

Parking on Columbia Is Still a Hot Issue

The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen at a special called meeting last Thursday agreed to suspend a two-hour parking limitation ordinance on Columbia Street between Franklin Street and Cameron Avenue for a 90-day trial period beginning January 3, if University students can offer the Board a workable solution to the parking problem in that area. During the ban-lift period, the seven fraternities which are affected by the ruling will be expected to put into effect the solutions they have offered the Board.

Bob Young, president of the student body, and Wilburn Davis, chairman of the student government Traffic Advisory Commission, were present at the meeting. Young and Davis had both previously spoken before the Board in an attempt to get the ban lifted while the fraternities tried to find a solution to the problem.

The Board accepted the resignation of William M. Alexander and asked that a letter be sent to him thanking him for his services to the town and to the Board. Mr. Alexander, a radio advertising man here with Station WCHL, took a similar job with station WFMY-TV in Greensboro and has moved to that city.

Other action taken by the Board included:

Approval of an ordinance restricting parking on the south side of McCauley Street from Pittsboro to Ransom Streets between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Denial of a request to cut down a tree on West Franklin Street on the proposed site of a new service station.

Disallowed a petition by J. R. Ellis to rezone from RA-20 to suburban-commercial property on the Durham Highway.

Approved a petition by the Hudson Estate to rezone from RA-20 to suburban-commercial two areas in the angle of the new and old Durham Highways.

Approved a petition by Ted Green to rezone from agricultural to RA-20 a plot on the Airport Road adjacent to Moody's Service Station.

Approved a petition by Service Insurance and Realty Co. to extend the John Scott Trotter business property south on South Columbia Street to include the E. A. Eubanks property.

Deferred a petition by Service Insurance and Realty Co. to rezone property on the north side of Rosemary Street from RA-6 to business.

Approved a petition by Wilbur Kutz to extend the RA-10a district on the south side of Cameron Avenue from Wilson Court to Ransom Street.

Baldwin Gets Big Bass at the Lake

G. S. Baldwin caught a seven-pound large-mouth bass Friday afternoon at the University Lake. Warden Gene Ray, who weighed the fish right after it was hooked, said it was the biggest one caught at the lake this fall and one of the biggest caught there this year.

Mr. Baldwin, an ardent fisherman and a member of the Chapel Hill Fire Department, just did get under the wire with his big catch. The fishing season at the lake closed the next day.

Dance Club Party Set for Saturday

Mrs. English Bagby's High School Dance Club will hold its November party from 8 to 11 o'clock Saturday evening, November 24, at the Chapel Hill Country Club.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roe, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Selden, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Linker, and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Miller.

Mrs. McGinty to Be Department Hostess

The Community Club's Health and Welfare Department will meet at 2:30 p.m. today (Tuesday) at the home of Mrs. H. S. McGinty on Roosevelt Avenue. Dr. Dodson will be the speaker. After the meeting, the department members will go to the club's Christmas Ideas tea at the home of Mrs. Charles Rush.

At Memorial Hospital

Local people listed as patients yesterday at Memorial Hospital were: Mrs. Lucy Alston, Donald Thomas Deal Jr., Michelle Denise Bradley, Mrs. Grover Bynum, Lewis Cole, Miss Betty Ferguson, Mrs. Harry A. Gattis, James Cecil Jones, Miss Mary Louise Lloyd, Mrs. Herbert Lloyd, Waldo Lee McAttee, Mrs. Thomas Perry, William Howard Riggsbee, Miss Ruth Shepherd, Mrs. David Thomas, Miss Carolyn Joanne Tilley, R. B. Todd, and John Thomas Womble.

Henderson in Washington

Archibald Henderson gave a lecture on George Bernard Shaw last night in the assembly hall of the Library of Congress. His sister, Mrs. Lyman Cotton and Miss Mary Henderson, went to Washington with him. Mangum Weeks, alumnus of the University now living in Washington, said in a letter to a friend in Chapel Hill last week that when he had applied at the library for a seat at the lecture he had been told all the seats were taken.

Tuberculosis Education Project

The Chapel Hill-Carrboro Tuberculosis Committee, in cooperation with the District Health Department and the public school teachers, is sponsoring a number area they knew of which were used for outdoor concerts, pageants, fairs, baseball and other activities.

