TORONTO, May 14.—(Canadian Press)—George M. Harrison of Cincinnati was re-elected president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks in annual convention here Saturday. The delegates passed a resolution condemning a bill introduced in the United States Senate by Senator Reed, Republican of Kansas, which would pool all less-than-carload lots of freight on the same basis as express. Harrison told the convention that the bill would mean loss of between 35,000 and 40,000 jobs. Officers chosen in addition to Harrison were L. E. Ziegler of Cincinnati, grand secretary and treasurer and editor of the Railway Clerks' Journal; J. H. Sylvester of Chicago, first vice president; and R. M. Morgan of Cincinnati, vice president for express workers. Also named vice presidents were L. W. Reigel of Atlanta; L. I. Sneddon of McKeesport, Pa.; H. R. Lyons of St. Louis, and G. B. Goble of Chicago.

Exclusion Of All Communists From Labor Party Urged

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A strongly worded demand for excluding all Communist from the American Labor party was made in a resolution adopted by the third annual city convention of the Social Democratic Federation here. Louis Waldman, chairman of a special committee set up to make a survey of Red activities, reported that over thirty Labor party clubs in Manhattan nineteen are controlled by Communists.

Largest Man-Made Island
Treasure Island was reclaimed from San Francisco bay by army engineers. It was founded in Yerba Buena shoals, which was chosen for a central location, and was financed by over $3,000,000 from WPA funds. A fleet of 11 dredges pumped black sand from the floor of the bay and sloughed it through pipe lines over the shoal. A sea wall containing over 200,000 tons of quarried rock was built. The natural depth was from 2 to 26 feet below water, and a four-acre rectangle was filled in to its present elevation of 13 feet above the tides. It stands now as the largest island ever built by man.

Sharks Valued Dead or Alive
Sharks have the double advantage of being just as valuable dead as they are alive, according to Al Meyer, expert on the Pacific coast fishing industry. His statistics show that 1,500,000 sharks are being used in the shark reduction industry in the United States. However, before they are caught, they are equally valuable in protecting sardines by eating the larger fish that prey on sardines.

Monkeys Learn Barter System in Record Time

Chimpanzees, like their human counterparts, quickly learn a monetary system with all its attendant bickering and hoarding. Dr. John B. Wolfe, of the University of Mississippi, has learned. They learn to work for food, then for "tokens"—and how to spend these tokens for food, water, tidbits, the psychology professor told students at Tulane university.

And just by way of education the professor, during his four years of experimentation with the chimp colony at Yale, introduced a token which would buy nothing. The chimps discarded the worthless tokens.

Dr. Wolfe introduced tokens of varied value and vending machines which dispensed water and food. The Chimpanzees soon learned which tokens bought one, two and three portions of food and singled out the ones which bought the most.

They learned to work for the tokens, as they had previously learned to work for food, and began hoarding the valuable pieces of tender.

In one experiment, Dr. Wolfe deprived one Chimpanzee of water for several hours and another of food for the same period. Then he gave the thirsty chimp tokens which would buy only food, and the hungry brother tokens which would buy only water.

The wise chimps looked at their money, exchanged the tokens through cage bars, and went to the vending machines.

REPAINT the WOOD TRIM

When nature is in colorful array a weatherworn house looks badly by comparison. It needs a spring dress, too!

If you cannot see your way clear to repaint the entire house, at least repaint the wood trim—porches, cornices, eaves, window frames and sash, not overlooking guttering and down-spouting and other parts that show signs of decay.

This will freshen up your house surprisingly at a fraction of the cost of repainting the entire house.

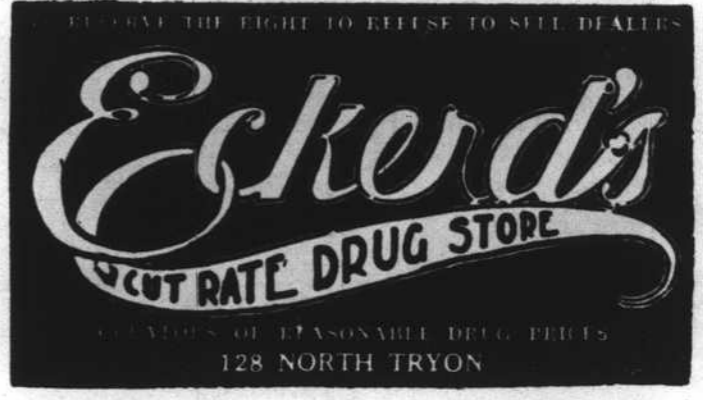

We shall be glad to estimate the cost of the materials needed and to suggest attractive color combinations.
