AFL Will Renew Efforts Against Labor's Enemies

Cleveland, O.—After delivering a blistering indictment against the record of the 79th Congress, AFL President William Green warned that the American Federation of Labor will intensify its political efforts this fall to defeat labor's enemies in Congress and elect its friends.

In an address before the Ohio State Federation of Labor convention here, Mr. Green called upon local and State branches to cooperate in the campaign by "getting voters to register and go to the polls."

"One thing is certain," he said. "The AFL will not depart from its non-partisan political policy. The record made by Congress demonstrates the wisdom of this course, for we found friends in both the Democratic and Republican camps and enemies in both, as well. We cannot judge candidates by their political labels. It is how they voted when the major tests came that must be our standard for endorsement or rejection."

"The ultimate responsibility for the kind of Congress which passes the laws for our country does not rest upon the members of Congress themselves, but with the people of this country who elect them. It is, therefore, up to us to make democracy work by electing honest and liberal representatives."

"For our own welfare and the welfare of the nation, the American Federation of Labor calls upon every one of our seven million members and their families and friends to go to the polls on election day and vote for candidates with good records so that the 80th Congress will be a big improvement over the 79th."

In his attack on the outgoing Congress Mr. Green said:

"I charge here—and I will prove it by the record—that the present Congress has failed to respond to the needs of the American people.

"I charge that reactionary forces in Congress have deliberately defied the will of the American people and ignored their welfare."

"I charge that members of Congress have succumbed to high-pressure lobbies and surrendered to special interests."

"I charge that this Congress has flatly failed to make democracy work!"

Citing the "shameful record," to support his charges, Mr. Green first took up OPA legislation. He said:

"On this issue of price control, which is vital to every American family, Congress disgraced itself. Log-rolling went on in the Senate openly and shamelessly. That means, one Senator from a cattle-raising state would go to a Senator from an oil-producing state and say: 'I'll vote to end price controls on gasoline, if you will vote to end controls on meat.' That sort of trading at the expense of the American people is a nefarious practice. It is not in the American tradition. Its purpose is to victimize the great majority of the American people for the enrichment of a few."

"The record of Congress on other important legislation which received less public attention than OPA, is even worse.

"When the war ended, the President called for legislation to supplement inadequate unemployment insurance benefits provided for by the several states. This has not been enacted. The President asked amendments to the Social Security Act to broaden the coverage and increase the benefits. This was not done. The President called for the retention of the U. S. Employment Service in the federal government, at least during the transition. This was refused. The President urged the adoption of a comprehensive health and medical care program. Congress failed to enact such a program. The President requested amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act to increase substantially the level of minimum wages. This proposal has been laid aside. The President urged the adoption of a permanent long-range housing program to bring decent housing within the reach of families of all incomes. At the eleventh hour before the recess the House of Representatives has not yet voted on this vital legislation. The President requested the establishment of a Permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission. That request went unheeded. The President recommended the enactment of an effective Full Employment bill. Instead, Congress approved a bill which falls dismally short of its purpose.

This is only part of the objectionable record. Besides its many errors of omission, Congress has committed serious errors of commission.

"During the session, both Houses of Congress approved the Case Bill which can only be described as the worst piece of anti-labor legislation ever adopted by Congress. Fortunately, the President vetoed it and the workers of America were spared from its disastrous effects. But two other anti-labor bills became law, one aimed directly at the Musicians Union and the other at the Teamsters Union.

"The members of Congress will be required to go before the people of the United States this November if they seek re-election. Through the democratic process of the free ballot, the electorate will decide what they think of their representatives in Congress. The election involves every member of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate.

"Here is the opportunity of the American people to assert themselves. If they want to be well represented, it is their duty to examine the voting records of the candidates and to exercise good judgment."
