

CHAPEL HILL CHAFF

J. J.

The word got around town Friday morning that Willie Marlow of Carrboro had caught a sixteen-pound bass at the University Lake Thursday afternoon and that G. S. Baldwin had caught a fourteen-pounder there the same day. Fishermen's eyes popped when they heard it. No bass anything like that size had ever been caught there before.

When the excitement had settled, it was learned that Mr. Marlow's fish weighed eleven pounds, six ounces, and Mr. Baldwin's eight and three-quarters pounds. At that, the Marlow bass is believed to be the biggest ever taken from the lake.

"It weighed about a pound more than any other bass I've seen caught around here," said Mr. Baldwin, who is a Chapel Hill fisherman from 'way back.

A. H. Bush apparently struck it rich when he agreed to demolish the old house at the corner of West Rosemary and Church Streets for the materials in it. He's discovered a lot of valuable pine lumber in the house.

"It's really wonderful stuff," he said the other day when we dropped by to watch him work. "As near as I can find out, this house was built more than a hundred years ago. But these yellow pine joists are as solid as the day they were cut. The only place I've found any rot is where rain seeped in around a chimney."

Mr. Bush is going to use the pine timbers in some houses he plans to build in the country.

Wright Files At Deadline Seven Candidates Now Running For The School Board

By Helene Ivey

Auburn L. Wright of Chapel Hill, Route 2, filed his candidacy for a seat on the Chapel Hill Board of Education subject to the May 5 elections only minutes before closing time for filing last Saturday. This makes seven candidates who will compete for the three seats that are available.

Mr. Wright is employed by the Poultry Division of the State Department of Agriculture.

Two of the candidates are running for re-election, Grey Culbreth, University's utilities manager who is chairman of the board and a veteran of eight years on the school board, and Henry Brandis, dean of the University Law School.

The other four candidates are Calvin Burch of Carrboro, cabinet-maker; the Rev. J. R. Manley, pastor of the First Baptist Church; Dr. David R. Hawkins, psychiatrist in the UNC School of Medicine and president of the Estes Hills School PTA, and Richard P. Local Building & Loan Buys Property For Future Growth

FUTURE HOME OF ORANGE COUNTY BUILDING AND LOAN

Purchase Amounts To Over $50,000

One of the largest downtown real estate transactions to take place in recent years was completed over the weekend when J. S. Bennett, president of the Orange County Building and Loan Association, announced the Association had bought the J. B. Goldston property opposite the town hall. While no actual figures were released, it is known the price paid for the property was in excess of $50,000.

"We have no official plans for building on the property immediately," Mr. Bennett said, "but we do expect to build a modern up-to-date building there in the not too distant future. Our building committee is convinced that the location will be convenient for our customers, and we will have adequate space for parking and a drive-in window."

The property has a frontage of 100 feet on North Columbia facing the fire station and 140 feet on Rosemary Street. Part of the Rosemary Street frontage is 200 feet deep.

"When we moved into our present location we felt that it would suffice our needs for many, many years," said Mr. Bennett. "We are already outgrowing our present facilities, and we know that Chapel Hill is going to make tremendous progress in the next few years."

"Demands for loans are greater than ever before, and we are most anxious to accommodate the needs of the people living in the area."

"During the next three months our building committee plans to visit other building and loan offices in North Carolina. We want to study their facilities so as to make certain that when we do build, our building will be as commodious and serviceable as you will find anywhere. We also expect to employ an architect in the near future to draw up some preliminary plans."

The Pharmacy Building on Pittsboro Road will be opened in the fall.

A few of the apartments in the new married students' housing development on Mason Farm Road will be ready in September.

Mr. Godfrey is a graduate of Roanoke College in Virginia, his native state. He has received graduate degrees from UNC and from the University of Chicago. He has pursued further graduate study in Paris and in London, studying in London on the last occasion as the President's Fellow of Brown University.

Meeting for Everybody Interested In Cancer Crusade Will Be Held Thursday

Carroll Hall will be the scene at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 2, of a meeting of all volunteer workers associated with the Cancer Crusade, which will get under way on April 5.

J. S. Nagelschmidt, Orange County Crusade Chairman, announced that the meeting will be open to everyone associated with the drive and with the year-round work of the Orange County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Volunteer workers have mailed postal card invitations to all crusaders but, Mr. Nagelschmidt emphasized, "we may have missed someone. The meeting will last less than an hour and should prove profitable to all who attend."

Dr. William S. Joyner, who is chairman of the executive committee of the Orange County Unit, will make a brief talk on the medical aspects of cancer. Campaign organizational plans will be discussed by Mrs. William C. Friday, who is vice-chairman of the drive in charge of neighborhood solicitation in Chapel Hill.

This year, the Orange County Unit will revert to the technique of solicitors or crusaders ringing doorbells all over Chapel Hill and Orange County and then turning in their collections to captains of whom there are about 35 in all parts of the county.

Mrs. Friday stated that neighborhood solicitation will be the principal technique of the local drive. The neighborhood drive will start on April 5, she said, and will continue until every home in Orange County has been visited. At each home will be left a pamphlet listing the "seven danger signals" of cancer.

At the kick-off meeting next Thursday, Mrs. Maurice Whittinghill, executive secretary of the Orange County Unit, will detail the large, out-of-Chapel Hill organization, which boasts volunteer crusaders in every city, town and crossroads in Orange County.

Names of crusade captains for Chapel Hill were announced last week. Listed below are the names of captains in Hillsboro who will serve under co-chairmen Mrs. Charles Rundgren and Mrs. Bobbie Knight, of Mountain View: Mrs. H. G. Coleman Jr., Mrs. Ben Allison, Mrs. Betty Sue Hawkins.

Weather Report

Since this paper was printed last Saturday the Weekly had no weather forecasts for Monday and Tuesday. It was, however, getting colder Saturday.

	High	Low
Thursday	78	55
Friday	71	50

Now begins the annual spring showing of the redbud. It will soon be followed by the gorgeous pagoda of the dogwood blossoms that are like cirrus clouds caught in the underbrush.

DON'T PICK THE FLOWERS — Maybe that's what Eleanor Smith, left, cautioned Judith Bunn, her companion on the right. The girls, both students at the University, are obviously enjoying the beauty of the first signs of spring in the Coker Arboretum, regardless of what they were discussing. The fact remains that the plants are there for the enjoyment of all and are not to be picked or removed, according to C. Ritchie Bell, director of the Arboretum. He invited visitors to the Arboretum, one of the world's show places of horticultural excellence, and emphasizes that many of the 34 different varieties of daffodils are now at the height of freshness and beauty. Miss Smith is from Atlanta, Ga. and Miss Bunn from Hantington, W. Va.
