

NORRIS BUST TO BE UNVEILED AT NORRIS DAM IN TENNESSEE'S GREAT EVENT; KNOXVILLE READY

Miss Kathleen Wheeler, artist, before her bust of Senator George W. Norris, to be presented to the TVA and the people of the nation by the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor Council at Norris Dam, on Labor Day.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 21.—While the entire South is planning Labor Day programs of a magnitude never before undertaken, it is believed that the Knoxville celebration will eclipse all other cities in the matter of attendance and intense interest. A feature of Labor Day in Knoxville will be the presentation and unveiling of a bust of United States Senator George Norris "father of the TVA." The exercises will take place at Norris Dam, named for the Senator, where the bust will be placed in such position that people who visit the great dam can see the bust of Senator Norris from any approach. Many cities in the TVA region will send large delegations to participate in the exercises. The bust is Labor's gift to the TVA, as a mark of the high esteem in which the Nebraskan is held. Officers of several State Federations of Labor, City Central Labor Unions and Local Unions will take part in the event. Senator Norris will be guest of honor at the occasion, and many notables in the United States government and in governments of the seven states traversed by the TVA, will attend. Marion Hedges, head of the research department of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who is the originator of the idea of placing the Norris Dam, will be present when the bust is unveiled and presented to the TVA.

President C. A. Fink, of Spencer, president of the N. C. State Federation of Labor, was a Charlotte visitor Saturday afternoon on his way home after winding up the affairs of the state meet at Raleigh. He called upon Secretary Wm. Green, of Charlotte Central Labor Union, but The Journal editor missed him. Mr. Fink is optimistic as to the outlook of the labor movement in the State and believes that the few National troubles we are having in the ranks of labor will clear themselves up. Brother Fink is serving his third term as head of the state body, and has made a faithful servant in every sense of the word.

Macaroni Has Interesting Origin

Macaroni Ka-bobs—Appetizing Mounds of Macaroni, Topped With Hot Cheese Sauce And Sliced Olive And Served On Broiled Slices of Onions And Tomatoes

Price, flavor, and nutritive value are often considered when modern home-makers discuss foods, but one topic of food information, the early history, is neglected. Yet there is much of interest here. Let's look, for example, at the Macaroni family, including spaghetti and egg noodles—frequent table visitors during Lent.

While the Italians during the Middle Ages popularized macaroni and spaghetti and preserved the secret of modern macaroni making, this food in one of its many familiar forms was also used in the Orient for centuries. Marco Polo is given credit for introducing the idea of macaroni making to the Italians.

China claims that in an early age, a woman was making bread, which according to the custom of that period, was baked on hot stones. While she was mixing the dough under a tree, some leaves fell into the mixture. To remove them, she forced the dough through a sieve, and as the dough came through in strands, she thought of drying the strands in the sun instead of baking them. This, according to the Chinese, was the beginning of macaroni making.

At first, it was made by hand. Not considered a staple, it was sold in apothecary shops, being recommended chiefly for infants and invalids. The first mechanical process for making macaroni was perfected in 1800.

It was 1870 before large-scale production became established. It did not assume any appreciable commercial importance until 1900, and not until after the World War did it gain a sufficiently strong position to meet foreign competition. The growth of this industry during the past 20 years has been phenomenal. Today, the exports of Macaroni from America far exceed the imports.

Macaroni products are generally served with some highly flavored sauce, easily prepared in your home or readily available in prepared form at your neighborhood store. These commercial or prepared sauces, store easily and are a wise addition to your reserve shelf along with a good supply of the macaroni family.

For those who observe Lent and have the problem of finding meat substitutes during this period, the following suggestions will provide exciting adventures in cookery. Homemakers will also find them welcome throughout the year as appropriate dishes to add variety and pleasure to the daily meals.

Macaroni Ka-bobs

1/4 lb. Elbow macaroni 3 large tomatoes
2 eggs slightly beaten 4 tbl. butter
1 large sweet spanish 2 cups cheese sauce
onion Salt and pepper to taste
Cook the elbow macaroni in boiling salted water until tender and drain. Add one tbl. butter. Then arrange in well buttered baking cups. Pour over each cup 1 or 2 tbl. of the beaten egg mixture or divide the egg mixture equally between the macaroni cups. Place in moderate oven for about 15 minutes or just long enough for the egg mixture to cook. While the macaroni cups are baking, broil slices of tomato and onion using the remaining butter for topping on these. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Arrange broiled onion and tomato slices with macaroni mounds on each and serve with slices of steamed olive.

Spanish Noodle Casserole With Peas

1 1/2 packages of egg per diod noodle
4 tbl. butter 3 tomatoes diced
1 medium onion sliced Salt and pepper to taste
1 medium green pepper
Cook the noodles in boiling salted water until tender, drain. Combine with a sauce made by cooking the other ingredients in the butter until tender. Place all in a casserole and bake 1/2 hour at 350°.
