

—Ed Hamlin Wins Appointment To House Seat—

of the House as he is on the main street of his own home town.

Mr. Cates was nominated by Delos O'Daniel of Chapel Hill, who made no nomination speech.

William Geer of Chapel Hill seconded Mr. Hamlin's nomination. Mr. Geer called Mr. Hamlin "a man who ideally can represent all Orange County. He lives in Hillsboro and works in Carrboro . . . For years he has published a newspaper with which he has tried to pull all the County together. . ."

Hugh Wilson also seconded Mr. Hamlin's nomination. "His newspaper has always supported the Party," said Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Cates' nomination was seconded by a lady member of the Committee without comment.

Before the question could be brought to a vote, the St. Mary's Precinct chairman's right to vote was challenged by a Committee member, "on the basis of the chairman and the vice chairman being members of the same family."

Alex McMahon, appointed parliamentarian by Mr. Phipps, said the Party's Plan of Organization did not rule directly on that question, and asked Mr. Phipps to rule.

Investigation revealed that the Plan of Organization did, however, rule directly on the question: Chairmen and vice chairmen of precincts may not be members of the same immediate family.

Conway Browning, chairman of St. Mary's Precinct, rose and stated that the vice chairman was his sister, and that they lived in different households. "She has her own home and three children, I have my own home." The vice chairman is Mrs. Eleanor Walker.

Mr. Phipps pondered this for a moment, then appointed a Credentials Committee, which would decide on the matter if the vote turned out to have a margin of one. In that case, he said, he would ask Mr. Browning to reveal to the Credentials Committee how he voted, so that the Committee could decide whether Mr. Browning's vote would affect the outcome of the election.

Mr. Browning agreed. At this point Mr. Phipps announced that he had said all along that he would remain neutral in the matter, and that he would exercise his right to vote as a member of the Executive Committee, rather than be placed in the position of having to break a possible tie.

Hugh Wilson then gained the floor, ballots having been handed out, and said he didn't think it was very chivalrous for a man to make the statement he was about to make, but that he thought the chairman ought to rule on the fact that two vice chairmen from Hillsboro Precinct, both ladies, both held ballots.

After some discussion and referral to Committee secretary Earle Wallace's file of correspondence, Mrs. Virginia Fredericks, the vice chairman in question, retired and did not vote.

While the votes were being counted, Mr. Cates tried again to introduce his resolution. Mr. Phipps told him he would have to wait.

On a point of order, George Spransy asked Mr. Phipps if the Party stationery could be corrected to the extent of removing Mr. Spransy's business competitor's telephone number after his name. Mr. Spransy, the manager of Kenan Oil Company in Chapel Hill (942-4180), said his competitor had been receiving all his calls and that both oilmen were tired of the confusion. National Democratic Committeewoman Mrs. Martha McKay spoke briefly, giving several differences between Democrats and Republicans ("Republicans sleep in twin beds, sometimes even in separate bedrooms. Perhaps that is why there are so many more Democrats") and concluded by pointing out that though Democrats sometimes fought amongst each other, they could also join together in a common effort. She called on Democrats to join hands and present a solid front.

The results of the vote counting were reported to Mr. Phipps, but were not announced. Mr. Phipps asked the three-man Credentials Committee to retire, with Mr. Browning, and to report when they had reached a decision on the validity of Mr. Browning's vote.

While the Credentials Committee was out, Mr. Cates was permitted to introduce his resolution. Briefly, the resolution recognized U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin as a "symbol for the preservation of states' rights"; and the fact that Senator Ervin is being criticized for his defense in the Senate of states' rights; and resolved that Senator Ervin be commended "for his forthright stand against further encroachment of the United States Federal Government in the field of government reserved to the state of the Union under the United States Constitution."

William Geer was on his feet immediately. Mr. Geer stated his opinion that Mr. Cates' resolution was concerned with an issue "which is divisive of the Democratic party." He said such divisive matters would not help the party, and that he would not like to see the Executive Committee concern itself with such a matter. He moved that Mr. Cates' motion be tabled.

The motion to table Mr. Cates' resolution was passed by a vote of 21-19.

Delos O'Daniel, who voted against tabling the motion, stated that he was ashamed of the Committee "that we cannot back our Senator." He said it was the first time he had ever felt such shame.

Earle Wallace said he would take issue with Mr. O'Daniel. He said Mr. Cates' resolution was a "direct slap" at the President of the United States, and he's a Democrat too. "There is room within the party for disagreement," he said, "but we don't have to take a slap at the President."

The Credentials Committee returned, and Mr. McMahon announced that Mr. Browning's vote for Mr. Hamlin stood as recorded.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Hamlin made four points:

1. "Despite recent practice," he had made no prior arrangements to be sworn into office. 2. Though there would be no Statehouse reception in his honor, he would welcome all visitors in Raleigh, and would appreciate advice.

3. "You won't be called back to select a successor to me."

4. He was very much interested in Senate redistricting, and intended to do his best to represent the County.

Mr. Phipps presented Mr. Hamlin with the key to Statehouse office number 2801, Orange County's, and a roster of the Legislature showing Orange County's seat to be number 97—the number of Mr. Umstead's seat in the old Statehouse, which he had retained after the new Statehouse was opened for the General Assembly last spring.

Harold Walters moved that Mr. Hamlin's nomination be made unanimous by the Committee, which was unanimously accepted.

After the meeting one Committee member said he thought it curious that nobody had called him to ask him to vote for Mr. Hamlin or Mr. Cates. He said that some other Committee members had had the same experience.

In the crowd that milled around the dining room after the meeting was adjourned, there was some quiet speculation as to who would run for election as Orange County Representative next spring. Speculation on this subject was enlivened by the fact that during a lull in the meeting, Mr. Phipps had announced that if the County wanted to call on him again to represent it in the future, he "might very well be available."

represented the University.

In granting Mr. Bullock's motion for dismissal, Judge Latham said that he was "handicapped in not knowing which party is responsible" for the delay in disposing of the suit.

"I realize that we're not dealing with admiralty law, but no matter how astute a lawyer is, if he can stretch out a complaint over three years, then he has done his client — a delay is superfluous. Three years is a long time. With things at this stage of the game it would be ten years before the case got to the jury," Judge Latham said.

Mr. Edwards contended that granting of the motion for dismissal "would simply delay further trial of the case on its merits," and that the case could reach the Supreme Court more quickly if the present suit were allowed to continue. All documentation necessary for the appeal was ready for filing, Mr. Edwards said.

Mr. Potter, representing the University, said that Mr. Bullock sought the dismissal on grounds that Mr. Edwards had already had three extensions of time and that further extension would simply prolong litigation.

His motion contained ten allegations noting that the suit had been dismissed in Orange Superior court; that three extensions of time had been granted; that the plaintiff had failed each time to file his grounds for appeal, and that under law the defendants (the University and President Friday, Chancellor Aycock and Business Manager J. Arthur Branch individually) were entitled to motion for dismissal.
