

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF PROPOSED BANK MERGER

Notice is hereby given that application has been made to the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington 25, D. C., for his consent to a merger of The Bank of Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, and North Carolina National Bank, Charlotte, North Carolina.

It is contemplated that all offices of the above-named banks will continue to be operated.

This notice is published pursuant to Section 18(c) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act.

THE BANK OF CHAPEL HILL, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, NORTH CAROLINA NATIONAL BANK, Charlotte, North Carolina

June 30, 1963

ADVERTISEMENT TO BIDDERS FURNISHING AND INSTALLING ASPHALT PAVING UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT CHAPEL HILL

Sealed proposals will be received by the University of North Carolina, in Gerrard Hall on the campus of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N. C., up to 2:30 P.M. E.S.T., Tues., July 23, 1963, and immediately thereafter, publicly opened and read, for furnishing all labor, materials, tools, and equipment necessary for the installation of asphalt paving, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the Office of Purchasing Department, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid, upon deposit of ten dollars ($10.00) in cash or certified check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the owner in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids. The plans and specifications will be on file in the AGC Office and Dodge Report File Room in Raleigh and in Charlotte.

The work will require the furnishing of all labor, materials, tools and equipment necessary for the complete installation of asphalt paving and asphalt patching as shown on the drawings and as specified herein.

All contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper license under the State laws governing their respective trades.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a cash deposit or a certified check drawn on some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, of an amount equal to not less than 5 per cent of the bid executed by a surety company licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bonds, conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payments to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond, and upon failure to forthwith make payment, the surety shall pay to the obligee an amount equal to double the amount of said bond. Said deposit shall be retained by the owner as liquidated damages in event of failure of the successful bidder to execute the contract within ten (10) days after the award or to give satisfactory surety as required by law.

Performance Bond will be required for one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price.

Payment will be made on the basis of ninety per cent (90%) of monthly estimates and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of work.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty (30) days.

The owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

ADVERTISEMENT TO BIDDERS INSTALLATION OF NEW TILE FLOORING OFFICES AND CLASS ROOMS - MURPHEY HALL UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA

Sealed proposals will be received by the University of North Carolina, in Gerrard Hall on the campus of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N. C., up to 2:30 P.M. E.S.T., Thurs., July 18, 1963, and immediately thereafter, publicly opened and read, for furnishing all labor, material and equipment entering into the furnishing and installing of new tile flooring for offices and classrooms, Murphey Hall, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Complete specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the office of Purchasing Department, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid, upon deposit of ten dollars ($10.00) in cash or certified check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the owner in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids. The plans and specifications will be on file in the AGC Office and Dodge Report File Room in Raleigh and in Charlotte.

The work will require the furnishing of all labor and materials for the complete installation of new tile flooring as herein specified.

All contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper license under the State laws governing their respective trades.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a cash deposit or a certified check drawn on some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, of an amount equal to not less than 5 per cent of the bid executed by a surety company licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bonds, conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payments to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond, and upon failure to forthwith make payment, the surety shall pay to the obligee an amount equal to double the amount of said bond. Said deposit shall be retained by the owner as liquidated damages in event of failure of the successful bidder to execute the contract within ten (10) days after the award or to give satisfactory surety as required by law.

Performance Bond will be required for one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price.

Payment will be made on the basis of ninety per cent (90%) of monthly estimates and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of work.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty (30) days.

The owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

ADVERTISEMENT TO BIDDERS FURNISHING AND INSTALLING ASPHALT PAVING UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT CHAPEL HILL

Sealed proposals will be received by the University of North Carolina, in Gerrard Hall on the campus of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N. C., up to 2:30 P.M. E.S.T., Tues., July 23, 1963, and immediately thereafter, publicly opened and read, for furnishing all labor, materials, tools, and equipment necessary for the installation of asphalt paving, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the Office of Purchasing Department, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid, upon deposit of ten dollars ($10.00) in cash or certified check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the owner in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids. The plans and specifications will be on file in the AGC Office and Dodge Report File Room in Raleigh and in Charlotte.

