seconded by William G. Long. This is a one-year agreement only. Under the terms of the agreement which Col. Robb has signed, the Red Cross "shall be paid for quarterly installments its proportionate basis of the total funds raised in the campaign."

The Red Cross and the Community Chest will exchange membership lists. "The identity and prominence of Red Cross must be preserved if it is to be able to meet its own objectives and if it is to be a proportionate asset—as a fund-raising partner in the joint campaign," the agreement states.

The final action of the evening pertained to the dangerous financial position in which the Carrboro Swimming Pool Association currently finds itself.

According to Miss Lucille Caldwell, the Association is now $4,994.76 in debt on capital expenses. This figure includes two accounts in excess of $1,000 owed to local firms.

For the one month the pool has been opened, its operational expenses have totaled $1,444, while the income has been $944.

This income includes $287 from the sale of season tickets, and $657 from the sale of general admissions tickets. In the next two months, the Association cannot count on further income from season tickets as these have already been sold.

Therefore, the Association will go deeper into debt during the remaining two months of the season unless salaries are cut or some personnel positions are eliminated altogether.

A. D. Clark, president of the Swimming Pool Association, stated, "We find ourselves very much in need of financial support from some organization in the field of recreation."

The financial status of the Association has been discussed at the June 20 meeting of the Community Council. At that time the Council decided against inclusion of the Association in the 1962 Chest budget. It was decided that if there were a surplus, and if the Association were still in need of aid at that time, its position would be considered again.

Thursday night Col. Robb said, "We can't help you out with a capital outlay because that's not the function of the Commu-ity Council. If we put it in the Chest budget, it might hurt the Chest with some people." Mr. Clark pointed out that he was seeking aid for the week by week operational expenses, not the capital debt.

Miss Caldwell said, "This pool is filling a great human need. This would be a tremendous catastrophe to have to close up this facility. We're doing our best in the Negro community to support this pool because we wanted it for so long. You ought to see that pool when 200 kids want to swim and our capacity is 80."

Mr. Powell said, "We have a definite responsibility on this."

Mr. Loomis strongly opposed any aid for the capital debt. "No part of this capital outlay either directly or indirectly will be paid by the Community Chest. We cannot help you get out of the red for 1961. We have no obligation, nor frankly any money, as far as the 1961 Chest is concerned."

"We simply don't have the money. I guess as far as we can go is what we have done. We have committed a theoretical surplus for 1962," Mr. Loomis said.

Col. Robb said, "I'll be glad to send you a little check. I don't think anybody ever asked me."

—Glenwood Petition Circulated—

Carrboro will get eight to 10, Estes Hills, 11, and Northside, 14 white pupils.

William Hobbs, a member of the Glenwood group, said he expects the petition to be presented to the School Board when it meets July 26 to consider reassignment requests.

School Superintendent Joseph Johnston said he already has received half a dozen requests for reassignment for first grade children and a number for children in higher grades. The deadline for applications is 10 days after receiving the petition.

In addition Mrs. Barbara Bynum has requested a hearing for her daughter, Sheila, who was denied reassignment to the ninth grade at Chapel Hill Junior High School at the July 7 meeting.

The parents of William Miles, who was denied reassignment to the third grade at Carrboro, did not request a hearing by the deadline Friday, Dr. Johnston said.

Of the three requests for reassignment of Negro pupils the board considered at its last meeting, one was granted. Ted Stone was reassigned to the eighth grade at Chapel Hill Junior High.

The School Board has indicated it will look with favor on requests for reassignment because a child is in a racial minority or because other members of the family attend another school.

It was pointed out, however, that only the first grade is affected by the new district lines. All other grades were assigned early in June to the same schools they attended last year.

Study Is Planned On Rural Children

A uniquely intensive and long-term project has been initiated at the University for the investigation of personality development among Southern rural children.

The investigations, which will run for three years with a possibility of extension to seven or eight, are under the direction of Professors E. Earl Baughman, W. Grant Dalstrom and Halbert Robinson of the University Psychology Department. They will be financed through a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

The research will be carried out among the school children of a small rural community in the vicinity of Chapel Hill. It is hoped that all children, parents, and teachers in the community can be encompassed in the study.

The project is unique in its "longitudinal" quality. Investigations will continue with the same children over the entire three year period. In this way, according to Dr. Baughman, a long-term view of the developmental changes in the child's personality seldom achieved in such projects will be obtained.

cents, one dollar, and two dollars for cats and dogs. The boys don't approve, of course, and once said they believed I'd sell my children. I told them, well, to skedaddle then and not to tempt me, for when I had to stumble over them like I have to do the cats and dogs I might look up an offer or take the first one I got."

"Looking Back," a feature of our editorial page, is made up of items from Weekly issues of 25 years ago, 25 years ago, 15 years ago, and 5 years ago. Whether or not many people read it we don't know, but last Wednesday in the bank lobby the Rev. Emmet Gribbin stopped us to say he had been specially interested in a paragraph in the July 6 "Looking Back." It was in the 25-years-ago section as follows:

"Miss Elsie Lawrence left Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where she will have charge of the Georgetown Children's House. Henry Lawrence, Henry Peebles, and Billy Hobbs are at Camp Vade Mecum."

