

The Chapel Hill Weekly

Serving the Chapel Hill Area Since 1923

Mann Film Laboratories

ISSUE

WEDNESDAY

Volume 41, Number 5

5 Cents a Copy

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1963

Box 5426

740 Chatham Rd. Winston-Salen, N. C

Published Every Sunday and Wednesday

McClamroch Breaks Tie Vote

Aldermen Agree To Oppose Morgan Creek Power Line

Workers Injured In Gas Explosion

Two Chapel Hill Telephone Co. cable-splicers were injured Friday from an explosion in a manhole. The explosion blew both men out of the hole, where they were working, to the street. Both are expected to remain in Memorial Hospital at least until the end of his week.

Leslie C. Madison of Carrboro and Charles Harbison of Route 1, Pittsboro, were burned on the face, arms, and hands when the explosion occurred at about 8:30 Friday morning in a manhole at the corner of East Rosemary and Boundary Streets.

It is not yet certain whether the explosion was caused by natural gas or sewer gas. The Public Service Co. has found and lin and Boundary, and testing of leaked gas at the south corner of the same intersection. The Public Service Company is currently investigating for other gas leaks in the Rosemary-Boundary-East Franklin area. The investigation is expected to be completed seme time this week. Hill branch of the Public Service Company said he did not know how long ago the gas pipes sible indication of the pipes' age came from a Public Service crewman last summer, when he was working on a suspected gas leak in front of J. B. Robbins Store on East Franklin Street. repaired one gas pipe leak at At that time he indicated that the north corner of East Frank- many gas pipes in Chapel Hill were at least twenty years old, equipment indicated the presence and that some were corroded. Dr. James F. Newsome, Memorial Hospital physician attending the two men, said their burns did not seem to be bad. He hesitated to attribute a "degree" to the burns the men suffered. Dr. Newsome said he would not be able to tell how seriously the men The manager of the Chapel were injured until the dressings on the burns were removed in about five days. If the explosion was caused by in that section of town were in- a leak in a natural gas pipe, the stalled. He said the investigation pipe apparently ruptured Thursday night. Mr. Madison and Mr. Harbison had worked in the Boundary-Rosemary manhole Wednesday and Thursday, using an acetylene 'torch, without incident. Friday morning they entered the manhole at 8 a.m. About half an hour later they lit a cigarette dress. lighter and were blown out of the (Continued on page 7)

JAMES E. WEBB

N.C. Press Meet Opens Tomorrow

The 38th annual North Carolina Press Institute opens at the University tomorrow

Registration will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the lobby of the Carolina At 5:30 p.m. there will be a UNC-sponsored reception in the ballroom of the Inn honoring Governor and Mrs. Terry Sanford and winners of the 1962 Press Awards.

Robert Bunnelle, publisher of the Asheville Citizen Times and president of the N. C. Press Association, will preside over the opening session of the Institute to be held beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Carroll Hall. UNC Chancellor William B. Aycock will give the welcoming ad-Consolidated University Presi-(Continued on Page 7)

Zoning Ordinance Will Be Enforced

By W. H. SCARBOROUGH

The Board of Aldermen moved Monday night to block construction of the Morgan Creek Powerline:

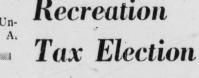

The action came on a 4-3 vote, adopting a resolution from the Planning Board which defined power line towers as "structures within the meaning of the zoning ordinance," subject to control by the Town. In a separate motion, Mayor Sandy McClamroch was empowered to appoint a commission to negotiate with Duke Power Co. for relocation of the line and abandonment of its right-of-way through the Morgan Creek area. Mayor McClamroch named University Business Manager J. A.

