STEEL MILLS OPEN IN CLEVELAND; A. F. OF L. GAINS 622,664 MEMBERS ONLY TWO MILLS ARE DOWN IN THE GREAT LAKE STRIKE TERRITORY

CLEVELAND, July 6.-Steel mills in another major salient in the seven-State strike opened here yesterday. An estimated 3,000 workers returned to their posts at three Republic Steel plants after 41 days of idleness.

Jeers and shout of "Scab!" marked the maneuver-the latest in a series of back-to-work marches-but there was no violence. National guard bayonets and machine guns kept the peace.

The Cleveland mills, shut tight town Sheet & Metal Tube Co. Two since the strike broke out on May 26, were killed, more than two score inhad been regarded as one of the C. I. O.'s stoutest strongholds.

At Youngstown, O., the Mahoning county grand jury returned indict-ments against more than 200 persons including Robert Burke and John Stevens, alias Stevenson, ousted S. W. O. C. organizers.

The charges, lodged after a four-day investigation of 'all violence and disorders" in the Ohio steel valley, included carrying concealed weapons, inciting to riot and removing railroad property.

Burke, a former student at Columbia university, was charged with rioting in connection with battles between pickets and police here June 10 and June 19.

IN PAST 10 MONTHS-MONTHLY INCREASE OF 62,226 - OVER 103 NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

WASHINGTON, D. C .- The pronounced success achieved by the organizational activities of the American Federation of Labor is strikingly revealed by the official membership report made public here by Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison.

public here by Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison. Since last August, according to Mr. Morrison, over 600,000 working men and women throughout the United States and Canada, hitherto outside the organized labor movement, have realized the advantages of united industrial action to improve their economic and social conditions and have taken out membership cards in over one hundred national and international unions and hundreds of directly affiliated local trade and labor unions which constitute the American Federation of Labor, raising the total membership of this constructive organization to more than three million, the average monthly increase in membership being 62,266. Evidently impressed with the idea that facts speak for themselves, Mr. Morrison made no comment on his concise report, the text of which follows: "The paid upon and reported membership of the 103 National and Inter-national Unions and Local Unions directly affiliated with the American Fed-eration of Labor as of June 30, 1937, is 3,062,719. This does not include the membership of the ten National and International Unions suspended Septem-ber 5, 1936. "This is a gain of 622,664 members for the ten months over the average membership of the fiscal year ending August 31, 1936."

FEDERATION OF LABOR MAKING PLANS TO FIGHT CIO-WILL SEEK CLOSED SHOP - 200 ORGANIZERS

WASHINGTON, July 6.-Informed persons said today the American Federation of Labor would seek closed shop agreements as a part ow its strategy in a renewed struggle with John L.

Lewis' CIO for organized labor supremacy.

Organizers will tell employers, it was asserted, that a closed shop would be to their advantage because of the federation's ban on sit-down strikes and its record of adherence to contracts. By this means the A. F. of L. chief-tains hone to gain sole right of ren-tains hone to gain sole right of ren-

The news of the day is very confusing. Any time you pick up a daily paper you find notes of strikes—sit down, stand up, lay down, or walkout— efforts to organize the working men and women by those interested in their future welfare, and oppositon to organization by other workers who are numerous and at all times ready and willing to take the place of the one who rebels against the conditions under which he works, or is dissatisfied with the following observations of Roger Babson, published in the Washington, D. C., Times under date of November 6, 1935, may fit nicely: Me says a temporary dictatorship or some form of facism may be nec-essary in the United States to save democracy. The chief reform needed, he feels, is to give the ballot only to those who would use it thoughtfully and seriously. He would not tolerate a property test, and he fails to suggest just how his reform might be accomplished. "A voter," he says, "should be free from a criminal record, should have a knowledge of government, and perhaps should be a parent. To bring this change about may require a temporary dictatorship or some form of factorship or some form of fac-ters.

"If such comes, I hope my descendants will co-operate therewith. Such a dictatorship should result ultimately in a better and stronger democracy. "Surely democracy in its present form, with everyone having a vote, irrespective of character or intelligence, is likely some day to collapse. Only a great religious revival can save it.

A SIT-DOWN STRIKE OF ONE MAN HELD ON STAIRWAY IN GREENVILLE GREENVILLE, S. C., July 5.-Greenville's first sit-down strike was a success—for the one man who irrespective of character or intelligence, is likely some day to collapse. Only a great religious revival can save it.

