

Vacations Approved By Carrboro Board

Carrboro municipal employees will have a 12-day paid vacation every year according to an ordinance passed last night by the Carrboro Board of Commissioners.

tion is granted. After a year of full-time employment, the employee will accrue one vacation day a month.

Board members disagreed, however, over a policy to control the political activities of Town employees. No policy was established and the question will be brought before the Board January 14.

Two other ordinances were also adopted or changed.

An ordinance to erect stop signs at Todd and North Greensboro Streets, Sue Ann Court and North Greensboro Street, and Roberson and East Main Streets was agreed upon.

Also, the zoning ordinance governing suburban commercial zones was changed to state that businesses such as carnivals and circuses, contractors' yards, miniature golf courses, stores and establishments for outdoor and indoor recreational facilities must now petition the Commissioners for a special use permit.

Plans for indexing and coding all the Carrboro ordinances and a new $10 fee for special use permits and rezoning grants were announced. The fee money will be used to cover the cost of advertising and recording done by the Town for each such zoning request.

On the recommendation of the Carrboro Planning Board, the property of Philip Riggsbee and R. S. Lloyd will be rezoned from residential to suburban commercial, and the Fisher property on Carr and Williams Streets will be rezoned from residential to business.

The Board also approved a proposal to place Hanna Street, recently paved by the Town of Carrboro, under Town maintenance.

Harry Mehre, who will be the principal speaker at Carolina's football banquet here Saturday night, is a former college coach. One of his appointments was at the University of Georgia.

"I had a lifetime contract," relates Mehre, an ex-Notre Dame player, "and one day I woke up to read I'd been fired."

"I can't be fired," I stormed at my critics. "My contract is for life."

"We've just declared you legally dead," was the retort.

MARINE CHATTER: Two weatherbeaten marines were on the sidelines during the recent Duke-Carolina skirmish on Thanksgiving Day. Those who saw the game recall there was a long argument (actually concerning operation of the clock) after the Tar Heels had kicked a field goal with about 30 seconds remaining.

"You think they're gonna cancel the goal?" asked the younger of the two.

"If they do," drawled the beribboned master sergeant, "you gonna see the damndest fight since Guadalcanal."

WATCH THAT COOKE: Brightest find in recent games for Carolina's basketball Tar Heels is backcourter Mike Cooke, the Mt. Airy lad. He has been moving the ball well and scoring in sizable amounts.

People at the University of Kentucky praised his shooting after Carolina's 100-80 loss to the powerful Wildcats last Monday night. Cooke and Center Billy Cunningham gave the Kentuckians plenty of trouble all evening.

Incidentally, the loss to Kentucky evened that series at 4-4. North Carolina is one of the few teams in the country which had held its own with Adolph Rupp's speedy clan throughout the years.

INSIDE STUFF: A recent request at the sports information office came from a prison in Florida.

The writer, obviously a sports fan, asked for information on the North Carolina team.

"You got a lot of followers here inside the walls," he wrote. "We wish you the best of luck at the Gator Bowl and will be pulling for you."

Coach Jim Hickey is all for giving him a pardon.

FLYING HIGH: The airplane ride from Charlotte, scene of the Indiana game last Saturday night, to Lexington, Ky., for the Kentucky battle was perhaps the roughest ever encountered by a Carolina team—save the Texas football trip back in 1947.

One of the passengers had need of a sick kit. He rang for the hostess.

"You'll have to get it yourself," she lamented. "I'm using one myself."

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: The Gator Bowl appearance of Air Force brings back pleasant memories to several members of the North Carolina athletic department.

Basketball Coach Dean Smith was a member of the Falcon staff, prior to his joining the North Carolina staff. Then there's wrestling coach Dr. Sam Barnes. Sam and the wrestling tutor at Air Force grew up together.

Ben Martin, boss of the Air Force football team, served at Virginia during 1956-57. He played the Tar Heels twice during that time, winning one and losing one.

Chapel Hill Wins Basketball Opener Vs. Ragsdale, 59-54

By JOE SPRANSY

Chapel Hill High School's basketball team emerged victorious from its first game of the hardwood season Friday night at the expense of Ragsdale High's Tigers. The game, a nip-and-duck battle all the way down to the final buzzer, was finally decided in a three minute overtime, the score resting at 59 to 54.

The Wildcats started the game in much the same fashion as it ended, with the score at the end of the first quarter 12 to 12, and a halftime score of 27 to 26 Chapel Hill.

During the third period, it seemed as if the 'Cats might pull the game out of fire. They scored 15 points to lead the Ragsdale team by six at the end of the quarter, 42-36.

Ragsdale cut down on the Wildcats' lead and knotted the score at 49 to 49 with 36 seconds remaining on the clock. Despite hurried attempts to add a winning point, the 'Cats could not register another score during the remaining time and the game went into overtime.