Constant and the second s

Branch; Dr. C. Ritchie Bell, acting director of the North Caroline Botanical Gardens; Planning Board member Jack Lasley; Aldermen Gene Strowd and Paul Wager, and himself to the commission Tuesday afternoon. A telegram notifying Duke Power of the action was dispatched Tuesday afternoon also. In adopting the resolution the Aldermen reversed an almost two-year-old position of refusing to intervene in the question of where the line would be located. Basis, for the switch came in large part from a letter from within the Town. UNC Chancellor William B. Ay-

Is Approved A special recreation tax will be submitted to Chapel Hill voters in the Town elections next May. The Board of Aldermen passed a resolution calling for the referendum Monday night after receiving a request from the Recreation Commission, transmitted by Commission- Chairman Bob

Boyce The tax would be levied at a rate of not less than three cents nor more than ten cents per hunlred dollars property valuation

Mr. Boyce told the Aldermen

Mayor McClamroch Makes A Point

With Head In Hand, To n Manager Robert Peck

Revised Apartment Project

Is Met With More Protests

A revised rezoning and special use permit request from C. Whid Powell for his proposed Ephesus Church Road development met another obstacle in a special joint hearing of the Planning Board and the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

made some weeks ago, had been for rezoning to RA-6 from RA-10 and Agricultural to permit a 103unit apartment development on a ten-acre tract off the Ephesus Church Road. All but three of the 53 property owners in Ridge-

Coming This Sunday

A CHAPEL HILL RESIDENT has been one of the pioneers in North Carolina's remarkably successful hospital pre-payment programs. He is the talker in one of J. A. C. Dunn's talk pieces.

Mr. Powell's original request, field Park objected. They claimed Mr. Powell's project would lower property values.

Early in December, Mr. Powell changed his request, asking instead a special use permit for an 86-unit apartment development and rezoning the same tract to RA-15. The Planning Board added to the request a recommendation that the land between Mr. Powell's and Ridgefield also be rezoned RA-15, from its present Agricultural, to provide a buffer between the two residential areas.

The revised request required a second public hearing. A spokesman for Ridgefield Park residents said Ridgefield Park would be represented for discussion "peripheral" problems the Powell development would cause; but that the apartment development itself would not be opposed. At Monday's hearing, the request was referred to the Planning Board for a recommendation. The Ridgefield residents made it clear that the problems were somewhat more than peripheral. Raymond Dawson, a Ridgefield resident, presented the Aldermen and planners a petition, signed by 51 Ridgefield Park property owners, which made three requests: -That any special use permit for the Powell tract "be limited to some form of use which does not concentrate all or most of the maximum allowable living units upon a minor portion of that tract.' --"That Ridgefield Park be protected from automobile traffic to and from Ephesus Church Road. traffic which will originate with the apartments proposed for the ten-acre Powell tract and also other traffic which will increase as Ephesus Church Road receives (Continued on Page 6)

Editorial comment on 4-B.

was being conducted by a maintenance crew from Durham, Officials in the Durham office were either unavailable for comment or did not know enough about the incident to be able to comment. No available official in the Public Service office could say either who was responsible for the condition of the gas pipes, or how old the pipes are. One pos-

Irate Franklin St. Merchants Put Dent In Sign Ordinance

Chapel Hill's new downtown sign ordinance got a pretty good roasting Monday night.

One after another, Franklin Street merchants described as unreasonable and unnecessary

Dr. James B. Bullitt will be 89 years old Friday, January 18.

In what I call the old timesthat is, 60 odd years ago-a student who came here from outside the State was almost a curiosity, and of course one who came from a foreign country was still more of one. You never thought different now; this has become a frequent and popular topic of conversation. Students and facsomebody gave them a descriprecommended to them by friends. happened on a cause that was their two - and - a - half-year-old daughter, Caroline Elizabeth, (Centinued & Page 4)

His friends often go out to see him at the Friendly Rest Home midway between Chapel Hill and Durham. * 5 * of asking why a person had come to the University. It is very ulty members will tell about how tion of Chapel Hill, or it was I have often been keenly interested in questioning newcomcomers about what turned them to our town. This last Sunday I new to me. Henry Cheney Jr.; his wife, the former Claire Russell: their three-and-and-a-halfyear-old son Jeffrey Phillips; and the provisions of the ordinance "average height" of awnings be which regulate the height awnings must be from the sidewalk.

