THE EDITOR'S TABLE.

'Kansas claims to be the mother of the third party and Ohio is strongly suspected of the father-hood.

Jerry Simpson says the Democratic party is 'a conservative party.' Right. It is trying to save all that is left.

So far twenty-five States have made appropriations for exhibits at the World's Fair, the total aggregating $1,825,000.

Coporal Tanner says the pension office should be overhauled. Tanner has been there himself and ought to know a thing or two.

John Sherman did not build his barn a day too soon. The farmers of Ohio are after him with a sharp stick with a tug on the end of it.

Ex-Senator Blair don't care much whether he goes to China or not as he draws the salary right along all the same as if he was up holding the dignity of this country among the Celestial—Ex.

The Courier Journal suggests that Mr. Blair carry a buckeye in his pocket. The suggestion is a good one. He might also tie a red flannel string around his wrist and rub his joints with black snake oil.

The Quay organs are already announcing that the third party is for sale. In that case the republicans will get it. 'They will go into the next campaign with a tremendous corruption fund.

The Buffalo Express says there are no Democrats in heaven. This implies that the inhabitants of heaven are all to be Republicans. Few people, however, are ready to believe that the devil was created in vain.—Ex.

Let us hope that the prophets who are predicting that the end of the world is near, may be wrong. How would the United States look on the morning of the Day of Judgment, with a Republican Administration and an empty Treasury?—Louisville Courier-Journal, Dem.

The fact that the alleged tin-plate makers of the United States fail to produce any of the ware in answer to orders, while there is plenty for display in the show windows of partisan newspapers, appears to indicate that American tin-plate is solely for campaign purposes.

The Billion-Dollar Congress, as appears from its official record, made a net increase of over seven hundred in the place-holders under the Federal Government, adding to the annual burdens of the people $4,949,465. No wonder that the taxpayers rose up and sat down heavily on the tax-eaters.

The death of Mr. Everett Gray, of the banking house of Vivian, Gray & Co., London, came as the sad sequel to the announcement of the successful placing of $2,500,000 of the new issue of the Norfolk and Western preferred stock. He, perhaps more prominently than any man abroad, identified himself with the new life and enterprise which for the past decade has brought South-west Virginia to the forefront as a field for foreign investment.

The Philadelphia Press prints the following New York special: 'The newspaper world will have another shake-up this week. George W. Turner, the business manager of The New York World, has tendered his resignation to Mr. Davis, the vice president of the company, who is Mr. Pulitzer's brother-in-law and the responsible head of the concern. Mr. Turner will join Colonel John A. Cockerill, late of The World and start a new morning daily, which is expected to make its appearance about July 1st.

'From a society whose governing principles are industry and the love of order, much may be expected towards the improvement and prosperity of the country in which their settlements are formed, and experience authorizes the belief that much will be obtained.

THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY

OF GEORGE WASHINGTON'S VISIT TO SALEM.

The President's Great Southern Tour and His Sojourn Among the Old Wachovia Settlement a Noted Page in North Carolina Annals—Interesting Notes from Washington's Diary.

Sunday marked the 100th anniversary of General George Washington's visit to Salem! It is an important page in the history of North Carolina, and of particular interest to the people of Salem. Then a small Moravian settlement of 200 souls, the distinctive characteristics have lived through these hundred years, and to-day a population of over 4,000 can gather around the spot where nearly two centuries ago the music of the organ and the words of the extracts below from Washington's diary speak for itself:

'On Tuesday, May 31, 1791, I left Salisbury about 4 o'clock, at 5 miles crossed the Yadkin, the principal stream of the Pee Dee, and breakfasted on the north bank, (while my carriage and horses were crossing) at Mr. Young's, fed my horses 10 miles further at one Reed's and about 3 o'clock, (after another halt) arrived at Salem, one of the Moravian towns 20 miles further, in all 35 from Salisbury. The road between Salisbury and Salem passes over very little good land, and much that is indifferent, being a good deal mixed with pine and not sand, and the soil is a small but neat village, and like all the rest of the Moravian settlements, is governed by an excellent police, having within itself all kind of artisans. The number of souls does not exceed 200.

'Wednesday, June 1st, having received information that Gov. Martin was on his way to meet me, and would be at Salem this evening, I resolved to await his arrival at this place, instead of halting a day at Guilford as I had intended. Spent the forenoon in visiting the shops of the different tradesmen; the houses of accommodation for the single men and sisters of the fraternity, and their places of worship. Invited six of their principal men to dine with me, and in the evening went to hear them sing, and perform on a variety of instruments, church music.

'In the afternoon the President was accompanied by his Secretary, Maj. Jackson. They rode in a large white chariot, drawn by four horses. A two horse baggage wagon followed. Four saddle horses supplied his service, the groom giving a horse for the President when he wished to change.

'The party left Philadelphia, March 21, 1791 and returned as far as Mt. Vernon, June 12, having made the tour of more than 1700 miles in 66 days.

The Schemers Bounced.

The grand jury has returned indictments against R. J. Kellogg, E. R. Hodges and S. J. Kellogg, of Washington, Iowa, for using the mail for fraudulent purposes. For over a year these parties have inserted an advertisement in at least one paper in every prominent city in the United States, substantially as follows: 'WANTED.—Detectives—Bright men in every locality to act as private detectives. Send names of particulars. Washington Detective Agency.'

