'Available Space' For Late Arrivals

Children who are entering the first grade in Chapel Hill and did not attend a pre-school clinic in Chapel Hill last spring should go to Superintendent Howard Thompson's office in the basement of the West Franklin Elementary School and fill out an admission application.

Children who are entering any grade and arrive for school after the first day of classes, Monday, September 9, should do the same

New first grades and all late arriving students will be assigned to a school by Dr. Thompson according to space availablity and class size limitations.

The 'New' Look

Chapel Hill schools got one of the most extensive paint jobs ever this summer.

Superintendent Howard Thompson described the painting as the first major paint program in Chapel Hill schools since the system was enlarged from a two-buildign West Franklin Elementary and Chapel Hill School operation to its present nine-schoolbuilding size.

The men who did the painting might describe the paint project in different terms. The schools' normal maintenance crew was reduced to six men for the summer, and for eight weeks those six men painted school halls, classrooms, and ceilings from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. five days a week, and worked a half day Saturday, at a dollar an hour.

By working these hours they managed to paint much of Notrhside School, all of Lincoln High except the gymtorium, and all of West Franklin School. Dr. Thompson said he had no idea how long it had been since West Franklin and Northside had been painted.

He also had no idea now many gallons of paint were used ("We

COLOR, COLOR!

Coordination is the key to young junior sportswear again this fall; with top, tunics, skirts, slacks and jumpers all cut from the same cloth, not to mention a smattering of knickers, kneelength pants and culottes.

Key to coordination is bright color, in plaids, tweeds or Scandinavian prints. Brilliant homespun weaves are everywhere. Solid colors are mostly for single items that coordinate with multicolor-pattern groups. Magenta, orange, blue, kelly and rust take

Prepare In Advance For Those Mishaps

If you prepare in advance for childhood mishaps, your worries over family health and safety will diminish considerably.

Here are a few basic firstaid procedures that will help keep minor mishaps from becoming major medical problems.

Cleanliness is of primary im-Wounds must be portance. treated promptly, but be sure your own hands have been washed thoroughly. Medical reports indicate that almost 90 per cent of all disease germs that cause infection enter the body via the hands.

Remove all foreign substances from the cut or abrasion. Include a germicidal soap among your list of cleansing tools. Its antibacterial qualities will help combat infection the moment you start first-aid procedures.

Apply approved antiseptic medication to the wound and the skin area immediately surrounding it. Make sure that the covering (gauze or bandage) is sterilized.