After hearing the complaints, the Aldermen instructed the Town Attorney to draw up an amendment which will be acted on at the Board's next meeting. The ordinance now . requires a minimum of eight feet between awnings and sidewalk. As amended, the metal frames of awnings must be at least eight feet, but the canvas skirts may extend-12 inches lower.

The merchants, led by W. O. Lacock, proprietor of Lacock's Shoe Shop, complained that the ordinance had been drawn arbitrarily and, in most cases, without knowledge of those who would be most seriously affected. "I've complied with the ordinance, and in doing so, I find it is absolutely worthless. My shoes are my livelihood, as you know, and I've brought along a few to show what happens to them," Mr. Lacock said. He produced a number of new shoes which had been bleached from their stay in the display case in his store window. The shoe displays are changed once a month, he said, with a loss of about $500 or $600 with each change because the bleached shoes are worth only half their original price after being displayed for a month.

"It's an expensive proposition. I'm ruined, if this continues." Edward Danziger, who had carlier complained that the sun was ruining his display of chocolates, said he had nothing new to report, but he observed "The boys have not grown taller. the awnings are not lower, and the sun is still melting my candy." Mr. Lacock and Mr. Danziger were seconded in their complaints by a half-dozen other merchants, including Milton Julian, who proposed that the set at eight feet, and Jim Ellis, proprietor of the Village Cafeteria, whose metal awning had been classified as a marquee and found to be mounted too Mayor Sandy McClamroch reminded the merchants that a public hearing on the ordinance had been held over a year ago, and that no one had appeared to protest the specifications being discussed at that time. Alderman Roland Giduz defended the Aldermen's adoption the ordinance, because he of said, it had come after the proposals were referred to the Merchants Association and were held under consideration by them for almost six months After the Association was asked if it had recommendations on the matter, Mr. Giduz said, the pub-(Continued on Page 7)

cock and Business Manager Branch in which they asserted that the University had not requested the line and had been surprised to learn that its construction through the Morgan Creek area was planned. In the letter, addressed to Planning Board Chairman Ross Scroggs, Mr. Aycock and Mr. Branch stated, "The loop line is not essential for the needs of the University. However, in the event the Eno line were to break down, the loop line would cent. be essential to supply the needs of the Town.

Officials of Duke Power Company in Charlotte could not be reached for comment on the new development.

The Aldermen's move gave new life to the controversy, which has been alternately raging and simmering since mid-1961. If the Town is successful in negotiating with Duke Power for abandonment of the line, Monday (Continued on Page 4)

Weather Report

cold.	ouuy a	ma	continue	a
	1	ligh	Low
Sunday		58	33
Monday		33	23
Tuesday			20

The Arboretum is largely deserted these days and nights. Ample proof that in this weather not even love can keep you warm.

the tax, if passed, would provide Chapel Hill's recreation program around $30,000 per year if the full 10 cent rate were collected. This would be about $4,000 more than the Commission's budget for 1963. The tax has been under discussion for some time. The Commission is presently faced with the possibility that funds for 1963 will run out at the end of nine months, since the Community Council has had to cut allocations to all agencies roughly 20 per

The election will be confined to Chapel Hill, Mr. Boyce said in reply to questions from Alderman Paul Wager, who inquired as to the possibilities of a recreation district larger than corporate Chapel Hill.

Such a district would be possible. Mr. Boyce said, but not recommended. Participants from outside Chapel Hill would be permitted on a fee system.