They talked about possible arrangements with the American Legion on lease of land on the Durham Road, about tying in with the School Board on its long-range expansion program, and about doing something with the land behind the present High School. They even discussed possible means of financing the projects, whatever they might eventually be. But it was decided to turn the whole matter over to Mr. Augustine and a committee for study before taking any definite action then and there.

Community Club and Quaker Women Will Send Clothes to Suffering Hungarians

The Community Club and the Quaker women of Chapel Hill are sponsoring a drive for clothing for the suffering people of Hungary. Needed are all types of warm clothing, especially for children and infants. Contributors are asked to give only garments that don't need cleaning or patching. Also desired are shoes, with the exception of high-heeled models.

Contributors should be taken to the former Institute of Government building on East Franklin Street between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Friday, November 23. Women of the two sponsoring organizations will be there to receive the clothing and prepare it for shipment. While most contributors will no doubt come to the front door of the building, those who prefer may drive right up to the back door and unload their donations there without parking on the street.

The clothing given in Chapel Hill and other parts of the nation will be distributed in Hungary by relief teams being sent there by the Society of Friends (Quakers).

HOUSE OF MYSTERY—Everybody is wondering who will be the new occupants of this structure built by Bruce Strowd as a Ford agency in 1923 and vacated last week when the Crowell Little Motor Company moved to its new location on the Durham Road. The building is owned by the late Mr. Strowd's daughter, Mrs. J. B. Johns of Asheboro.

For the first time since 1923, there is no Ford garage at the corner of Franklin and Columbia Streets.

And last week speculation was rife about what type of business or businesses would occupy what is possibly the choicest business location in town.

The large two-story structure is owned by Mrs. J. B. Johns of Asheboro, the former Miss Billie Strowd, to whom it was given by her father, the late Bruce Strowd.

Brodie Thompson was the contractor for the building for Mr. Strowd, and it was completed in 1923, the third Ford garage occupied by him. The first was opened in 1914 where the Port-hole Cafe is now and the second on Franklin Street on the present site of the Jefferson Standard and University Service Plants offices.

When the new building was completed, Mr. Strowd and the entire community thought it was

Culton Talks to Jaycees About Needs Of High School's Athletic Department

Chapel Hill High School will consider playing all its football games out of town in 1957 unless an agreement satisfactory to the school can be worked out with the Carrboro Lions Club on future use of the Carrboro Park.

Too, a committee of the Chapel Hill Jaycees will investigate the possibility of securing and developing a new playing site for the home games.

That came out of the Chapel Hill Jaycees meeting last Thursday night following a talk by High School Football Coach Bob Culton and resulting discussion.

President Walt Baucum named Joe Augustine chairman of the investigating committee.

Coch Culton came to the Jaycees meeting to thank them for their $250 contribution to the High School Athletic Fund and to show pictures of the Chapel Hill Graham game this year. But the pictures were never shown. The discussion ran too long.

The talk and discussion revealed that the High School is dissatisfied with the present financial arrangements on use of the park and has proposed a new agreement. The Lions Club is said to have declined to make a new one and, instead, turned the matter over to the Chapel Hill School Board.

The gist of Chapel Hill contentions are that the park management gets more financial return from a game than does the host team, and the under the present arrangement it could make more money playing all games away from home.

The Jaycees discussed nearby football parks, especially Northside at Durham, and other play areas they knew of which were used for outdoor concerts, pageants, fairs, baseball and other activities.

They talked about possible arrangements with the American Legion on lease of land on the Durham Road, about tying in with the School Board on its long-range expansion program, and about doing something with the land behind the present High School. They even discussed possible means of financing the projects, whatever they might eventually be. But it was decided to turn the whole matter over to Mr. Augustine and a committee for study before taking any definite action then and there.

Beat Duke Parade Today at 3 p.m.

The ninth annual Beat Dook Float Parade, sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, will be held on the University campus and in Chapel Hill, today (Tuesday) at 3 p.m.

The parade, which will feature 35 floats to be entered by sororities, fraternities and dormitories, will form in front of Woollen Gymnasium at 2 p.m.

A feature of the parade will be the Float Parade Queen who will be chosen from the coed student body. Selection of the queen and her six court attendants was to take place at the Pi Kappa Alpha House four days before the parade. Her identity will not be revealed until the parade.

