THAT ASSIGNMENT LAW

THE SUPREME COURT RENDERS A DECISION.

The Court Holds That it is Limited to Conditional Sales and Mortgages -Attorney-General's Reply.

The Supreme court Friday handed down its opinion in the assignment act. The court holds that the act is limited to conditional sales, assignecure pre-existing debts and obligaion and that mortgages of the nature tion and that mortgages of the nature The Commissioners passed an order of the one before the court growing that if the bondsmen of Sam Ebert, out of the transaction itself and ex- ex-chief-of-police, did not come fornot come within the operation of the act. The act was not intended to embrace transactions where the debts grow out of the transaction itself and s for present consideration.

The Chief Justice, Justices Furches. lark, and Montgomery agree upon the decision. Justice Avery files a dissenting opinion, holding that no properly constituted case was before court. Justice Clark concurs with with Justice Avery that the case was not properly constituted This construction of the court will afford great relief but the law will still work great hardship to farmers by depriving them of the privilege of including balances from last year in mortgages given for supplies for the current year.

It is still hoped that the effort of the Governor to have this spurious law declared void will succeed. Yesterday afternoon, Attorney General Osborne replied to Governor Carr's letter regarding the matter. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S REPLY.

After investigating he finds that no ich proceeding can be instituted as a State against the Secretary of State to prevent him from publishing the bill. The action would have to be brought in behalf of the State with you as the relator of the plaintiff, and me as counsel," he says. "There is, in my opinion, nothing which requires us to bring proceedings in any court to nullify an act of the Legislature, whether legally passed or not. But I do find authority in our stay for pro-ceedings of another character, which may effect the desired purpose and afford a remedy to our people against the infamous outrage that has perpetrated against them"-the proceeding suggested is in the nature of a man-"There is nothing to prevent your excellency from as a citizen in behalf of all other citizens from bringing this action, and if you will permit me to go beyond my duties as your legal advisor, I take this opportunity to say that you, as our most prominent citizen, is the proper per-

"ONE WHO WITNESSED.

White Man Marries a Negro, From the Wilson Mirror.

Last September a white man by the name of John W. Proctor was indicted for living in adultery with a negro woman. He escaped with her to Johnston county where they lived together until a few days ago. He was brought up in Johnston county for the same offence, when he made the statement that this negro woman, an octoroon, was his lawfully wedded wife, and that he was married in the courthouse of Wilson last September by Justice of the Peace Mercer. After making an investigation there was seen some truth in his remarks, so a new warrant was procured against Proctor for marrying a negro woman. Failing to give bond he was placed in jail here Saturday evening.

Surprises in Heaven.

rom the New York Herald. But many that are first shall be ast; and the last shall be first .--

We shall undoubtedly experience a great many surprises when we get to heaven, some of them pleasant and others painful. Our present notions of the uture are as confused as a The Georgia Southern & Florida andscape seen through a glass badly tocused. The imagination is apt to run riot with regard to it, while the reason falls into a doze. The heaven depicted by the popular theology is a place very undesirable to go to, because death, we are told, will make such changes in us that we shall lose all of our personal pecu-harities, and perhaps our person di Immortality is a mere flaure of speech, signifying nothing, unless we are absolutely and completely our selves when we get to heaven. The change of environment caused by death may be somewhat sudden, just as a change from the temperate zone Dr. George W. Carter, a Methodist preacher of Portsmouth, Va., aged 76 man who takes the train in the temperars, and Miss Virginia Statham, perare zone is the same man in all to the tropics would be; but as the ess titled particulars when he reaches his destination and sees nebra or flowers instead of fields of snow, so ers of woolens, etc., of Philadelphia, the soul that trends the strand of eternity is the same soul that embarked from the shores of time, and aothing has happened except the loss of a uscless body. Some of the acquaintances whom we have regarded with indifference or disdain may occupy a higher position than we have thought probable, and parhaps a higher position than we our selves. On the other hand, some of those upon whose supposed virtues we have looked with a kind of covetousness may be relegated to the lower spheres of celestial bliss. Heaven is not peculiar by reason of wings and harps, but by reason of character. If it is safe to use our common sense on this subject we may predict that our destiny will depend not on what we have, but on what we are; not on the amount of work we have done for the Lord, but Legislatures for the years named on the motive with which we did it; not on our scholarship or culture or refinement, but on the way in which 56,258.26 | we have made use of our talents.
