Do-Nothing Congress Irking U. S. Workers

BOSTON.—"American workers have become thoroughly fed-up with the present do-nothing Congress and the AFL will do everything in its power to bring out a full vote and spread far and wide the reprehensible voting records of the members," said the AFL Executive Council in session here.

"A case in point," continued the council statement, "is the extension of emergency economic controls. The Defense Production Act, which authorizes price and wage controls, expires on June 30." It is obvious to the great majority of the American people that price controls need strengthening and tightening. Despite ample supplies of consumer goods, retail prices are still at record-breaking levels and threaten to go still higher.

Has Done Nothing
"Yet Congress has done nothing. It has deliberately stalled for more than four months. Reports from Capitol Hill indicate that Congress will wait till the last moment and then vote to continue controls for another year in weakened form.

"That would be a major concession to the big business interests of the nation. They want to abolish price controls altogether. The politicians on Congress fear such drastic action would be dangerous in an election year. So they are planning to accomplish the same purpose by making price controls still more ineffective.

"A year ago, Congress adopted a series of amendments to the Defense Production Act which seriously handicapped the price control program. One of these special interest actions, known as the Capehart Amendment has cost consumers a billion dollars already, according to official estimates. If a recent court ruling is upheld, the Capehart Amendment will be applied at the retail level, as well as to wholesalers, and prices will be forced still higher."

The Executive Council urged Congress to take these facts into consideration and face up to the grim realities of inflation in the public interest.

The patience of the public, the patience of the working men and women of this country, is not inexhaustible.

ference session up until 10 years ago when he retired as secretary, but that his heart had always been with the conference and his wishes will ever be for its continued growth.

E. M. Hathaway of Richmond was re-elected president for the fourth year; A. L. McCorquodale of Hampton, Va., was named vice president, and O. N. Burgess of Charlotte, was re-elected secretary - treasurer. Durham will entertain the 1953 meeting.

Price controls were suspended by the OPS on raw cotton and practically all textiles, including those made of wood, cotton, and synthetic fibers. All have been selling far below ceiling. Officials said this will not probably affect retail prices for the fabrics.

Silver Jubilee Celebration In City Of Conference's Birth Attracts Hundreds Of Visitors

The 1952 Silver Jubilee celebration of the Virginia-Carolinas, District of Columbia, Maryland and Tennessee Typographical Conference, held Saturday and Sunday, May 24 and 25, in Charlotte was a grand success, officers and delegates reported at the closing session Sunday afternoon. The Sunday afternoon session was in the form of a banquet in the large ball room at Hotel Charlotte, during which time Vice President Harold Clark of the International Typographical Union delivered the main address of the convention. John P. White, a 53-year-old member of the International Typographical Union, was toastmaster for the occasion.

Honor guests of the banquet meeting were as follows: Thomas L. Robinson, publisher of The Charlotte News; J. E. Dowd, general manager of the News; Harry A. Allen, business manager of The Charlotte Observer, who spoke for Ralph Nicholson, Observer publisher, who was unable to be present due to illness; C. A. Fink, president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor; Jord H. Jordan, of the Herald Press of Charlotte, and Giles C. Courtney, first conference secretary of Richmond, Va. Each honor guest was introduced and made appropriate talks for the occasion. Mayor Victor Shaw also was an honor guest, but was unable to be present for the banquet due to other engagements, as was also Hubert E. Olive, candidate for Governor of North Carolina. Both, however, appeared at the opening and during the business session of the conference and made talks to the delegates.

Both Charlotte newspapers were well represented from the management side by Messrs. Robinson, Dowd and Allen and they expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the grand showing of the convention and the progress union printers and their families have made during the life of the conference.

Giles Courtney, one of the founders of the conference, who resides in Richmond, made a splendid talk to the delegates and visitors, telling them that it had been his pleasure to attend every conference session up until 10 years ago when he retired as secretary, but that his heart had always been with the conference and his wishes will ever be for its continued growth.

Price controls were suspended by the OPS on raw cotton and practically all textiles, including those made of wood, cotton, and synthetic fibers. All have been selling far below ceiling. Officials said this will not probably affect retail prices for the fabrics.