Every group entering a float was eligible to sponsor a coed queen. Judges were prominent men and women from the University and Chapel Hill. They included Mrs. Kay Kyser of Chapel Hill, Jimmy Capps of Raleigh's WPTF and E. C. Smith, Chapel Hill theatre manager.

The queen and her attendants will be revealed for the first time as they ride on the Royal Float. The parade will consist of cheerleaders, several bands, student clowns, drill teams and drum and bugle corps. It will wind itself through the UNC campus and the town of Chapel Hill.

Trophies, which are now on display at the Y court building of UNC, will be awarded to the winning float in each of four divisions: men's dormitory, women's dormitory, sorority and fraternity. The floats will be judged on beauty, originality and effectiveness of idea.

Miss Tilley Has Operation

Miss Carolyn Joanne Tilley, who was found in her wrecked car beside the highway from the Raleigh-Durham Airport last Wednesday morning and was brought to the hospital here, underwent an operation Saturday. She was reported yesterday as getting along as well as could be expected. She had a punctured lung, four fractures in one arm, and several minor injuries.

Altrusans Hear Mrs. Sutton

The Altrusa Club met Thursday evening at the home of its president, Mrs. Carl Smith. Mrs. Lucy Sutton talked and showed color slides of places she visited on her summer trip to Denmark, Norway, and Sweden.

Hats Off to Prof. Kattsoff

Three books on philosophy are not to be sneezed at—that is, if they are written by one philosopher in a short period of time.

That is the achievement of Prof. Louis O. Kattsoff. One book is just out, "Logic and the Nature of Reality." Another one is going to press, entitled "Philosophy of Science." He's completing the third one, "Ethics: Making Moral Decisions."

About ten years ago, the student newspaper at Chapel Hill, the Daily Tar Heel, praised Mr. Kattsoff for something, and the headline on it was "Hats Off to Kattsoff!" The head can be repeated.

CHAPEL HILL CHAFF By Joe Jones

Miss Clara Crawford, librarian of the Durham Public Library, was the first Durham woman to own and drive a car.

Another one of Miss Crawford's distinctions is that she has been questioned as a law breaker at Scotland Yard, London's famous police headquarters and detective bureau. She told some of her Chapel Hill friends about it one day last week when she was over here having lunch at the Carolina Inn.

She was traveling through the shires in a rented car when a village constable gave her a parking ticket and said she'd have to see a local magistrate next day. "I'm staying in London," she told him. "I can't wait here till tomorrow."

"That's all right," the constable said. "What's your London police precinct? You can report to it."

Miss Crawford said she had no idea. She added that Scotland Yard was the only London police precinct she ever heard of.

"All right, take your ticket there," the constable said.

Dutifully, Miss Crawford hunted up Scotland Yard when she returned to London. It was a gray and forbidding pile of buildings on a bare courtyard behind an iron gate. She marched in, anyway.

The place may have looked gloomy from the outside, but there was merriment within when Miss Crawford had (Continued on Page 2)

Changes in Food Prices

Three price changes in the Colonial Stores advertisement on page six were received after that part of the paper was printed. The corrected prices are as follows: Silver Label coffee, 87 cents a pound; fresh cranberries, 17 cents a pound; Boston butt pork roast, 35 cents a pound.

Town to Mark Thanksgiving In Its Homes and Churches

Most of Chapel Hill's celebration of Thanksgiving will take place around the dinner table. There will be a Thanksgiving offering to go to the Share Our Surplus project administered by the Church World Service. Under this program, foods from our national surplus stores are distributed among millions of the destitute overseas. Every dollar given will send the hungry more than 100 pounds of food, which is supplied free by our government from its vast surpluses. Persons unable to attend the service but wishing to contribute may turn in their donations to Bill Cherry at the Bank of Chapel Hill.

Other Thanksgiving Day services will be an 8 a.m. Holy Communion and 10 a.m. family services both at the Chapel of the Cross and the Church of the Holy Family.

Chapel Hill sports fans can have their Thanksgiving Day football by attending the Carolina-Duke freshmen's annual game for the benefit of the Cerebral Palsy Fund, to be played at 2 p.m. in the Duke stadium in Durham.

