Quentin Patterson Honored for work

Quentin Patterson of Hillsboro received a Commendation Certificate this week for his outstanding work in the North Carolina Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

The certificate was presented by George M. Browning, Ames, Iowa, President of the Society, during the first evening session at the Society's 18th annual meeting under way at Utah State University.

Mr. Patterson is a work unit conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Hillsboro. He has been a member of the Soil Conservation Society of America since 1950. He received the Commendation Award in recognition of his work in organizing and carrying out a special fishing project in farm ponds in N. C. The purpose of the project was to raise funds for the Hugh Hammond Bennett Professorship of Soil Science members in 21 counties arranged with farm pond owners to permit fishing for a fee of $1 per person in their ponds. The proceeds, more than $3,000, went to the professorship at the conclusion of the project. Mr. Patterson has been very active in the affairs of the North Carolina Chapter of SCSA and served as its vice-president in 1961.

New Hope To Hold Homecoming Sunday

New Hope Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Homecoming ceremonies at 11 a.m. Sunday, followed by the traditional dinner-on-the-grounds.

The preacher for the service will be a former pastor, Dr. S. W. DuBose, professor of religion and philosophy at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, West Virginia. Dr. DuBose was called to the New Hope Church in 1938. He served almost seven years, leaving in 1945. While serving in Orange County, Dr. DuBose received his Ph.D. from Duke University.

New Hope is a pre-Revolutionary War church, organized around 1756. The present building is the fifth structure and was erected in 1936. The grounds are considered among the loveliest in the State. Highway 86 divides the 18th Century and early 19th Century graves from the "new" part of the cemetery. The first two churches were log churches, the second an octagonal structure. The third church was built in 1805 and destroyed by fire March 40, 1862. The fourth building was put up during the Civil War, with Confederate money, and stood until 1956 when it was replaced with the present brick structure.

New Hope is seven miles north of Chapel Hill on Highway 86. The Rev. Sam Fudge is the present pastor.

the most of it.

When Alicia Patterson's personal and business documents were examined after her death, a sealed envelope was found.

The publisher of Newsday, the Long Island tabloid newspaper, had left instructions about the management of the paper.

Inside the envelope was the wish, in words something like this: "If I should die suddenly, I want Mark Ethridge to take over as Editor and Manager of Newsday."

When newspapers announced last week that Mr. Ethridge, long time publisher and more recently chairman of the board of the Louisville Courier-Journal, would become Editor of Newsday, it created more than usual interest here, because Mr. Ethridge has already accepted an association for the coming year with the University's School of Journalism.

In the story last week, it was said Mr. Ethridge will fulfill the commitment here, after February 3, 1964, to come down from New York once a week to Chapel Hill to lecture.

Another local angle in the Newsday story is the fact that William Woestendiek, who was once editor of the Daily Tar Heel, is editorial director of the popular New York daily, Newsday. Bill Woestendiek is a former reporter for the Winston-Salem Journal. He's also a Nieman Fellow of Harvard, and was one of the Winston-Salem newsmen who went from North Carolina to work for Newsday when Mark Ethridge's son, Mark, Jr. left Winston to be editor of Newsday, just after Miss Patterson became publisher.

fully, and promised "broad recommendations very soon."

he was studying the matter carefully. The five Chapel Hill officials who received pay raises were UNC Chancellor William B. Aycock, Division of Health Affairs director Dr. Henry T. Clark, Consolidated University graduate studies and research vice president Donald Anderson, Consolidated University business manager A. H. Shepard, and UNC comptroller and business manager J. A. Branch.

Orange Has 4,275 Taxable Workers

About 4,275 workers in Orange County's non-farming businesses (College and University not included) earned taxable wages under the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program, according to the latest edition of "County Business and Patterns."

A total of 540 reporting units of employers of non-farm employees covered under the program paid out some $3,061,000 in taxable wages in the County during the first quarter of 1962. The report shows 4 of the employing units reported 100 or more workers each at that time. The largest proportion of employment, 1,352 workers, was in retail trade with 336 employed in eating establishments.

The current edition of "County Business Patterns" is the tenth in a series showing county and industry statistics based on wage reports filed under the Federal Social Security program.

The Chapel Hill Weekly, issued every Sunday and Wednesday, and is entered as second-class matter February 28, 1923, at the post office at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, published by the Chapel Hill Publishing Company, Inc. is under the act of March 3, 1879.