"This danger of collapse is accentuated by the fact that the ignorant, the weak in character, and the poor in health are breeding more rapidly than those with strong character, good health and intelligence."
Babson's story of his life, which is frank and revealing, affords an excellent psychological study of a man who was in the thick of business, financial and economic development from 1900 on to the present day. He is rather typical of the era. On a $1,200 shoestring, with his wife as a partner, he started a business that has reaped millions, and he has given lots of money away. He proudly claims to be a rugged individualist. He also is a moralist. He says he is an independent in politics. By nature, he confesses to conservatism, but concedes that a change every so often is essential.
His is a character of paradoxes, as revealed in his biography. He was fired from one of his first jobs with an investment house because he was too curious about the big spread of profit. He was ousted from a bank—and with his father's vote—because he made a speech predicting income and inheritance taxes, then regarded as very radical.
He tried to run his own business as a profit-sharing enterprise with his employes, giving them a chance to increase their salaries by a bonus system. This failed after a period of success when the depression came along and employes were unwilling to share in the loss.
After watching the stocks and bonds and industrial development for many years at a close range, he holds little hope of permanent reform in methods of financing. Probably four-fifths of the companies organized today are still organized to sell securities rather than to perform service, he says.
He deplores the great public utility holding companies and advocates their breaking up into smaller units, as is contemplated by the recent acts of Congresses. A refrigerator concern sent two negroes out to make a delivery at a One was a part-time employe, paid 25 cents for helping with each refrigerator. The pair grunted their way to the second floor landing, and seeing the next flight of stairs ahead, the part-time balked. He didn't budge until he gained an upward revision in his pay.

Scouts hunters (room). Town filled to overflowing. A regular jamboree jamming. Autos in the way. Side-walks full of people. Saturday and Sunday fine. Rain this A. M. Have nice rooms after long hunt. Leave for Pennsylvania Wednesday morn-ing." [Hurry back, and good luck, Colonel, to you and yours.—Ed.]

There is much of truth in all the foregoing, and it seems certain much of the social unrest of the present day could have been avoided had business been more considerate of those who did the actual labor with the physical strength nature gave them. Surely the laborer is worthy of his hire, and there is no need for any to go hungry or suffer privations, simply because of the greed of gold. Gold is hard to digest in the human stomach, and to satisfy hunger and enjoy rest after labor is about all there is to physical life as we now know it. Money in a bank will stay there after its owner passes on.

trustees. Delegates to the State Federation of Labor Convention at Salisbury, July 26, 27, 28, were nominated as follows: A. J. Dumas, Plumbers; George Kendall, Machinists and F. G. Campbell, Teamsters and Chauffeurs. It will be observed that in the above nominations, which is equivalent to election, that the officers have been well divided among the various crafts. One of the important features of the meeting was a tallk by T. A. Wil-son, of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, and a past state president of the Federation, he telling of the benefit of organization, and of the strug-gles in the early days of the A. F. of L. to place the workers where they are today. Mr. Wilson brought out several telling points in his talk, and it was enjoyed by all present.

was enjoyed by all present. George J. Kendall, A. F. of L. organizer, gave a brief outline of the new organizations being placed in the fold in the State and of many being put in line. Along with Mr. Wilson he left today for Lenoir to address a mass meeting of the Lenoir workers, where the A. F. of L. has more than 2,000 members, and is growing daily. It was announced by Miss Vernette Threatt, acting president, that the Women's Union Label League would hold an important meeting at the Cen-tral body hall next Wednesday night for reorganization purposes and to transact other important business. A full attendance of members and friends is earnestly requested. President James H. Fullerton presided, with Secretary Gilmer H. Hol-

You talk of the breeds of cattle And plan for a higher strain; You double the food of the pasture And heap up the measure of grain; You draw the wits of the nation To better the barn and the pen, But what are you doing, my brother, To better the breed of men? You boast of your Polls and Herefords, Of the worth of a calf or a colt, And scoff at the scrub and the mongrel As worthy of fool or dolt; You mention the points of your roadster With many a wherefore and when; But, ah, are you counting, my brother, The worth of the children of men? And what of your boy? Have you measured His needs for a growing year? Does your mark as his sire, in his features, Mean as much as your brand on your steer? Thoroughbred: that is your watchword
