

AN OLD FAKE

The Scripps - Howard papers have revived a hoary old fake about unemployment insurance. It says that the balance in the hands of Uncle Sam totals $8,400,000,000. Then this bit of "Poison" is dropped in:

"Trouble is that Uncle Sam has spent the money, replacing it with his bonds."

Apparently the idea is to scare those who, looking into the future, believe that some day they may be compelled to take advantage of unemployment benefits. As a matter of fact, there is no reason to be alarmed. Uncle Sam is taking it—Exchange.

good care of the unemployment insurance surplus. True, he has invested it in government bonds. He has done that because government bonds happen to be the best investment in the world.

If the time should come when Uncle Sam can't make good on his bonds, unemployment insurance would not be much good to American workers, because the republic would be shot to pieces.

That day is not in sight and Uncle Sam has a big fund on hand to relieve unemployment. Let's hope we never need it, but it's nice to know it's there if we should need it.—Exchange.

There is one sin greatly condemned in the Bible, which you almost never hear preached against. It is the sin of flattery, and how largely it is practiced these days. Some flatter with no malicious intent. They desire popularity and want people to like them, so they cultivate the habit of saying that which will please the hearer without regard to its truth. Or they have read some popular book on psychology, which tells them that the way to make friends is to flatter, and they put into practice this advice with never a thought that they are being dishonest.

Others flatter for more malicious reasons. Politicians have discovered that the surest way to cause an opponent to make a fool of himself is to flatter him into doing something which in an uninflated state of mind he would have better judgement than to attempt. Others indulge in flattery to get something from the object of their flattery. They are like the fox in the fable who flattered the crow on his beautiful voice. When the crow, full of vanity, opened his beak to sing, he dropped the piece of cheese he was holding, and the fox gobbled it up.

Some people flatter for sheer cowardice. They lack the courage to speak the truth. They will say what another expects of them rather than what they know to be so. There are preachers who are guilty here instead of preaching against the sins of unregenerate human hearts. They flatter their hearers with smooth sounding messages on the greatness of the human race. Sinners lost and undone feel no conviction as they sit under their ministry, but go out full of a self-satisfaction to continue in their sin. They are trapped and pinioned in a net of smooth words when if they had been told the truth about themselves and their own sinful condition and pointed to the Lord Jesus, they should have found in truth and in Him who is the Truth, freedom from the chains of sin. Truly, "a man that flattereth his neighbor spreadeth a net for his feet" (Proverbs 29:5). There is no flattering of the Adamic nature and of sinners in God's Word. Unregenerate men hate and despise the Word of God because it tells them the truth about themselves. Men prefer flattery, but it is only in the truth that freedom is found.

Polio Precautions

A good health rule for parents to impress upon children in infantile paralysis epidemic areas is to avoid crowds and places where close contact with other persons is likely.

AFL AUTO WORKERS LOCAL WINS 15-CENT WAGE HIKE

Chicago.—Just six weeks after organizing the plant, Local 286 of the AFL's United Automobile Workers of America reported the signing of a contract with the National Video Corporation.

Heading the long list of gains is a straight 15-cents-an-hour wage increase for all employees. Other provisions of the initial pact include paid holidays, liberal paid vacations, a health and accident insurance plan, and an unusually fine grievance procedure. The contract also includes many other features.
