WAGE-HOUR INSPECTION ORDERED TO CHECK ON CHRISTMAS CHILD LABOR STANDARDS ACT VIOLATION

Approach of the Christmas holidays with an attendant suspension in school activities brought a warning today from Colonel Philip B. Fleming, Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, and Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, Chief of Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, that inspectors of the Division and the Bureau will be on the alert for any evidence of violation of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. "The Wage and Hour Division is cooperating closely with the Children's Bureau in seeing that provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act dealing with child labor are strictly enforced," Colonel Fleming said. "Inspectors are instructed to observe closely anything resembling a violation of the child labor law. Employers may be planning to use the services of young persons during the Christmas vacation period. If so, they should be familiar with general provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act concerning oppressive child labor, which prohibit the shipment of delivery for shipment in interstate commerce of goods produced in establishments in which children had been employed contrary to the child labor provisions of the Act."

Briefly, the Act sets a basic minimum age of 16 years for employment in interstate industries. The Act makes provision for an 18-year minimum age in occupations found and declared by the Chief of the Children's Bureau to be especially hazardous to young workers under 18 years of age. To date orders have been issued establishing a minimum age of 18 in the manufacture of explosives, in the operation of motor vehicles or as helpers on motor vehicles, and in coal mines (except slate picking, repair, maintenance or office work on the surface).

The Act permits the employment of children 14 and 15 in other than manufacturing or mining operations provided such employment does not interfere with school attendance and is carried on in accordance with regulations of the Children's Bureau. The child labor provisions do not apply to a young worker employed in agriculture while not legally required to attend school; if he is under 16 and employed by his parents, or persons standing for his parents, in occupations other than manufacturing or mining; or if he is employed as an actor in motion pictures or theatrical productions.

Employers interested in this phase of the Fair Labor Standards Act who are not familiar with the general provisions regarding child labor or regulations of the Children's Bureau may obtain such information from the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, or from the nearest regional headquarters of the Wage and Hour Division.

NOTICE

All Project Wage Employees: It is your responsibility to take advantage of all opportunities for private and public employment. You are required to accept bona fide offers of private or public employment, whether of a permanent or temporary nature, in accordance with section 16 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1941, provided:

1. You are capable of performing such work.

2. The wage for such employment is not less than the prevailing wage for such work in the community where you reside.

3. Such employment is not in conflict with established union relationships.

4. Such employment provides reasonable working conditions. It is, therefore, important that you make every effort to obtain such employment. Seek employment with employers in your community. Advise the local employment office of the State Employment Service about your work experience with the Works Projects Administration and on other jobs. Ask the local employment office to refer you to available jobs for which you qualify.

If you leave WPA employment for private or public employment, and lose such employment, you are entitled to reassignment on a WPA project, provided: (1) you lose the job through no fault of your own, (2) you are still in need, and (3) you have drawn all unemployment compensation benefits available to you. If you do not accept such offers

HOW MANY COATS
Artist: "I'll give you five dollars if you'll let me paint you."

Old Mountaineer (shifting his tobacco from one cheek to the other and back again): "I dunno."

Artist: "It's easy money."

Old Mountaineer: "There ain't no question about that. I was just wondering how I'd get the paint off afterwards."

SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN
A deaf old lady went to live near one of the naval ports. Shortly afterwards a battleship fired a salute of 10 guns. The old lady, who lived alone, got out of her chair, smoothed down her dress, patted her hair and said sweetly: "Come in."
