OPEN HOUSE

An Orange County delegation will attend the School of Agriculture Open House at North Carolina State on Saturday.

In order to be a part of this delegation, all 4-H'ers that plan to attend should contact their community 4-H Club leader. Any other person who desires to attend and does not have transportation may contact the County Agent's office. The program begins at 9:15 a.m. at Reynolds Coliseum, with registration beginning at 8:00 a.m.

Citizens from throughout the State have been invited to attend the Open House. School officials have promised a program of interest to both young people and adults, regardless of whether they live in town or in the country.

Visitors will get a chance to see what it is like to be a student at North Carolina State. They will witness some of the college's vast research programs. They can enjoy such features as a preview of the Wolfpack basketball team and a dip in the college pool.

Dr. H. Brooks James, Dean of Agriculture at North Carolina State, says demand for the school's graduates are two to three times the supply each year. The average student receives a starting salary in his first job of about $5,500 annually. This is about $500 per year more than the starting salary of three years ago.

NICKELS FOR KNOW-HOW

A couple of years ago a mysterious "sleeping sickness" disease of turkeys appeared in Eastern North Carolina. One producer lost $25,000 worth of turkeys because of this condition. A poultry pathologist whose position was made possible with "Nickels for Know-How" funds traced the trouble to a common plant, yellow jessamine. Finding the cause of this trouble means an estimated annual savings of $75,000 to our poultry industry.

A state-wide referendum will be held on November 19 to determine if farm people again wish to assess themselves 5c for each ton of feed and fertilizer used. Every man, woman, and child who purchases feed or fertilizer or who shares in the proceeds from the sale of farm commodities involving the use of feed or fertilizer is eligible to vote. Forty-eight polling places have been set up in Orange County for the convenience of the voters.

NEW FARROWING HOUSE

Charles E. Woods, of the Shley Community, is building a 60 ft. long farrowing house. There will be twelve farrowing stalls plus two additional stalls for storing feed and littering material. The floor of these stalls will be concrete with a 6 ft. wide runway on the outside of the building. The stalls on either side of the building are separated by a 10 ft. alleyway running the length of the house. Mr. Woods expects to complete this structure in time to take care of a large number of sows that will be farrowing in December. At the present time he is keeping eighteen sows.

STUDENTS TO VISIT DAIRIES

A class of students from State College Dairy Department will observe dairying on the Snipes Brothers Farm and the Robert Nutter Farm in the Orange Grove Community. This workshop will serve as part of the outside work for the boys in the dairy course to observe different feeding operations and to study production of dairy herds. We are happy to have the dairy boys visit these Orange County dairies.

HIGH DAIRY PRODUCTION

The high fat cows in the Orange DHIC Association for the month of August were: Snipes Brothers' "Ada"—109 lbs.; Lasley Brothers' No. 18—104 lbs.; Robert Nutters No. 41—96 lbs.; and Dr. J. W. Beard's "Juliana"—94.6 lbs.

The high milk cows in the Orange DHIC Association for the month of August were: Shelton Ray's No. 47—2,793 lbs.; Robert Nutter's No. 39—2,650 lbs.; Dr. J. W. Beard's "Paula"—2,464 lbs.; and Snipes Brothers' "Ada"—1,980 lbs.

4-H NOTES

The Orange County 4-H Clubs wish to express their appreciation for the cooperative work of Charlie Morgan, artist and cartoonist of Hillsboro, for the fine painting and lettering that was displayed in our Fair Exhibit at the State Fair in Raleigh.
