basic Course at Quantico, Va., Marine 2nd Lt. Jimmy S. Neville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stacy J. Neville of Route 2, Chapel Hill, and husband of the former Miss Mary A. Poythress also of Chapel Hill, has been assigned to duty at Quantico.

How to Feel Good

Are you thinking, "Well, my little vote won't amount to much," DON'T! Your vote is as good as the President's, or anybody else's. It counts as big as the next man's. Go to the polls and vote your convictions. You'll feel good about it afterwards.

A. P. Willet of Eno had a pond surveyed last week for livestock water.

Two Methodist Services

The University Methodist Church has added a 9 a. m. worship service in addition to the regular 11 a. m. service on Sunday mornings to accommodate the growing congregation. The Wesley Foundation and the Youth Choirs furnish the music at the 9 o'clock service.

Planetarium Exhibit

An exhibit of fluorescent minerals prepared by the University Geology Department opened at the Morehead Planetarium this week. The minerals are very colorful under ultra-violet light.

5,000 Musicians To Perform Here

The annual radiant color of fall in Chapel Hill and a football Saturday get a tremendous lift this week as over 5,000 band members in their bright uniforms perform at halftime of the Wake Forest-University football game. The game will begin at 2 p. m.

The annual Band Day, an event eagerly awaited by fans and musicians will feature 69 bands and over 5,000 musicians. The bands will blanket Kenan's green turf with field-wide lines every 2 1/2 yards for the entire length of the gridiron. In addition, the UNC Naval ROTC drill team will put on its first exhibition of the year before the game and the UNC and Wake Forest Bands will perform.

The Chapel Hill High School band, under direction of C. F. Rierson, will be among the group.
