PROOF OF MERIT.

READ WHAT EMINENT DOCTORS HAVE TO SAY.

Cures Diseases of the Liver.
I have used your vegetable preparation, Nolandine, and find it a valuable agent in the treatment of functional diseases of the liver. Its action on that organ and selecting glands is equal to that of calomel and, to my mind, the only yet discovered substitute for this time-honored remedy.
It is, furthermore, entirely free from constitutional effects too often observed from the use of mercurials; and in many cases where mercurials have been incautiously administered, I have witnessed the beneficial results of Nolandine in eliminating and modifying the most distressing after symptoms.

I cheerfully recommend a trial of Nolandine to the profession, believing that it will stand their test. Very truly yours, A. TREAT CLARKE, M. D.

Cures Dropsy of the Chest and Abdomen.
The very high character of the testimonials attesting the merits of your vegetable preparation, Nolandine, induced me to make a test of your Nolandine proper in a very desperate case of Hydrothorax (dropsy of the chest), combined with Ascites (dropsy of abdomen). The usual remedies known to our profession had been most skillfully administered without producing anticipated effects. The diseases yielded to the action of your Nolandine. I very gratefully state that my patient is now enjoying the blessings of a restoration to good health and now, four months since administering of your Nolandine, there is not a symptom of recurrence.
I know that I will incur the displeasure of the profession by departing from its usages, but candor and facts compel me to call the attention of my professional brethren to the valuable properties of your preparation and trust that prejudice will not deter them from its use.
I have found the action of our Nolandine on the liver and secretions more than equal to calomel, which is an additional recommendation. Ver. respectfully, A. G. JONES, M. D.

A General Tonic and Blood Purifier.
J. W. Johnston, Proprietor of Nolandine, Richmond, Va., has for the last twelve months I have had frequent opportunities of testing the curative properties of your Vegetable Nolandine in the following diseases, and in not a single case did it fail to accomplish that you claim for it:—Dyspepsia and other catarrhal affections of the stomach and bowels, catarrhal affections of the kidneys and bladder, uterine catarrh and irregularities, malarial complications and habitual constipation; and as a general tonic and alterative I have found it very efficacious. Yours truly, JAS. A. GARLICK, M. D.

Kind Words from some of our lady friends.
Mr. J. W. Johnston—Sir: I take pleasure in endorsing the above letter I send you from Mrs. Laroche. I want you to see how much good your medicine did how you so kindly gave me last summer for this poor family. I went to see them a number of times and found them in a deplorable condition. Mr. Laroche had to take five bottles of Nolandine before he began to improve; he then went steady-ly on until entirely restored to health. I have used Nolandine myself and members of my family have used it; in every instance we have been greatly benefited by its use. I have distributed all all you so kindly gave me for the poor and have yet in hand the first one they were not benefitted by its use. I am, very respectfully, Mrs. M. F. BAKER, President Ladies' City Mission, Richmond, Va.

[Below is an exact copy of Mrs. Laroche's letter. The woman, her heart filled with gratitude for all the good Nolandine did her family, named her home in California "Nolandine"] Nolandine, California, February 1st.
Dear good kind lady, I take my pen in my hand to write you a few lines to tell you how we are getting along you know how bad of us all was when you gave us that Nolandine well my husband took all them bottles and got well and etc all you fetch him you know he was most dead and you saved his life and them too children you give them all bottles of Nolandine the is big and fat boys all them sores is well my old man is doing smart, he don't get a fine farm and makes a good living and has good health Nolandine saved his life and them too children we call our home Nolandine because it saved my old man life and the children's life too. We pray for you and good man who made Nolandine every nite and morning and hope you will bless you both and hope we will meet in heaven there are none of us willing to be here without Nolandine and a heap of people here never herd of it afore we told them about it now they like it like we does and get it by the dozen dear good madam you has made a well man of him and them too children and god bless you for that it takes me a week to write so much this is first letter I have writ for high on fore year you is only one I would like to if you don't mean me few lines and thank that god man for given us that Nolandine were save my old man and them too boys who is well and hearty. your devoted friend, Sarah Ann Laroche.

J. W. Johnston—I feel it but just to recommend your valuable medicine, Nolandine, for any trouble caused by torpid liver, or constipation produced by morphine or any drug used to subdue pain. As a tonic for delicate females it is unsurpassed.
The above you are heartily welcome to use in any way you deem best, and I will personally tell any one what it will do on application. Respectfully, Mrs. A. E. ANTHONY.

Mr. Jos. W. Johnston—Dear Sir: I have used your Nolandine and would cheerfully recommend it as a valuable medicine for malarial diseases and for promoting appetite, and a splendid tonic. For the relief of the pains consequent upon female weakness and irregularities I consider it without an equal. Respectfully, Mrs. L. M. BELL.