A 1957 recreation tax election failed to carry. However, it was felt that the bulk of opposition to the tax at that time came from Carrboro, which was included in the vote. The upcoming election would be confined entirely to Chapel Hill. Mr. Boyce presented a request last week to the Carrboro Board of Commissioners that Carrboro take whatever measures they felt appropriate to support a public recreation program for the entire area. Mr. Boyce said that the Recreation Commission had the names of 260 residents of Carrboro who had registered for some (Continued on Page 4)

AN INDIGNANT LETTER to Reader's Digest led one woman, without money or prospects of any, to comparative prosperity. The writer of the letter is the subject of a profile by Weekly Women's News Editor Paquita Fine.

> * * * * * * Ma

IN HIS REMINISCENCES Chancellor Robert House recalls the days when the University held regular religious exercises.

> * * * * * *

They'll be in this coming Sunday's issue of The Chapel Hill Weekly, along with the latest news of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro community. Treat yourself to a copy.

and the second second

New Institute Of Outdoor Drama' Founded By UNC

Chancellor William B. Aycock matic productions and community announced today the founding of the "Institute of Outdoor Drama"

The new institute will fulfill a national need for a central clearing house for information, advice, auditions and production assistance for the many outdoor dra-

(Continued on Page 2)

is lunchtime.

the United States. to be a part of the University.

Theater.

pageants that are held all over William Trotman, a veteran of the Carolina Playmakers and a native of Winston-Salem, was named director of the Outdoor Drama Institute. Mr. Trotman is versatile as an actor, playwright, director, production manager and stage and scenery designer. He returns to Chapel Hill from Houston, Texas, where he was a resident designer for the Ford Foundation - backed Alley

"It is fitting that the Institute of Outdoor Drama be established in Chapel Hill," said Chancellor er, or typing something. If neither Aycock. "The tradition of folk of these two activities is in drama and the attainments of the process, a part-time student is Carolina Playmakers and others in playwriting, acting and proriding herd on the duplicating machine in a back room, or it ducing dramatic presentations has found a special outlet in the Mr. Ivey is in charge of all burgeoning pageants in outdoor this placid busy-ness. His office amphitheatres and similar settings. The new Institute of Outis a sort of shell crater in the door Drama is conceived to enno-man's-land between the Unicourage and utilize the abilities versity and the public. Someof dramatists in this dimension. times he gets caught in a cross-Mr. Aycock added: "Mr. Wilfire from both. In terms of the liam Trotman, who was formerly metaphor, he has earned several one of our students in Dramatic purple hearts; but he has never Art, returns to the University as been listed as missing in action. He stood at the door to his Director of the Institute. He has office and told the News Bureau, had much professional experi-(Continued on Page 7) /

SCENES

Police Captain COY DURHAM putting out yellow pylons at Hen-derson and Franklin Street Bespectacled young man and pretty blonde in enthusiastic clinch on Rosemary Street at high noon . . . Two garbage collectors sitting beside their truck parked on Davie Circle munching lunch. . Sign over Intimate Book-shop's display of books on Egyp-tian archaeology: IT'S MUM-MY'S DAY AT THE INTIMATE. . . Townspeople overcoated, mufflered and gloved, pausing to gaze at the swimsuit display in J. B. Robbins' window . . . Young high school bucks braving the sub-freezing weather in shirtsleeves . . . Small snack shack beside Norwood Brothers' Esso smoking like an incinerator on weekend mornings, as students catch that last drag before school takes in . . . Citizen seated in the back row of the Town Hall courtroom, casting a vote on each and every matter before the Board of Aldermen Monday night. ... MAURICE JULIAN and BOB VARLEY raking the Town's new sign ordinance over coffee at Sut-

A Talk With A.G. (Pete) Ivey

Pete Ivev has been director of the University News Bureau since 1955.

By J. A. C. DUNN

The calendar on Alfred Guy Ivey's office wall still proclaims December, 1962, as if Time tried desperately all year to keep up with Mr. Ivey and finally collapsed just short of breaking the tape on the twelfth lap. ' Mr. Ivey is short, portly, softpoken, merry-looking, and tense.

He is not an imposing man. At first glance you would hardly think him capable of developing enough steam to administer a