Evidence was brought before the grand jury showing that the parties had been in every State in the country from the young men of the country who were anxious to gain fame as detectives.

The Bacilli of the Grippe.

A series of interesting experiments has been conducted in the University of Chicago, Illinois, on the bacilli of the grippe. The results have been very satisfactory. The elements to work on were obtained from the saliva of twenty-two persons who were afflicted with the disease, and in each case the bacillus was distinctly discernible under the microscope. It was found that by cultivation in a diluted beef broth the bacilli grew and flourished, and in all particulars corresponded with that taken from individual cases in human beings. The bacillus has been photographed, and the university has several of these in which uniformly appears the germ, like little beads on a fine string.

A Wonderful Railroad Junction.

Clapham Junction, London, is probably the most remarkable and busiest railway junction point in the world. At this point the London and Southwestern and London, Brighton and South Coast Railways join and cross each other, and an average of 1,200 trains pass this place every twenty-four hours. Of this number 1,000 pass the junction between the hours of 7 a. m. and 10 p. m., when there are not less than one every fifty-four seconds during the fifteen hours. The traffic is chiefly passenger trains.—Engineering News.

Dr. Hobgood Chosen President.

Rev. Dr. F. P. Hobgood, one of the most zealous and successful preachers in the South, will be placed at the head of the Richmond Female Institute next session.

The new president is a full graduate of Wake Forest College and has made teaching his life work. His first position was a principal of Raleigh (N. C.) Academy. Subsequently he served as principal of Raleigh Female Seminary and recently as president of Oxford Female College, of which he was the founder.

Joy in a Courtroom.

The jury in the case of Pasquelina Robertello, of New York, charged with the murder of her faithless lover, Nicolo Pietro, on Wednesday afternoon rendered a verdict of not guilty. Pietro had wronged the girl and then offered her a loaded revolver, telling her if he did not marry her she was to avenge his crime by taking his life. After many postponements of the ceremony, he said he was going to Italy and that she could make a living by her beauty, and expressed regret that he had spared her younger sister. At this she shot him dead.

When the clerk asked the usual question of the foreman, he almost shouted 'not guilty.' The jury shouted 'not guilty.' Men jumped upon seats, waving hats and handkerchiefs and yelled and cheered. Many prominent ladies, who have watched the progress of the case with profound interest, wept for joy, and embraced the bewildered girl, who is in a delicate condition.

One of the special features of the Greensboro College Commencement was the marriage of Mr. W. B. Lee to Miss Mamie Foutville. It was at the conclusion of the last Grand Concert when Mendelssohn's wedding march struck up and the bride and groom, with attendants, entered and were united in marriage by Dr. Dixon. It was a pretty scene, and one of joy and happiness. The congratulations and presents were many. Mr. Lee and Miss Foutville are both well known in Winston.

Several rival inventors laid claim to the Rapid Transit Commissioners' seat side by side.

ADMIRAL CARTER DEAD.

A LARGE AND HANDSOME OIL PAINTING OF MR. CLEVELAND.

Civil Service Examinations—Decisions of the Supreme Court—Other Interesting News.

[Special Cor. to the Daily Sentinel.]
WASHINGTON, May 30.—Rear Admiral S. P. Carter, retired, died in this city Wednesday, 27th. He entered the naval service as a midshipman in 1840 from Tennessee, became a commodore in 1878, and retired from that rank in 1881. Subsequently in 1882, by special act of Congress he was promoted to the rank of admiral on the retired list. His record of service was peculiar in that during the late war, because of his familiarity with the Tennessee country, he was promoted to his rank by the army, and as a result of good service became a brigadier general.

A large oil painting stands on a mantel in the foyer of the White House and attracts general attention. It is a portrait of ex-President Cleveland, painted by an artist named Johnson of New York. The sitter is represented in an arm chair, with his right side against a table, on which he leans slightly, resting on his hand, and forearm. This portrait is intended to occupy a place among those of other ex-presidents in the gallery that forms one of the most attractive features of the White House.

An examination will be held at the rooms of the civil service commission in this city, commencing on June 16, at 9 a. m., to fill a vacancy in the position of architectural draftsman, man, at $1,800 per annum in the office of the quartermaster-general. Applicants must be able to design and construct buildings in all their details, must be able to estimate their cost and must possess a high knowledge of building materials and modern appliances. Blanks for applications will be furnished by the commission. Applications must be completed before the day of the examination. It may be possible to arrange to examine applicants in some of the larger cities outside of Washington.

The United States Supreme Court decided unanimously that the original package law of Congress is constitutional. This ought at least for the present generation, to take the original package out of chancery, where it has been so long and to such manifest public inconvenience. The late legislation of Congress is declared to have been valid and to have gone into effect in the prohibition States without the necessity of re-enacting state prohibitory laws.

The decision is probably the ground that while the police power is in the State the power to regulate commerce is solely in the general government and it is an essential part of the regulation to prohibit the regular means for accomplishing the introduction and incorporation of articles into and with the mass of property. In the closing paragraph it is held that this is not the case of a law enacted in the unauthorized exercise of a law which it is competent for the State to pass, but which could not operate upon articles occupying a certain situation until the passage of an act of Congress.

The Supreme Court during the term just ended completely smashed the previous highest record of cases disposed of at one term of the court, settling 617 cases against 470, which had heretofore been the record.