Brown Hands.
(New Haven News.)
Those who toil bravely are strongest;
The humble and poor become great;
And from those brown-handed children Shall grow mighty rulers of State.

The Comfort of Ugliness.

Give men or women minds big enough and they will not think of and the world will not worry itself about their faces, though they may be as plain as Charlotte Cushman, as rugged as Ralph Waldo Emerson, as ugly as George Eliot. Poor, little misshapen Pope said: "The mind's the standard of the man," and the world said "Amen!" He had the mind. It is useless arguing with a young girl that beauty is not a blessing. It is in her nature to want to be pleasing and admired. She sees roses loved and worn because they are beautiful, and she would be of them and with them in the rose leaf longing times of her spring in the world. Homely girls have sat up nights to cry and thinking of fairer faces that have been more courted because fairer, have fallen asleep on pillows wet with tears that have come from kindly eyes, and dropped from homely cheeks in sympathy.
Tell them that beauty is only skin deep, and that it brings unhappiness, and they will still sob: "Give me the beauty." It is like telling a poor, tired, overworked man that "great wealth only brings misery." He will still wish to take the chances on a little wealth. But all the same there is lots of comfort for the homely.
They can be good and wise and having much time away from their mirrors and their flatterers, can think and do great things.

First Class.

Some persons seem foolishly to imagine that wealth entitles them to privileges not accorded to the general public, and exempts them from obligations and rules to which others are expected to conform.

The New York-Ledger reports an incident which occurred on one of our ocean steamers, and which conveys a wholesome lesson to all pursued ignorers of the rights of the majority.

A family of unlimited wealth had secured the best accommodations the steamer afforded. The gentleman and his wife kept themselves secluded the most of the time, but the children were allowed to run wild over the steamer until they became such intolerable nuisances that the captain was spoken to, and he gave the youngsters a severe reprimand.

This roused the indignation of the mother, who remarked to the captain that, as she paid first class fare, she thought she was entitled to first-class privileges.

"Madam," said the captain, "first-class fare means first-class conduct."

There was no further protest.

AUSTIN, TEX., August 24th, 1887.
This is to certify that my son Fred has been troubled with catarrh for the past two years, and after using William Radam's Microbe Killer three weeks, I think he is entirely cured. I can see no bad effects of it upon my son. J. C. PETERNEY.

SCOTLAND NECK
—AND—
THE RICH LANDS OF THE ROANOKE.

GENERAL ADVANTAGES.

No. 3.

The Norfolk and Carolina railroad passing immediately through the Scotland Neck section adds very greatly to the value of the lands, as transportation facilities are all that could be desired.

The natural fertility of these lands can be greatly improved by the large quantities of the best marl under the surface. It has been estimated that with a proper system of diking and other improvements, the corn cobs raised on these lands would be sufficient to burn shells for making large quantities of burnt lime, and the shells could be shipped to these lands at a mere nominal cost.

While statistics given in a former paper show that the Roanoke lands produce cotton freely and in large quantities, yet these lands are more especially adapted to grain and grass crops, fruits and truck farming.
These lands have never been brought to their best state of cultivation, not even before the war when they were worked by slave labor. It is confidently believed by the most observant citizens of this section that within the next decade the capacity of these lands will be better known, and that before the first quarter of the 20th century has passed, Scotland Neck will be the richest section in North Carolina, and will not be surpassed by any like section in the South.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES.

Besides the great fertility of the lands, there are numerous other causes and influences which warrant the prediction and give the anticipation the appearance of a verity already realized.

From the first the people of the Scotland Neck region have been firm believers in the truths of Christianity, and have been very careful in the observance of the duties which it enjoins.

The leavening influences of the Baptist and Protestant Episcopal churches have been operating in the community since the colonial days; and these, together with the influences of the Presbyterian, Kehukee Baptist and Methodist Episcopal churches, have so shaped the moral and religious trend of the community that it is more widely known for its social, moral and religious advantages and influences than any place of like size in North Carolina.

The Baptist and Episcopal churches are in a flourishing condition; while the Methodist, Primitive Baptists and Presbyterians have a good influence in the community also.

Perhaps no place in the South has made more rapid strides in temperance reform within the last ten years than Scotland Neck. There is an independent temperance organization in the town known as "The Scotland Neck Temperance Association," which has done much to abate the sale and use of intoxicating liquors. It has been in operation just three years, and more than 400 persons have been enrolled on its list of members, and the entire section has been greatly benefited by its influence.

The educational advantages of Scotland Neck are as good as the best. In 1810 a school of high grade was organized and chartered under the name of "Vine Hill Academy," and has continued in successful operation ever since.

Some of the best educators of the State have had charge of it at different times, and men who have been eminent in all the professions received their academic training here.