The 'Cats, with three of their top six men fouled out, were forced to rely on Randy Ellington and David Ripperton during this period. With one minute and ten seconds on the clock the 'Cats accumulated eight points in this period while Ragsdale only put 2 points through the net. Chapel Hill went on to win the game with a 59 to 54 final score.

Taking all honors for the Wildcats was center David Ripperton, who accounted for 18 of his team's 59 points and pulled off 21 rebounds. Following close behind, Randy Ellington put 16 points through the nets. Leading the losers was Mark Bullock with 15.

In the preliminary game the Chapel Hill High School Kittens purred to a win over Ragsdale's girls, by 25-21, also in an overtime period. An extremely low scoring affair, the first quarter ended with a 4 to 2 score, Ragsdale.

Susan Barron and Peggy Larsh paced the Kittens with nine and eight points respectively. Susan Culbreth followed closely with seven. The defensive work of Susan Campbell, Jill Hickey and Jane Pettis kept the Kittens in a good position.

The regular game ended in a 21 to 21 tie, but the Kittens managed to put in four points in the extra two minutes while holding Ragsdale scoreless.

The two teams' next game will be on Friday in the Chapel Hill gym where they will meet Orange High School in non-conference play.

The sophomore team from Chapel Hill High School was beaten by Jordan High School Monday night, 49-42. Graham Burch paced the scoring for Chapel Hill with 13 points. Close behind was Mark Phialas with 10 points. Denny Cole took high scoring honors for the game with 19 points for Jordan.

Human Relations Meeting Tonight

The Chapel Hill Human Relations Committee will hold an open discussion tonight of any problems several local groups wish to air. The Committee meets at 8 in the Town Hall.

Mrs. George Taylor, chairman of the Committee, said that CUR-ED, the local chapter of CORE, the Chapel Hill Merchants Association, the Chapel Hill Ministerial Association, and Mayor Sandy McClamroch representing the Town and the Board of Aldermen had been invited to attend the meeting and discuss any problems they had or other matters they felt needed the Committee's attention.

Mrs. Taylor said she did not know how many of these groups would appear at the meeting. An open invitation has been issued to any other group or person to appear also.

Mrs. Taylor will report to the Committee on progress in an effort to establish a high school equivalency program in Chapel Hill. She said the Committee had received an official invitation from the Federal government to submit a proposal for such a program to the Manpower Retraining Program of the Department of Labor.

The Committee will definitely submit a proposal, Mrs. Taylor said, but when and how long it would be before a high school equivalency program actually went into effect are unknown at the moment.

"These things follow tortuous paths," she said, and added that a coordinator of the program might be announced at the meeting if her choice of person to do the coordinating agreed to take the responsibility.

12 Solid Hours Of Beethoven

In honor of the birthday of one of the world's greatest musicians, Ludwig Van Beethoven, WUNC-FM will present a "Beethoven Spectacular" on Saturday, December 14.

Produced and narrated by the station's music director, Thurman Smith, the program will begin at 12 noon on Saturday and will run until about midnight. Featured will be Beethoven's nine symphonies, five piano concertos, violin concerto, a string quartet, Great Fugue, and two of his overtures, with brief comments about each work. The works will be presented in order of their composition, beginning with the First Piano Concerto and concluding with the Ninth Symphony.

The Spectacular will present Beethoven's best known and representative works in an historical framework so that the listener will gain a concept of the composer as a whole.

WUNC broadcasts at 9:15 megacycles, FM.

SALMON BROADCAST

Tomorrow at 7 p.m., WUNC will broadcast the lecture by Eric Salmon, delivered in Gerrard Hall last week. Mr. Salmon's talk, "Are the Young Men Still Angry?" was the highlight of the first public forum sponsored by the newly created Division of Fine Arts at the University.

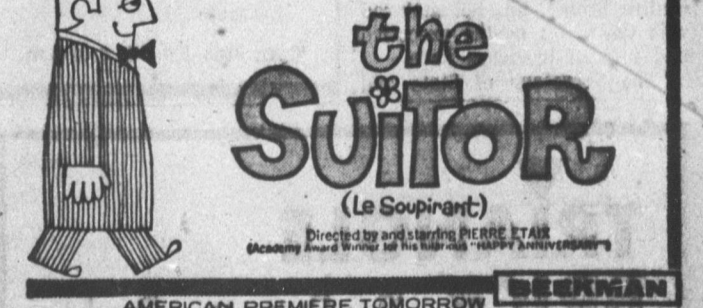

4-H Achievement Program Is Friday

The Annual 4-H County-Wide Achievement Program will be held Friday night at the Courthouse in Hillsboro, starting at 7:30.

Some of the highlights of the program include a skit by the Hickory Grove 4-H Club and a color slide showing of 4-H Camp and project activity by Carr "C" Club.

After the program refreshments will be served by Jordan Grove Club. The public is invited.
