North Carolina's football squad will be bolstered by two players returning from service when fall drills open September 2.

Bob Quincy

One is a lineman, Guard Oakie Pickard of Knoxville, Tenn. The other is a back, Charlie Davis of New Bern. Davis can also play end.

Davis, who won raves for his grid feats while in Germany, is a physical culture bug. He thinks nothing of running four or five miles, but his forte is pushups. He can click off several hundred without taking a deep

A 200-pounder, Davis also is a wrestler. Comments Coach Sam Barnes: "Charlie is one of the strongest youngsters I've ever handled on the mat."

LOOKING AHEAD: Athletic directors of the Atlantic Coast Conference met here last week to discuss schedules.

Many of them were looking as far ahead as 1970.

Possibilities as future foes for the Tar Heels are Michigan, Air Force, Vanderbilt and Tulane. Athletic Director Chuck Erickson also hopes he can work Rice into the football diet.

GOLFING GRIDDERS: Bob Lacey, Carolina's outstanding flankman who caught 44 passes last season, reports he is in the peak of condition.

Bob recently visited Chapel Hill from his New York home and drove to the golf course. Instead of slipping on golf shoes, he chose grid cleats. Then he ran for 18

"I prefer to do my running at a golf course," said Bob, "because the scenery is beautiful and it breaks the monotony of simply going around a track. I move at a steady pace and can cover 18 holes in less than half an hour.".

The average course offers some four miles of terrain. Last year Lacey led the football squad in running the mile, covering the distance in some 51/2 minutes.

LATER THAN YOU THINK: Does anyone realize how soon college football will become the scene stealer? A month from today the Tar Heels will be playing Virginia.

Coach Jim Hickey has called for two practice sessions per day over the first two weeks. His sizable squad will work at 9 during the mornings, then again at 4 in the afternoons.

"We'll keep up the two-a-day sessions until we see the players begin to tire," said Coach Hickey. "Then we'll do a single. Every morning we will have skull drills from 8 until 9 o'clock."

NEW VARSITY SPORT: A new sport has been added to the varsity calendar at Carolina. Next school term lacrosse joins the family.

Connie Steele, a member of the phys ed staff, guided last spring's team, which was organized on a "club" basis, to a successful start. He expects big things in the new set-up.

Lacrosse is a rough, grueling sport which was originated by the Indians. They say players who couldn't make the team had to settle for the intramural stuff, such as attacking wagon trains and skirmishing with General Custer.

DOUBLEHEADER: The public will be able to enjoy a twin dose of Tar Heel football on September 21. That is, if they care to drive 30 miles.

The Carolina varsity opens the "new" Kenan Stadium here against Virginia at 1:30 p.m., that afternoon. That night at Riddick Stadium in Raleigh, the frosh battle the North Carolina State yearlings. Game time is 8 p.m.