The school is now in a highly prosperous condition under the management of Prof. W. C. Allen and F. P. Shields. Also the female academy of the same institution is in a flourishing condition, and is doing successful and praiseworthy work under the principalship of Miss Lena Smith and Eunice McDowell who have had charge of it for many years.

The health record of Scotland Neck cannot be surpassed by any section in North Carolina east of the Blue Ridge, and it is the opinion of the oldest inhabitants that no place in the State is more uniformly free from malaria and epidemic than this.

As was observed in the first number of this series, Scotland Neck is situated directly on the water-shed between the Roanoke and Tar rivers. At a point in Main street in the Northern part of the town the divide is so distinct that the water runs from that point North into the Roanoke and South into the Tar.

While the town is within seven miles of the river, it is singularly free from all malarial affections, and typhoid fever so common in the sections higher up in the State, is seldom known here to any fatal degree.

Being in the long leaf pine belt it is especially free from all lung troubles acute and chronic.

Pneumonia is extremely rare, and consumption is not common.

Scotland Neck being about 100 miles from the coast, and being on the water-shed before mentioned, is almost entirely free from some objections, in matters of health, of what is known as Eastern Carolina.

SOCIAL AND INTELLECTUAL.

The inhabitants are noted for their social, moral and intellectual superiority, and the stranger never comes and goes without breathing a benediction upon the beautiful town and the good people of Scotland Neck.
The prestige of this section, given it by its wealth before the war; the fabulous crops of its rich river lands; the intelligence and refinement of its people, from its earliest history to the present time; the energy of its business men now, and its unsurpassed record for its health and the sobriety of the people, warrant the prediction that within the next decade many who are seeking pleasant homes in a thriving locality, will turn their attention to this section; home capacity will be developed, and Scotland Neck will in a few years rank with the foremost sections of North Carolina in all that pertains to active enterprise in the trend of Southern progress.

Food for the Mind.

Have something for the mind to feed upon, something to look forward to and live for besides the round of daily labor or the counting of profit and loss. If you have not any talent for writing splendid works on political economy or social science, or the genius for creating a good story or a fine poem, the next best thing —and, in fact, almost as good a thing—is to possess an appreciation of these things. So have good books and good newspapers, and read them, if only in snatches, and talk about them at dinner time or by the evening fire.

Manners.

I make it a point of morality never to find fault with another for his manners. They may be awkward or graceful, blunt or polite, polished or rustic, I care not what they are, if the man means well and acts from honest intentions, without eccentricity or affectation. All men have not the advantages of "good society," as it is called, to school themselves in all its fantastic rules and ceremonies; and if there is any standard of manners, it is well founded on reason and good sense, and not upon these artificial regulations. Manners, like conversation, should be extemporaneous and not studied. I always suspect a man that meets me with the same perpetual smile on his face, the same bending of the body and the same premeditated shake of the hand. Give me the hearty—it may be rough—grip of the hand, the careless nod of recognition, and, when occasion requires, the homely but welcome salutation, "How are you, my old friend?"

DOES IT FIT YOU?

N. Y. Ledger.)

TIRED OUT (New York) writes: "I am depressed by wearisomeness of life. I have plenty of means, but take no interest in human affairs.
Everything is 'weary, flat, stale and unprofitable' to me. I get no pity from my friends, but only sneers and sarcasm. What is a man to do in such a case?" Answer: You deserve no pity in your maulin "wearisome-ness of life." You ought to be impressed on board a man-of-war and stirred up with a rope's end now and then. When a worn out snob says he is "weary of the world," he of course means the world which he lives and moves in and has never looked beyond. He fancies he has seen all that is to be seen; that there is nothing new under the sun; that all is "stale, flat and unprofitable." A pitiful fool that he is, life was never so fresh, so full of wholesome excitement, so pregnant with the wonderful as it is now. In the days of the patriarchs, when science was not, and men walked the earth and floated over the waters with eyes sealed to the innumerable uses and powers of the material universe around them, it might have been excusable to complain of the monotony of human existence. But now, when almost every day is marked by some startling discovery or invention, when natural philosophy is disclosing to us new heavens and a new earth, and every wonder revealed by scientific investigation points to grandeur yet to be developed, no man whose mind is not dead with in-him can say that life lacks interest.
We are just beginning to learn what the earth is made of, and the purposes of God in creating it and us. All things under the firmament and the orbs of the firmament itself are taking their true shapes, unfolding their true uses, through the exercise of those faculties which the Creator has given us for the solution of his solvable problems. Who but a fanciful creature with an intellect debased by grovelling pursuits and blinded by its own voluntary ignorance, can live in the midst of the ever-growing light of knowledge and call this a dull and wearisome world?

Are you sick? If so, you can be restored to perfect health if you use Radam's Microbe Killer. It purifies the blood thoroughly, and when that is done you are a well man. The success of the medicine is simply wonderful. For sale by E. T. White-
