

McBane-Squires Vows Exchanged

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Paul Squires are making their home on Farrington Road here after their marriage on Saturday, Dec. 7, at noon in the Chapel of the Cross. The Rev. Thomas R. Thrasher, rector of the church, conducted the private family ceremony. The bride is the former Patricia McBane of New York City, daughter of Mrs. Henry Grady McBane of Burlington. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Squires of Oakville, Ontario, Canada.

Mrs. James Clarence Wallace of Chapel Hill was honor attendant for the bride. Mr. Squires served as his son's best man.

Mrs. Squires attended the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and was graduated with honors from the University at Chapel Hill, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. She was presented to society at the Terpsichorean Ball in Raleigh. Before her marriage she was a textbook editor in the School of Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc., in New York City.

Dr. Squires received his B.A., M.D., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Western Ontario in London, where he joined Zeta Psi fraternity and was a member of Purple Spur honor society. After interning at Victoria Hospital in London, he was a Fellow in Medical Research and Fellow in Obstetrics and Gynecology at the medical school of the University of Western Ontario. He completed his residency in medicine at Duke University Medical Center. He is an instructor in medicine and a Fellow in Endocrinology at Duke.

CHURCH LUNCHEON

The Women of the Presbyterian Church will hold a luncheon meeting at the church at noon tomorrow. A prayer service will be held at 11:40 a.m. in the Pioneer Room. Mrs. Patrick Hobson is in charge of the program.

Their World Is The 'Housewife's Shop'

By PAQUITA FINE

There is just something about the warm sweet aroma escaping from a bakery that makes even the most rushed Christmas shopper stop and sniff with pleasure.

Margaret and Thell Jernigan own Thell's Bakery on Franklin Street. They have the delightful job of preparing delicious treats for holidays, birthdays, weddings, and parties—all happy occasions which make their work a joy instead of a chore.

Mrs. Jernigan had never baked or iced a cake until she married a Durham baker. "As a matter of fact, I was such a tomboy that I was voted the most athletic in the high school senior class and the only reason I even took Home Ec. was because it was easier than French. My first job was as secretary and bookkeeper in a Durham bakery and I was completely fascinated by the huge barrels of cookie dough, nuts and chocolate chips that were kept in the back. I guess another attraction was Thell who was the crew chief. We were married in 1941.

Thell's dream was to have a small retail bakery some day, so after the war, I took a cake decorating course at the Henderson School in Florida and we bought a bakery in North Durham. Unfortunately, the customers were few and far between and I finally had to get out and peddle the baked goods from door to door while Thell kept the shop and did the baking. It was hard work and we just managed to survive. Then, about 12 years ago we had an opportunity to purchase this bakery in Chapel Hill which had actually been in operation now for over 30 years. At the time we bought it, it was named Hill's and it was more of a wholesale bakery.

We've turned it into what I like to call a 'housewife's shop' where a woman can buy the same type of baked goods and sweets that she can bake at home but just doesn't have the time to do. But we get unusual orders too. Like last week, Mrs. Tony Jenzano's son was home on leave and Mrs. Jenzano wanted a cake made to resemble his ship. She brought in a picture for Thell and me to go by. We made the cake, iced it a battleship grey, and decorated it with little flags and portholes. Mrs. Jenzano told us later that her son was so pleased with it that he wanted to carry it back with him. Then, Saturday afternoon there was a rush order for a wedding cake. This woman in Bynum called and wanted a wedding cake by five o'clock. A WEDDING CAKE. In less than four hours. She was supposed to have baked one for her sister's wedding and hadn't. I still don't know how we did it but we had that cake ready for her when she walked in at 4:30."

Mr. Jernigan grew into the bakery business. "I used to hang around a Durham bakery so much after school that they finally hired me. That's when I discovered that a baker's day begins at four in the morning. I can remember when a 100-hour work week was considered average during the Depression. Both Margaret and I still put in from 10 to 12 hours a day during rush periods. Mostly, our orders are for breads, cookies, traditional cakes, and things like these," he said pointing to a huge pan of hot brownies an assistant was just removing from an oven. "Since this is a university town, we often get requests for cakes iced in Carolina blue with some athletic figure or fraternity insignia 'painted' on. We've also had such odd orders as a cake in the shape of a bottle of scotch. Those for children may range from a pig or cow to a choo-choo train."

The largest order Mr. Jernigan ever prepared entirely by himself was a 300-pound anniversary cake for State College. "I was the only person in the bakery when the refreshment committee decided they wanted the cake ahead of the scheduled order time. That was a lot of cake and a lot of decorating." His most artistic endeavor was a cake in the shape of Duke Chapel which he made for the "Pepsi Cola Burnett family" in Durham. "Mrs. Burnett got so interested in watching me decorate that cake that she later took a course in cake decorating."

The Jernigans live on the Airport Road. They have four children: Judy, 20, who is in college; Cheryl, 16, a senior high student; Lennie, 14, a junior high student; and Barbara, 6, a first-grader.

Civic Club Holds Christmas Party

The Carrboro Civic Club held its monthly meeting in combination with a Christmas party. For the occasion Mrs. Winslow Williams and Mrs. Herbert Riggsbee decorated the club in tasteful and beautiful arrangements of Christmas greenery of holly and red winter berries, among which were placed red and white tapers. A table was devoted to a nativity scene.

After the business session the social hour was begun by the singing of carols at which time lights were turned off, and the tapers were lighted. After the singing Miss Doris Lindsay read "The Gift of the Magi" by O'Henry, followed by the singing of more carols.

Laid with a white cloth, the refreshment table was beautifully decorated with red winter berries and greenery at the base of two silver three branched candelabra with red tapers. From a silver service tea was served by Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Riggsbee. On silver trays were open-faced sandwiches cut in forms of Christmas trees with bits of pimiento as decorations, hors d'oeuvres, candy and cookies.

In addition to Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Riggsbee, those present were Miss Lillian Burch, Mrs. Gladys Parker, Miss Mary Ringello, Mrs. Ruth Settlemyre, Mrs. Bobbie Cox, Mrs. Kay Gibson, Miss Lucille Tilley, Miss Doris Lindsay, Mrs. Beulah Ellington, Mrs. Ann Gibson, Mrs. Alma Todd, Mrs. Emma Williams, Mrs. Perry Jenkins, Mrs. Mary Hollingsworth and Mrs. Lillian Williams. After refreshments Christmas gifts were exchanged.

A PRAYER

In time of buffeting*

Almighty and most merciful God, as thy Son was buffeted for the sins of the whole world and as our Nation has just been buffeted for its faults, may we, when we are buffeted for our own transgressions, have the wisdom and humility to recognize Thy Divine guidance at work, change whatever is wrong and face up to Thee. If we are buffeted for Thy sake and the Gospel's may the unspeakable joy of Thy Spirit lighten our burden, and when we do well and are buffeted, may our faith in Thee and the eternal good for which You stand, sustain us. Finally, dear Lord, if we need a "thorn in our flesh" like St. Paul, to perfect our character, may we bear that affliction like a true Christian, uncomplainingly. Amen

*Based on Hebrews 12:5-6, 2 Cor. 12:7-9, King James version 1 Peter 2:19-20, Rev. 3:19) Sometimes we wonder, "Why did it have to happen to me?" I do not have all the answers but I have had my share of buffeting and my experience might help someone and for free. White MWH, Box 53, Glen Ridge, N. J. 07023. Thank you.
