

'Star of Bethlehem' to Open Tonight

"Star of Bethlehem," the seventh annual Christmas program of the Morehead Planetarium will open tonight (Tuesday) at 8:30 o'clock. Witnessed by more than 100,000 persons in the past six years, "Star of Bethlehem" this year has a number of additions and revisions which will provide greater enjoyment, enlightenment and spiritual awakening as to the meaning of Christmas. The Biblical story of Christmas, taken from the King James version of the Bible, is told with the finest effects available and the great Zeiss planetarium presents the heavens as they appeared over Judea 2,000 years ago. Performances will be given at 8:30 o'clock every evening with matinees Saturdays at 11 a.m., 3 and 4 p.m., and on Sundays at 2, 3, and 4 p.m. This week, a special Thanksgiving Day matinee will be presented at 3 p.m. Those who attend "Star of Bethlehem" during the opening weeks will find less crowded conditions than will prevail later during the Christmas season. The demonstration will run through December 31.

Christmas Ideas
Tea to Be Today

The Community Club's Christmas Idea Tea will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. today (Tuesday) at the home of Mrs. Charles Rush at 330 Tenney Circle for the benefit of the club's civic projects. The public is invited. A silver offering will be taken at the door.

The club's projects include a fund for the Recreation Center, a musical scholarship to a High School student, and gifts to boys in corrective homes.

Durham President

Frank Hester, president of the Durham Exchange Club, spoke to the local club at Brady's Tuesday night on club organization and by-laws.

He also complimented the club for its state-wide blood bank project.

Dr. Duncan Getsinger, who presided at the meeting, appointed Wallace Williams to arrange for the club's annual Christmas party and installation of officers.

UNC'S DURHAM BEQUEST COMMITTEE—A group of Durham alumni of the University, meeting at the Hope Valley Country Club, make plans for an educational campaign to acquaint alumni and friends of the University with opportunities available in the bequest program. Front left to right, are George Parks, Frank Kenan, chairman; and John Manning of Chapel Hill and Durham who is chairman of the University's overall bequest program. Back row, Warts Carr, Kenneth Royall Jr., Roy Holsten of Chapel Hill, assistant director of development, and Hubert Rand.

How Orphans of War Veterans Can Get
G.I. Type of Benefits for Education

The following information about proved course of classroom training. Kind of courses approved: Legion Magazine and was submitted to the Weekly by Mrs. John Carr Heitman of Chapel Hill, an Eighth District Committeewoman of the American Legion Auxiliary: Sons and daughters of men or women who died as a result of military service may now get GI Bill-type education benefits under a far-reaching, Legion and Auxiliary backed act of the last Congress. The bill provides monthly benefits while taking approved educational courses. To be eligible a beneficiary must be the son or daughter of a person who died of injuries or disease resulting from military service in WW I, WW II, or Korea. Both college and vocational courses, but not high school courses, may be approved. This new act (Public Law 634, 81st Congress) creates the War Orphans Education Program, administered by the Veterans Administration, providing for such young men and women monthly financial assistance while taking approved courses of vocational or higher educational nature. Passage of the bill climaxed a long-term aim of the American Legion and Auxiliary's Child Welfare Program, which over the years has persuaded many States to provide scholarships for war orphans (the term "war-orphan" also meaning half-orphan, i. e., one who lost one parent as a result of war.) The new bill, close to an ideal one, is the first such Federal education aid for war orphans and is patterned after the WW II and Korea GI Bill education programs—an American Legion and Auxiliary concept which has thoroughly proved itself. Thorough details of the provisions for administering the bill, eligibility and of types of training that will be approved, may be found in the VA booklet Questions and Answers on War Orphans Education Program. High schools, colleges, accredited vocational schools and Legion service officers may obtain this booklet from the VA office in their VA region. Below is a partial listing of outstanding features of the bill. Benefit provided: $110 a month (full time) . . . $80 a month (3/4 time) . . . $50 a month (1/2 time) . . . If orphan is a minor, benefit is payable to surviving parent or guardian. . . . Nothing for less than half time. . . . $90 a month for "co-op" courses which alternate classroom study with on-the-job experience. . . . No benefit for "on-the-job" training without as associated ap-

Bunn Hearn Over
Illness, Visits Here

"Big Steam" Bunn Hearn paid a visit to Chapel Hill last week, looking as hale and hearty as some months ago, and announced he had just recovered from another stroke, suffered about three weeks ago at Bennettsville, S. C. That was the first time Chapel Hillians had known of any recent illness associated with the former U.N.C. baseball coach. He has to have an attendant with him now, but people who saw and talked with him reported that he is the "same ole Bunn, the same spirit and the same good humor. He looked just fine." When he was stricken at Bennettsville, Bunn spent a week in the hospital there, before being permitted to return to his home in Wilson.

Orange Churches Get Top Honors

The Baptist State Convention last week cited two Orange County rural churches for their improvement during the past year. Second place award went to Lystra Church, Chapel Hill, Route 3, and eighth place went to Antioch Church. The Revs. T. M. Linnens and Tom C. Williams are their respective pastors.

Did you know this fact about . . . NORTH CAROLINA

North Carolina is the 23rd State in number of airports with 114. It ranks 20th in number of airplanes and 20th in number of licensed pilots. North Carolina also has one first place in aviation that can never be taken away from it—the first flight by man in an airplane—Wilbur Wright at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903. Further dramatic progress in aviation, both commercial and private, is in the immediate future, for North Carolina.

Many thousands of visitors walk up Kill Devil Hill annually to visit the Wright Memorial, where not the least of its attractions are the surrounding countryside and its law abiding people who favor "legal control" of the sale of malt beverages in the best interest of wholesome conditions and their hospitable community.

Thanksgiving an American Tradition

Thursday, November 22, 1956

When the leaves come tumbling down again
And the weather's crisp and clear,
But inside it's real cozy-like
With a sort of special cheer,
It's getting close to the "thankful-time"
Which means it's time to say
Here's wishing you the many joys
Of a glad Thanksgiving Day!
