

CHAPEL HILL CHAFF By Louis Graves

A bulletin that came last week from the British Information Service in New York bore the headline, "New British Anti-Hookworm Drug, 'Alcomar,' Promises Relief from Parasite."

The word, hookworm, rang a bell with me. I hadn't heard it or seen it in print for many years. Now it reminded me of the campaign that was waged against this vicious and destructive little animal in North Carolina about half a century ago. It reminded me, too, that an old-time friend of mine now in Chapel Hill was one of the world's leading authorities on methods of fighting the hookworm.

I am alluding to Dr. William P. Jacobs. He was graduated from the University here in 1904 and stayed on one more year to become an M.A. He taught at the Bingham school two years and took his M.D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1911. He joined the medical division of the Rockefeller Foundation in 1912.

In 1917, after two years of service in the West Indies, he was appointed director of the anti-hookworm campaign on the island of Ceylon which the heat and moisture made a happy hunting ground for the parasite. He was a captain with the Army Medical Corps in the First World War. In 1929 he went to Travancore, a province of India, for a year and a half; then back to Ceylon for four years; then in 1934, to Madras. For seven years from 1935, with

University Budget Request Sharply Reduced By Governor And Advisers

Governor Hodges and his Advisory Budget Commission sharply reduced the budget request of the University at Chapel Hill — in salaries, in operational expenses and in proposed funds for new construction.

Many faculty members and administrators regard the cuts as jolting. What plans University officials may have for carrying their case to the General Assembly — and thus restore requested funds — will await close scrutiny of all aspects of the budget.

One favorable aspect of the Advisory Budget Commission's recommendation was the restoration of funds for the University's Extension Division. Chancellor Aycock had made a special point that state-wide adult education is a prime function of the University.

A striking example of the chops in requests: The University asked for selective salary increases on the main campus at Chapel Hill of $680,000 a year. Only $147,000 a year was approved.

The state budgeters also curbed a request for additional teaching personnel — with a suggestion that members of the faculty should teach a larger number of students per professor rather than add more professors.

In the area of "appropriations, requests and recommendations" for operating the University for the next two years, the University asked for and the Board of Higher Education corroborated the need for $22,244,082 for the next biennium. The Governor and the Advisory Budget Commission approved an appropriation of $18,247,823.

This is broken down as follows: First figures requested, second figures approved.

For Biennium
Division of Academic Affairs, $10,729,956. $9,617,995. Division of Health Affairs, $5,462,692. $4,404,525. N. C. Memorial Hospital, $2,109,417. $968,737. Fisheries $739,034. $2,556,995. Psychiatric Cen-

Research Inst., $171,398. $156,526. WUNC-TV, $110,751. $90,737. Salary Increases, $1,970,834. $452,308. Total, $22,244,082. $18,247,823.

New Construction
The Advisory Budget Commission turned down over $8 million worth of capital improvements expenditures on the main campus at Chapel Hill in the next two years. Among the requests eliminated was a $2,033,000 request for a new student union. The University asked for $13,847,399. The Governor's budget message to the Assembly calls for $4,983,000 on the main campus.

The capital improvements request by the University for the Division of Health Affairs totaled $6,106,000. The amount approved was $1,056,000.

The new construction approved on the main campus is as follows: Geology and Geography building, $750,000. Physics Building supplement, $210,000. Botany Building, $750,000. Venable chemistry laboratories, $240,000. Foreign languages building, $750,000. Saunders

Hall additions, $18,000; Dormitories for 700, $875,000; New cafeteria, $480,000; Swain Hall addition, $425,000; Hill Hall addition, $485,000; Total $4,983,000.

On Health Hill the construction approved was as follows: Public Health Building, $1,000,000; Completion of Dentistry building, $56,800; Total $1,056,000.

The requested main campus construction, which is not approved, includes, in addition to the student union building, dormitories for 1,300 students, an undergraduate library building ($1,000,000), maintenance shops, and renovations of the following buildings: Caldwell Hall, Murphy Hall, Phillips Hall, Playmakers Theater, Bynum Hall, New East, Davie Hall, L. R. Wilson Library, and Alumni Building.

On Health Hill the un-approved new construction includes completion of the Pharmacy building, supplements to Pharmacy Building, and funds for planning and preliminary architects' fees for new facilities to be built over a long-range period.

Jimmy Jamerson, Terry Stapleton And Relay Team

Chapel Hill High School swimmers broke three school records and tied another in a dual meet with Myers Park High in the University pool Wednesday, but still were defeated, 57-29.

Despite the fact the local Catfish were on the short end of the final point total, it was their best effort of the year. Myers Park is the top team in the state.

Newly established CHHS records: Jimmy Jamerson, with a time of 1:13.1, bettered the 100 yard breaststroke record previously held by Barbee Alexander, current teammate of Jamerson.

Terry Stapleton, swimming the 100 freestyle in 0:54.6, cracked the old record of 0:55.3 jointly held by Jamerson and Ben Crutchfield, '58 graduate.

The CHHS medly relay team — composed of Chuck Norwood, Eddie Kenney, Barbee Alexander, and Terry Stapleton — topped the previous record of 2:05 with a 1:59.1 effort.