Mr. Gribbin said: "The Elsie Lawrence of twenty-five years ago is now Mrs. Emmet Gribbin and Henry Lawrence is my brother-in-law. Elsie and I and our five children are here from our home in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, visiting her mother, Mrs. Alfred S. Lawrence, and Henry and his wife and three children are here from their home in Fort Myers, Florida, also visiting Mrs. Lawrence."

"All of us were present" at Mrs. Lawrence's the other evening when I happened to come across that item of twenty-five years ago in the Weekly. I read it aloud and everybody got a kick out of it. We thought it quite a coincidence that it should appear in the Weekly just when all of us were here."

INQUIRIES ON RISE

A 20 per cent increase in inquiries about North Carolina in the first six months of 1961 has been announced by Hargrove Bowles Jr., director of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development. The total was 149,808, up 24,306 from the same period in 1960. Most of the inquiries were about vacation attractions. Travel is North Carolina's third largest industry.

lished in Carrboro. Mr. Denny said, "And if they were approved by the proper authorities 'it would be perfectly proper to send your children to them and receive a grant from the State.'"

Mr. Denny emphasized that he was neither advocating nor advising adoption of any of these alternatives. He said he was simply stating the legal possibilities which exist in order to provide the group with information on which to base its decisions.

The 1955 Legislature transferred authority from the State to the local school boards, and the special session in 1956 which adopted the Pearsall Plan gave local boards even more power, Mr. Denny said.

"There is no doubt that under the general statutes of North Carolina the school board has the absolute right to draw geographic district lines subject only to being reasonable and not arbitrary."

"I don't know of any law, State or federal, which prohibits establishment of geographic districts by the school board. But whether it is proper and reasonable, or whether it is proper to establish lines for limited purposes as in an elementary school is of course open to a good legal question."

Mr. Denny said, too, that the school board has "the absolute power" to assign students. But that power is modified to the extent that parents can request reassignment and there can be agreements for attendance between administrative units.

"The school board has the authority to accept, hear and rule upon requests for reassignment, subject to statutory procedures." There was some question by members of the group of possibility of opposition to the board's admitted gerrymandering of the Glenwood district.

Mr. Denny said the gerrymandering might be subject to criticism and legal attack, but he reminded the group that the School Board has the absolute authority to draw geographic lines and strong opposition to the present district lines might result in even more Negro students in Carrboro.

Could Carrboro withdraw from the Chapel Hill School district by holding an election? one man asked.

Mr. Denny replied that he could find no statutory authorization for an election to withdraw from a school district. But the district could be modified through the concerted effort of the Orange County, Chapel Hill and State Boards of Education.

From a practical standpoint, Mr. Denny said in his own opinion, Carrboro is not susceptible to becoming a separate school district, but would have to be either a part of Chapel Hill or the Orange County District. "There is no elective action the people could take in my own opinion. The withdrawal would have to come through administrative action," Mr. Denny said.

Another man asked whether he could send his children to a school in another county and receive a State grant. "Not if you send them to a public school," Mr. Denny answered. "Perhaps you could if it is to a private school."

Temporary Chairman Col. Henry E. Royall told the group earlier in the evening that "misfortune draws us distinctly together."

He declared that in all the talk of progress and equal rights, one right has been forgotten—the right to be left alone. "By no stretch of the imagination can it be said we hate the colored people because we want separate educational facilities."

Col. Royall censured the Quaker Plan, which is generally the plan of geographic assignment adopted by the School Board; the League of Women Voters; the 13 ministers who signed a letter commending the board for its decision; and the board itself for ignoring the people's right to be left alone.

"These parents didn't turn their children over to the administration of the School Board in order that they might be human guinea pigs for this glorified sociological experiment," he said.

Other temporary officers of the group, elected last Monday, are Ben Grantham, vice chairman; Robert Oakes, secretary; Charlie Johnston, treasurer; and directors Carlton Mize, Duke Williams and June Merritt.

The organization, which calls itself "A Group of Interested Citizens," is not limited to Carrboro, but includes members from both Carrboro and Chapel Hill. And the officers represent both towns.

antagonize people." Mrs. Thibaut said she does not want the group's work to be divisive in the community. But she reminded that the Glenwood precinct was firmly behind the present School Board members in the May elections. "I feel we should support the board in any stand it takes, not just on this issue. We should support the School Board because we elected them."

Philip C. Schinhan said the group endorses the intent of the School Board in assigning a greater number of Negro children to Glenwood. "I personally would be opposed to putting Negro children in schools just to put them there. But the reason they were assigned to Glenwood was to prevent a difficult situation at Carrboro and to avoid unnecessary legal complications."

Mr. Schinhan said the board's decision to assign on a strictly geographic basis, which will integrate all the Town's elementary schools, must be taken as a community-wide problem, and not a problem which should be ignored by one area because it was only slightly affected.

"This is not something wishing away is ever going to solve. It will require the maximum cooperation to solve and still maintain a good educational environment, which is our responsibility to all the schools," Mr. Schinhan said.

John Carr said the group will get organized at its meeting tonight, when it also will decide how to handle its drive.

The signed petitions will be presented to the School Board at its July 26 meeting. At the same meeting, another Glenwood group also expects to present petitions opposing the gerrymandered Glenwood District, which they believe gives Glenwood more than its share of Negro children.