The work will require the furnishing of all labor, materials, tools and equipment necessary for the complete installation of asphalt paving and asphalt patching as shown on the drawings and as specified herein.

Cureton

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It's nice there, it's quiet, and you see a tree now and then. I go to Harlem frequently. I have a lot of relatives up there. They're tearing down a lot of the old buildings and putting up new projects. Some of the slums are still there.

"I came down here and I was surprised. I thought everything would be over here by now. I mean, this town is famous for its liberalism, I didn't think anything like this would be going on here. I've met a lot of people in the Committee for Open Business, and I think it's very effective. I went to a workshop. One of the things that makes it effective, I think, is that they're very secretive. They don't tell you what they're going to do. It's all in the committee."

He came down hard on Governor Sanford. "I try to keep myself as informed as I can about what's going on here. I saw him on TV." He didn't expect Governor Sanford to ask for a halt in demonstrations, and was disappointed when the Governor did. "He's straddling a fence."

"I don't think we're going to have a Southern President. I don't know of anybody in the South qualified to be President. A Vice President, yes, but not a President. You know, I hate to think of what other countries are making out of everything that's going on in this country.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

Legal Notices

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It's nice there, it's quiet, and you see a tree now and then. I go to Harlem frequently. I have a lot of relatives up there. They're tearing down a lot of the old buildings and putting up new projects. Some of the slums are still there.

"I came down here and I was surprised. I thought everything would be over here by now. I mean, this town is famous for its liberalism, I didn't think anything like this would be going on here. I've met a lot of people in the Committee for Open Business, and I think it's very effective. I went to a workshop. One of the things that makes it effective, I think, is that they're very secretive. They don't tell you what they're going to do. It's all in the committee."

He came down hard on Governor Sanford. "I try to keep myself as informed as I can about what's going on here. I saw him on TV." He didn't expect Governor Sanford to ask for a halt in demonstrations, and was disappointed when the Governor did. "He's straddling a fence."

"I don't think we're going to have a Southern President. I don't know of anybody in the South qualified to be President. A Vice President, yes, but not a President. You know, I hate to think of what other countries are making out of everything that's going on in this country.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

Legal Notices

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It's nice there, it's quiet, and you see a tree now and then. I go to Harlem frequently. I have a lot of relatives up there. They're tearing down a lot of the old buildings and putting up new projects. Some of the slums are still there.

"I came down here and I was surprised. I thought everything would be over here by now. I mean, this town is famous for its liberalism, I didn't think anything like this would be going on here. I've met a lot of people in the Committee for Open Business, and I think it's very effective. I went to a workshop. One of the things that makes it effective, I think, is that they're very secretive. They don't tell you what they're going to do. It's all in the committee."

He came down hard on Governor Sanford. "I try to keep myself as informed as I can about what's going on here. I saw him on TV." He didn't expect Governor Sanford to ask for a halt in demonstrations, and was disappointed when the Governor did. "He's straddling a fence."

"I don't think we're going to have a Southern President. I don't know of anybody in the South qualified to be President. A Vice President, yes, but not a President. You know, I hate to think of what other countries are making out of everything that's going on in this country.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

Legal Notices

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It's nice there, it's quiet, and you see a tree now and then. I go to Harlem frequently. I have a lot of relatives up there. They're tearing down a lot of the old buildings and putting up new projects. Some of the slums are still there.

"I came down here and I was surprised. I thought everything would be over here by now. I mean, this town is famous for its liberalism, I didn't think anything like this would be going on here. I've met a lot of people in the Committee for Open Business, and I think it's very effective. I went to a workshop. One of the things that makes it effective, I think, is that they're very secretive. They don't tell you what they're going to do. It's all in the committee."

