

Spanish Lessons To Begin Tuesday

Tuesday morning at 11 many elementary school pupils throughout the State will receive their first Spanish lesson over WUNC-TV. Buenos Días, muchachos! says smiling Senorita Yvette del Prado as she greets her pupils for the first time. She will then tell them about the many places in the world where Spanish is spoken and teach them to greet each other in Spanish.

Senorita del Prado may teach Spanish by television to as many as half a million elementary school children throughout the nation this year. Her enthusiasm for her subject quickly communicates itself to teachers and pupils alike, and everyone looks forward eagerly to the next lesson.

This series, consisting of 45 lessons will last until mid-April, 1964, and will be seen at 11 a.m. each Tuesday and Thursday except during holidays, over WUNC-TV, Channel 4.

Coast Conference, that our academic and scholarly standards are high," he said.

I pointed out to Dr. Graham that I would do what I can—and I am positive that Bob Quincy is already doing all that can be expected of him in sports news from Chapel Hill to New York.

Even though a certain amount of provincialism can be expected of even a national newspaper such as the New York Times, and it is customary that they play up the Ivy League teams and games played in and around New York, perhaps they would assume more of a view in perspective of sports, if Carolina alumni in New York, who are subscribers to the Times, were to make their feelings known more strongly.

Surely it can be explained to the sports writers, if they really don't understand, that we are in the ACC rather than the Southeast Conference and that our academic standards are peerless.

No matter what the issue, nothing sways editors and publishers like well-reasoned letters and personal representations and phone calls from disappointed, but friendly, subscribers.

So, it seems to me that Frank Graham and other devoted followers of Tar Heel football fortunes could put the pressure on right there in New York City. They could write letters to the editor, letters to the sports editor, letters to the columnists. They could telephone them. They could form delegations and go to see them in their offices. They could allude to the thousands of University of North Carolina alumni in Gotham, and the tens of thousands of Tar Heel followers generally in the city.

There are more Native North Carolinians living in New York than there are people from any other state outside New York, a man told me recently.

To add weight to their protestations, they could also appeal to Clifton Daniel, assistant managing editor of the Times, a native of Zebulon and graduate in journalism from the University here.

It would be appropriate for other Tar Heels in New York—William Rand Kenan who played halfback in the 1893 team, and John Motley Morehead and Vermont Royster and Andy Griffith—to go to bat for Carolina.

One other suggestion: Frank P. Graham, himself, as an official of the United Nations and an effective diplomat and master of conciliation and compromise,

The Chapel Hill Weekly, issued every Sunday and Wednesday, and is entered as second-class matter February 28, 1923, at the post office at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, published by the Chapel Hill Publishing Company, Inc. is under the act of March 3, 1879.

as well as a potent negotiator between statesmen, should undertake to lead a contingent of Tar Heel followers into the sports editorial sanctuaries of the N. Y. Times.

What Frank Graham accomplished in bringing peace to Indonesia and an avoidance of hostilities between India and Pakistan, could also be applied with equal persuasiveness to the sports editors on the Times.

So, it is proper to recommend this new Graham Plan of 1963. As former cheer leader and a partisan of 54 years since 1909, Frank P. Graham can be depended upon to again "Split it for the Team!"

Another Five-Car Accident Friday

The second five-car accident in Chapel Hill in a week occurred Friday afternoon at 2:40 on East Franklin Street. One injury was reported, and about $1,200 damage done to the vehicles involved.

The accident happened this way, according to Police Chief W. D. Blake: Mrs. Mary Moon, 41, of Snow Camp, was driving past the ATO Fraternity House on East Franklin when she reached up to adjust her sun visor. In doing so she apparently lost control of her car, which swerved into a parked car owned by Joe Dorsett of Chapel Hill.

Mr. Dorsett's car struck another parked car owned by Lavan Tyson Betty. Mr. Betty's car struck another parked car owned by Herman M. Parker of Charlottesville, Va. Mr. Parker's car struck another parked car owned by Harold Lancaster of Goldsboro.

Mrs. Moon was taken to Memorial Hospital and treated for abrasions of the head, which required stitches.

No charges were brought against Mrs. Moon.

Binkley Memorial Activities Today

"The Tyranny of Things" will be the topic of the sermon at the Binkley Memorial Baptist Church, which worships today at 11 a.m. in Gerrard Hall on the University Campus. Dr. Robert Seymour is minister.

The church nursery is at 507 East Franklin Street. Church school classes for children meet at this same address at 9:45; all other classes convene in Hanes Hall.

The evening ministry of the church begins with supper at 507 East Franklin Street. Following a light supper, there will be a report to the Church in Conference of the State Baptist Convention in Wilmington this past week. The adults and students will meet together.

Harris Speaks To Sertomans

Eugene Harris, director of the Hand Rehabilitation Center in Chapel Hill, spoke to the Tar Sertoma Club at the club's meeting Tuesday at Watts Grill.

Three new members were inducted into the club: Richard Corcoran, Robert B. Ferrell, and Sandy Sanders.

The club's next meeting will be Tuesday evening, November 26.

BOOK CLUB TO MEET

The Book Discussion group of the Newcomer's Division of the University Woman's Club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. James Mullen, 413 Granville Rd. The group will discuss "A Separate Peace," the first novel of UNC writer in residence John Knowles. Co-hostesses assisting Mrs. Mullen will be Mrs. David Hughes, Mrs. William Long, and Mrs. Herbert Gross.

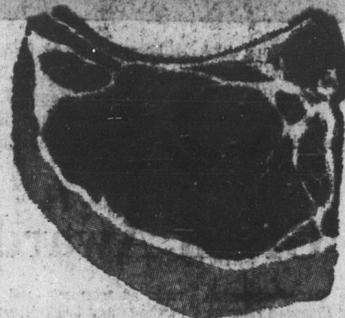

DENTAL DEANS MEET

Dr. John C. Brauer, Dean of the University School of Dentistry, and George M. Norwood, projector director and business officer of the University's Division of Health Affairs, will attend a conference of Dental School Deans in Las Vegas, Nev., this week, sponsored by the American Association of Dental Schools.