And Chuck Norwood tied the time recorded by Pete Talbert, CHHS graduate, in the 100 yard backstroke, swimming the distance in 1:08.

The Chapel Hill swimmers garnered four first places. Jamerson led the pack in both the 200 free-style and 100 breaststroke. Stapleton was first in his record breaking 100 freestyle run, and Alexander placed first in the 100 butterfly.

The Myers Park medly relay teamed edged out the Catfish crew by two feet, despite the locals' fine effort. Bill Straughn finished second behind Jamerson in the 100 breaststroke, turning in his best time this season. Norwood, in tying the 100 backstroke record, placed second.

Skip Foster swam the 200 freestyle in the second fastest time of any CHHS swimmer this season, but didn't place in the meet.

Carrboro School Committee Will Nominate Teachers For Carrboro

The Chapel Hill Board of Education, the Orange County Board of Education and the Carrboro School Committee have agreed that the Carrboro School Committee will recommend by April 1 to the Chapel Hill Board of Education the names of principals and teachers whom they wish to have re-employed in the Carrboro Elementary School for the school year 1959-60 and that the Chapel Hill Board of Education will offer such teachers and the principal a contract for employment in the Chapel Hill schools for that year.

The three boards further agreed that the employment prior to July 1, 1959, of any new or additional teachers for the Carrboro school for 1959-60 will be the responsibility of the Chapel Hill City Board of Education with the advice of the Carrboro School Committee.

The Chapel Hill City Board of Education has taken steps to insure Carrboro's participation in the May, 1959, school board elections. Not only will the Carrborians have a chance to vote, they will be permitted to run for office. Thus

Is Your Tax Bill Paid Up? Property May Be Seized and Sold By Municipality

Chapel Hillians who have not paid their back taxes will soon get a little note from Town Hall telling them that unless the taxes are paid their property will be seized and sold for taxes.

The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen made that ruling at a meeting last Monday night when it was revealed that property owners owe the Town $39,380 in back taxes.

The Aldermen were told that $15,400 of the 1957 taxes have not yet been collected but only about $1,200 worth of 1948 taxes remain to be collected.

In other action the Board heard reports by (1) Y. Z. Cannon asking for the replacing of some 12 minute meters by one hour parking meters and (2) Joseph Johnston, superintendent of the Chapel Hill Schools, and Paul Houston, president of the Chapel Hill High School Student Body, that the parking meters in front of the high school be removed and that students be permitted to park there free of charge.

The Board voted to give the Recreation Commission $20 (to be matched by the Planning Board of Chapel Hill and Environs) for a study of recreational and park needs of the community.

School Plans Open House In Home Economics Dept.

The Home Economics Department of the Chapel Hill High School and of the Junior High School will have open house this Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. The Chapel Hill Board of Education probably will be there. Everyone is invited.

This is part of the school that belongs to all the residents and property owners of this school district and we hope that they will come and see it," said Mrs. Sanford Price, the high school home economics teacher.

Much living and nearly all spending in a family budget involves the home. To prepare people for this responsibility the schools have established home economics departments.

The Chapel Hill home economics courses have been designed to create in the student the appreciation of the responsibilities of homemaking. This is being accomplished by teaching the basic fundamentals and by the students' acquiring through practice the desire to continue work in the field.

The Chapel Hill schools' home economics courses which are elective include the following:

1. Child care: (a) the fundamentals and responsibilities of baby-sitting; (b) learning to select and provide food, clothing and play-equipment for all ages; and (c) the emotional, social, mental and physical development of children.

2. Clothing: (a) the study of materials; (b) construction of clothing and proper care; and (c) purchase of ready-made clothing.

3. Foods: Preparation of family meals emphasizing both the nutrients and looks of the foods; (b) food conservation-freezing for the family. (a roast need no longer be served for five straight dinners; it may be frozen and than served weeks hence).

Demeritt told the group that scouts in the District must hurry and register for Camp Durant if they plan to attend this summer. The camp is two-thirds filled, he said.

Calvert School Makes Changes in Name

The Calvert Method School of the end of an old and the beginning of a new era in the school's history. Under the guidance and ham Academy. Dr. J. Lamar Call with the leadership of Mrs. Bess laway, Chairman, Board of Trustees, Boone during the majority of its twenty-six year history, it has Headmistress, in a letter to parents of the 320 children now attending Calvert School, pointed out that "for the past ten years copies an entire block in the or more, while continuing to use the fundamentals of the Calvert method and curriculum, the school has become increasingly independent."

Another major factor affecting the change in name is the addition of the seventh grade to be followed in succeeding years with the addition of an eighth and ninth grade.

Durham Academy, when founded in 1933, used an adaptation of the Calvert method system of education developed by the parent school in Baltimore where a home instruction curriculum was developed to be taught by the parents of children living in isolated areas. As pointed out by Mrs. Page, "To continue this association of limited value would cost $10 per pupil or $3,200 funds which can better be utilized in improving instruction at the local school. The name Calvert Method School is under copyright by the parent organization in Baltimore and would (therefore) no longer be appropriate."
