

OBSERVER I. T. U. CHAPEL DONATES TO FLAG FUND

The Observer chapel of the International Typographical Union last Saturday donated $9.73 to the School Flag fund of Hornets Nest Post of the American Legion and The Observer. The sponsors of this fund hope that by the closing of the campaign on October 15, they will have received $1,704, the amount necessary to place an American flag in each schoolroom in the city.

CITY ENGINEER AT WORK ON PLANS TO ENLARGE CHARLOTTE'S AIRPORT

City engineers are working night and day to complete plans for improvements at the municipal airport in order to clear the way as soon as possible for the housing of two important army air corps groups that will be stationed there, it was announced Saturday by Mayor Ben E. Douglas.

WAGE-HOUR ADM. RULES ON HOURS OF REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The wage-hour administration said yesterday that any work week, starting before midnight, October 23, could continue for 42 hours without payment of overtime.

Under the wage-hour law, the maximum work week without overtime pay is to be reduced from 42 to 40 hours after October 23.

Col. Philip Fleming, wage-hour administrator, said he interpreted the law to mean the new restriction applied to "the first full work week beginning on or after midnight, October 23."

Under this construction, he explained, the restriction would not apply to a work week beginning Monday, October 21.

The present minimum pay of 30 cents an hour will remain unchanged when the hours maximum is reduced.

Workers Return To Work At The Pacific Mills

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 8.—Between 600 and 700 Pacific Mills employees, who have been idle for the last three weeks, returned to work Monday morning when the Granby plant resumed operations. General Superintendent W. P. Hamrick announced today that Pacific's other mills, Olympia, Capital City, and Richland, would be opened "shortly."

The plants have been idle since a small number of workers protested a new system of work-load assignments.

HITLER'S NIGHTMARE

[The following poem appeared in the Iron Molders Journal, having been sent in by Los Angeles Women's Auxiliary of that craft, and is by Evelyn Hall, of that auxiliary.]

I have taken their money,
I have taken their bread,
Even the roofs right over their heads.
I shall never rest, I shall never sleep,
Though I dine and drink wine,
It's all with fake glee—
My victims march in front of me.

Here they come, one by one—
Mother's fathers, daughters, sons,
Oh, God, where will I run?
Distorted mind, oh, let me be,
Oh, let me be!
My victories—what have they cost me?
My victims will forever
March in front of me.

THE LABOR PRESS

The labor press is a sentinel on guard for the cause of mankind. Every possible effort should be given in order that your publication may be strengthened for still greater work which lies ahead.

Your labor press renders an incalculable service to those who work. We cannot too strongly urge our fellow workers and friends to give loyal and tangible support. No greater avenue of education is available to the trade union movement than your labor press. The community which supports its Union paper reflects that co-operation through better, more effective local unions, councils and central bodies.
