

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES MEETING IS SCHEDULED FOR CHARLOTTE, JANUARY 24TH

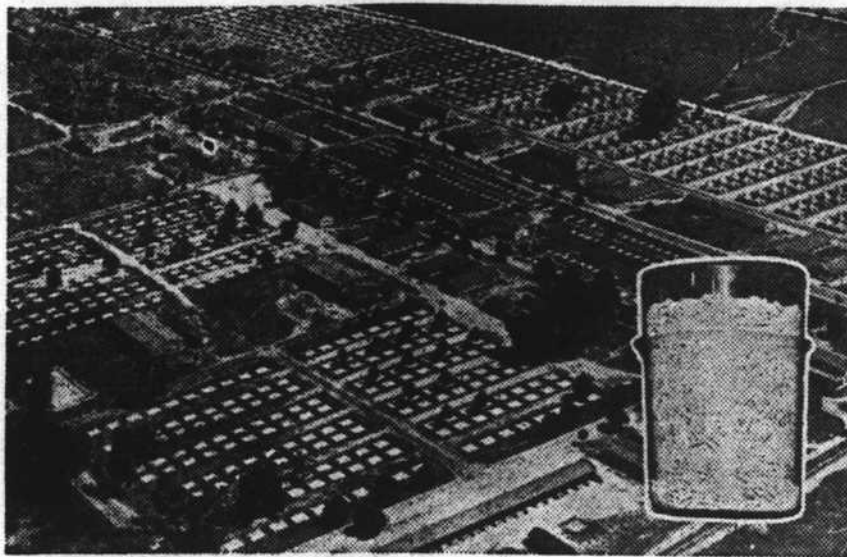

Several prominent printing trades officials will be in attendance at the meeting of the Allied Printing Trades of North Carolina on Sunday, January 24th at the Mecklenburg hotel. Woodruff Randolph, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union, and who is also secretary-treasurer of the International Printing Trades council, has accepted an invitation of the committees representing the Charlotte Allied Printing Trades to be present and address the meeting. John Haggerty, president of the Bookbinders' union, who is also president of the International Allied Printing Trades council, has been invited and it is hoped that his acceptance will be forthcoming soon.

The meeting of all the allied printing trades of North Carolina has been contemplated for several months and it was recently that the machinery was set in motion for this meeting, the purpose of which is to stimulate greater interest in the various problems of printing crafts in the state. Several allied councils are in existence in the state and it is thought that several more can be formed at the meeting here.

Invitations are also being sent out to many international union officials and no doubt some of these may find it possible to accept. Hugh M. Sykes and Henry A. Stalls are in charge of making arrangements for out-of-town delegates to attend the meeting and they are busy mailing out invitations and other literature in connection therewith. Ray C. Nixon is chairman of the local committee of the Charlotte Allied Council and reports that more than a hundred printers, pressmen, stereotypers, photo-engravers, mailers and bookbinders have signified their intention to be in attendance. Tickets for the banquet will go on sale within a day or so and the cost per plate will be reasonable, it is said. The allied committees hope that all members of the printing trades will attend, and that they will be accompanied by their wives and sweethearts.

From Fishbowl to Army Camp

A construction race rivaling those of World war days will end December 1 when the vast Fort Dix, N. J., training camp is completed. Drafts whose numbers were drawn from the fish bowl (inset) will find Fort Dix ready for them after that date. The camp will have facilities for 22,000 officers and men. Many were trained at this site during the World war.

WHO'S WHO IN UNIONS

HARRY STEVENSON

HARRY STEVENSON

Harry Stevenson, President of the International Molders' Union of North America, started his career as a Trades Unionist in 1902 when he joined Local No. 40, Newark, New Jersey. His diligent work and organizing ability were soon recognized and he has served in many capacities in the New Jersey Labor movement.

Mr. Stevenson has been active in the Labor Union movement for nearly forty years. He was a delegate to the New York Conference Board from Local Union No. 40. He also represented his Local in the Central Labor Union as well as the State Federation of Labor.

He was elected as a delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention in 1919 and has attended every convention since that time.

Mr. Stevenson has succeeded in reaching a mutual understanding regarding wages, hours, and working conditions in the industry, which has given him great prestige among Labor leaders and employers alike.

His address is: Mr. Harry Stevenson, President, International Molders' Union of North America, Lock Box 688, Cincinnati, Ohio.

MOLDERS' UNION LABEL

The International Molders' Union of North America adopted its Union Label in 1890.

The Union was organized in Philadelphia July 5, 1859, and is one of the most inspiring pages of organized Labor's records.

The Molders' Union Label is a casted plate in brass which is affixed to the castings.

For further information regarding Union Labels, Shop Cards and Service Buttons, write Mr. J. M. Orburn, Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department, American Federation of Labor Building, Washington, D. C.