What little downtown activity there will be on Thanksgiving Day will center in the movie theatres, the drugstores, most of which will be open at least part of the day, and several restaurants planning to remain open. With practically all other business establishments closed for the day, Franklin Street will be fairly quiet. The University campus, the students gone home for the holidays, will be even quieter. Both the University and the public schools will close Wednesday afternoon and reopen Monday. All stores and other places of business will resume their regular schedules on Friday.

The quietness of the University's four-day holiday weekend will be broken Saturday when many of the students, plus thousands of visitors, will be here for the Carolina-Duke football game.

Here's What to Put in Your Christmas Box for the Empty Stocking Campaign

Officials of the Junior Service League Empty Stocking Fund gift-wrapped present for adults—have had many inquiries about jewelry, a tie, handkerchief, what should be put in Christmas shawl, or any item of personal boxes for the campaign since they announced that clothes are not required knowing sizes. The family you "adopt" may be larger or smaller, of course, and you may feel you can include more particularly if several people are taking one family together. Consider that this is all the Christmas cheer the recipients of your generosity will have.

People wishing to contribute to the Empty Stocking Fund should call Mrs. John Crittenden at 8-0275 to arrange to "adopt" a family.

At Presbyterian Church

A family night covered dish supper will be held at 6 o'clock this evening (Tuesday) at the Presbyterian Church. It will be followed by a family Thanksgiving service featuring the Adult Choir and Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Jean Voullis. The church organist is Robert Gould.

Lincoln High School to Play Beaufort Wednesday Evening for Eastern Title

Lincoln High School's Tigers will meet Beaufort High School Winfred Johnson for the six in the Carrboro Lions Park at 8 p.m. Wednesday for the Eastern Class AA Football Championship of the N. C. Negro High School Athletic Association. The winner of this contest will play the western champion next week for the state title.

Coach Willie Bradshaw's undefeated and untied Tigers earned the right to meet Beaufort by defeating the Monroe Avenue High School of Hamlet here last Friday night, 20-0, in a regional playoff. It was their 10th straight win of the year and their 19th victory in their last 20 games.

A Hamlet fumble in the second quarter fell into Tiger hands and the locals turned that break into their first TD. Ray Bynum bucked over from the one-yard out for the tally.

Another Hamlet fumble in the third period paved the way for Lincoln's second score as alert and Tiger defensemen grabbed the boro, Route 2.

Score by quarters:
Lincoln 0 6 7 7—20

Most Valuable Award

Glen Collins, co-captain of the Hillsboro High School football team this year, has been voted "the most valuable player" on third period paved the way for Lincoln's second score as alert and Tiger defensemen grabbed the boro, Route 2.

Superior Freshman? No Wonder!

Intelligent fathers beget intelligent sons. That is apparently so in the case of two "superior freshmen" at the University. The fathers of the two students were presidents of Phi Beta Kappa here 29 and 30 years ago.

Ashmead Pringle Pipkin of Reidsville and Richard Beverly Raney of Chapel Hill are two of the 25 top students in a special program for freshmen of unusual talents scholastically. The 25 "superior freshmen" are together in several courses of concentrated study befitting specially gifted students.

Pringle Pipkin is the son of Benton Pipkin of Reidsville. Benton Pipkin was president of Phi Beta Kappa at UNC in the class of 1926.

Richard B. Raney Jr. is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Beverly Raney of Chapel Hill. Dr. Raney was Phi Beta Kappa president in the class of 1927.

Red Cross Board Gets Committee Reports

The Chapel Hill Red Cross held vice office stayed continuously a board meeting Friday night at busy, answering the calls of Serthe Red Cross office, with its vice men and their families. Chairman, J. Temple Gobel, Memorial Hospital has increased service. Sonny O'Neal, who had this work, since patients often represented the Junior Red Cross have sons in various branches of at the summer camp at Tuxedo, service, with whom they need to described his experiences there get in touch.

Mrs. Murray, chairman of Volunteering Service Groups, reported that a course in Home Nursing had recently been completed in Hillsboro. A group of volunteers attended a Halloween carnival at the Veterans Hospital, to which they contributed 500 doughnuts. There is a new class of thirteen Gray Ladies under way.

Mrs. Brittain, the Executive Secretary, proposed the name of Mrs. Frederick Cleveland as part-time assistant in the office. Mrs. Cleveland has had valuable experience in this type of work, and was unanimously elected.