He came down hard on Governor Sanford. "I try to keep myself as informed as I can about what's going on here. I saw him on TV." He didn't expect Governor Sanford to ask for a halt in demonstrations, and was disappointed when the Governor did. "He's straddling a fence."

"I don't think we're going to have a Southern President. I don't know of anybody in the South qualified to be President. A Vice President, yes, but not a President. You know, I hate to think of what other countries are making out of everything that's going on in this country.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

Legal Notices

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It's nice there, it's quiet, and you see a tree now and then. I go to Harlem frequently. I have a lot of relatives up there. They're tearing down a lot of the old buildings and putting up new projects. Some of the slums are still there.

"I came down here and I was surprised. I thought everything would be over here by now. I mean, this town is famous for its liberalism, I didn't think anything like this would be going on here. I've met a lot of people in the Committee for Open Business, and I think it's very effective. I went to a workshop. One of the things that makes it effective, I think, is that they're very secretive. They don't tell you what they're going to do. It's all in the committee."

He came down hard on Governor Sanford. "I try to keep myself as informed as I can about what's going on here. I saw him on TV." He didn't expect Governor Sanford to ask for a halt in demonstrations, and was disappointed when the Governor did. "He's straddling a fence."

"I don't think we're going to have a Southern President. I don't know of anybody in the South qualified to be President. A Vice President, yes, but not a President. You know, I hate to think of what other countries are making out of everything that's going on in this country.

Signed: J. A. Branch, Business Mgr.

The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

July 14

Legal Notices

(Continued from Page 1)

the movies after the contract runs out. This is syndication, where you sell the movies in a package. I do the intricate work, with the dates. There's one fellow in our office who knows all the call letters for all the stations east of the Mississippi. I don't know them, I don't know how he remembers them all. I have an average of three stations for every state.

"You'd be surprised at the amount of money some of the big stations pay for a package. As much as $250,000 for a five-year period. Some of the stations only pay forty or fifty dollars for a movie, but the stations with a big market pay a lot.

"I like the work all right. I'd like to go into production if I can. The assistant director for 'Lawrence of Arabia' is a Negro. That was a Sam Spiegel production. The thing is, the producer puts up half the money and makes the movie, and Columbia, say, puts the movie out under its name - because Columbia has the machinery for releasing a movie, and the producer has the machinery for making it. The thing about this business is, it's big money, and you're dealing with a race of people that wants to see money spent the best way. That's the Jews. They run all the financial part. They're not afraid to spend money, but if they're going to, they want it spent the right way, they want the best. So it doesn't matter to them whether a man is white, black, green or blue. If he can do the job and do it better, that's the important thing. They're good people.

"I don't want to get on the screen myself. That gets too involved. That's very hard work. I mean, you see actors and actresses with all the fine cars, and the mansions and everything, but they have to work for it. The best supporting actor this year was Ed Begley, and he's about sixty, so he's been around for a while. The best actress was Ann Bancroft, and she's about 30, but she's been on the stage, she's had experience. Of course the best supporting actress was Patty Duke, in 'The Miracle Worker,' and she's only fourteen. But most of the actors and actresses have to come up, unless you're box office - like Rock Hudson, he can't really act, but the women like him.

"I think I'd like to be a production manager. But I don't plan to spend the rest of my life in New York, unless I get really involved with his work. I'd like to come back here and go into real estate when I get older. A friend of mine and I have been talking about this, and it takes money, which neither of us has at the moment, but that's what we're thinking about,

for later years.

"I have to admit, I feel more at ease in New York than I did here. They have a public accommodations law there, in the whole State, and there are not many ways they can get around it. They may not like it, but you've got the law on your side, so who cares what they think? People are prejudiced in the north, but it's not as open. It's a little harder to see than it is down here. Like a hotel, I'll call up a hotel and make reservations, and then when I get there they say they're sorry they don't have any room. Down here they'd just say no, 'they wouldn't make the reservations anyway. I don't know which is better. You don't want either.

"I live in Greenwich Village. It