McCombs Adopts Revised Wage-Hour Law Record-Keeping, Effective June 19, 1950

Adoption of revised record-keeping regulations under the Fair Labor Standards Act — the Federal Wage-Hour Law — was announced today.

Effective June 19, the revisions relate the regulations to new and revised provisions of the Act as amended by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949, which took effect January 25.

In making this announcement, Wm. R. McComb, Administrator of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, informed Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin that the revised regulations are as proposed in a formal announcement April 15. No basis for altering his original proposal was presented during a 15-day period provided for comment by interested persons.

McComb pointed out that, as stated in his proposal notice, over-all revisions of the regulations is planned at a later date, when comment will be invited on that basis.

Formal notice of the adoption action today and the June 19 effective date, together with text of the revised regulations, is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register May 20, as Part 516 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

The revisions make no change with respect to the fact that the regulations require no particular order or form of records. There also is no change in the requirements that some records must be preserved for three years, and some for only two years.

For convenience in their use, the regulations have been arranged into two subparts. Subpart A contains requirements for those employers with employees subject to miscellaneous exemptions in the law.

N. C. Department Of Motor Vehicles

RALEIGH, N. C.—Motor vehicles needing mechanical repairs were involved in seven per cent of all fatal accidents in North Carolina last year, the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles pointed out today.

In other words, in 47 accidents last year, in which one or more persons lost their lives, an unsafe car was involved. The Department used the figures to stress the necessity of keeping motor vehicles in good repair in connection with its May safety campaign on "Check your car—check accidents."

The Department listed brakes, lights, and tires as the most commonly neglected points on the average car. Other parts needing careful periodic checks are steering mechanism, windshield wipers, horn, window glass, muffler and tail and stop lights.

Defective brakes figured in 16 fatal accidents last year. A headlight was out in one fatal crash and both were out in four. Vehicles with no rear light were involved with two fatal accidents, while vehicles with other light or reflector deficiencies were in six. Defective steering mechanisms were listed as the cause of three fatal wrecks. Bad tires caused seven fatal accidents and other defects accounted for eight.

To make the May safety campaign a success, motorists must be convinced that keeping their cars in the best condition possible is as important to them and their loved ones as having frequent medical check-ups, the Department pointed out.
