It is said that $1,000 worth of gems has been stolen from the State's exhibit at Chicago. Thieves had a fat time of it during the fair, and they did not fail to make use of it.

PERIOD OF REVOLUTIONS.

Just at this time there seems to be indications of revolution in many countries, and there is actual revolution in some.

Brazil is struggling in the midst of a revolution that surpasses anything that has yet happened in that land of revolutions.

Hawaii is, too, in the midst of trouble. The revolution that was accomplished there a year ago by which Queen Liliuokalani was driven from her throne is now about to be reversed.

Cuba, also, is about to become the scene of another revolution. Rebelious bands are reported as mobilizing in various places in the island.

Away over in Africa the English government has had some trouble in suppressing an uprising among the Africans, and South Africa is thus contributing to the general disorder throughout the world.

In our own land a revolution will doubtless be accomplished within the next year or so. But the revolution that is needed here, and is devoutly to be wished for, will be accomplished by the mighty power of the ballot.

Mello and Peixotto can shoot at each other yonder on the other side of the equator; South African cannibals can pick the bones of their English enemies; the Cubans can fight; and the Mexicans can quarrel; but the people of the United States will follow no such examples.

NEWSPAPER FAULTS.

Very frequently we see among our exchanges an article that we consider of merit; and we clip it and put it among our selections with due credit to the paper that we got it from.

Sometimes we see the same article in another paper with no credit at all, and sometimes we see it credited to a different paper altogether.

We can't account for it on the score of ignorance, for we have been led to believe that the editors of the State are sensible men.

We are loath to account for it because of negligence, for we want to believe all editors are careful, painstaking men and would not be negligent about such an important affair.

Therefore we say that we can't account for it. Now the evils of this habit are not small. Any one can see them if he will just think for a moment.

No one has treated us that way that we know of. Therefore we are not a sore-head, writing because we feel unjustly treated.

AIM HIGH.

One of the saddest phases of the educational condition of the State, certainly of the east, is the fact that so many of our boys and young men have discarded the notion of higher education.

Several causes have been operating to bring about this state of affairs. Several things have tended to produce this indifference on the part of our young men.

This is a potent reason; but we don't believe it is the chief one. If we will look a little deeper, we will find a reason that is more potent, more damaging to the cause of higher education than that.

As soon as a young man has acquired education enough to get along, he gets the idea that he must be making something for himself.

It is a difficult task to convince them that the chief object of education is to elevate the race, and put them on a higher plain of usefulness.

It is disastrous for a young man to begin to get an education for the purpose of making money. That, of course, must come along as a natural consequence; but it should not be his purpose.

Education is invaluable. It cannot be measured in value by dollars and cents. The young man should not want to get a living's worth of it and stop at that.

CITY OF CHURCHES.

A TOWN OF WONDERFUL GROWTH.

Good Schools.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

A gentleman remarked to me a day or two ago that as Raleigh has been called the "City of Oaks," so some day, according to its progress on that line thus far, the town of Dunn may be called the "City of Churches."

Just seven years ago the first sound of the workman's axe was heard in felling the timbers in the great pine forest which has been almost wonderfully transformed into the beautiful and thriving town of Dunn.

Such, however, is the fact about Dunn. There are now a thousand people in the town and its streets present the daily appearance of a large and thriving business. There is no large manufactory, but the town has grown up and is still supported by the agricultural interests of what is generally termed in such cases "the back country."

Among other remarkable things about the town is the number of churches that have been erected and sustained. There are now seven handsome and comfortable churches in the town all of which were completed within four years after the first work was done towards building the town.

Dunn has also been alive to its educational interests. There are two handsome and commodious school-buildings in the town in both of which there has been a flourishing school until recently, when they combined and both schools are now under the management of Prof. D. B. Parker, assisted by Prof. W. C. Williams.

While there is no large manufactory in Dunn, Mr. J. A. McKay has recently commenced the manufactory of turpentine tools and he has already secured a large patronage South, and proposes to enlarge his business soon.

Altogether Dunn is a hustling town and its people are all that you mean when you say "clever."

I spent a night in the pleasant home of Mr. Eldridge Lee, who has an interesting family, and whose kindness and hospitality, together with that of his charming wife was all that one could wish.

I also spent a short while in the home of Mr. G. K. Grantham, editor of the Dunn Times, and the recollections of an hour spent with him and his accomplished wife are pleasant indeed.

Leaving Dunn I traveled in company with Mr. T. D. Stewart, a pleasant companion, a few miles to Buie's Creek academy, where a few years ago I spent some time in teaching what was then a common "old field school."

Mr. Campbell is principal of Buie's Creek Academy, which is a flourishing school, having grown up under his management and numbering on this year's catalogue nearly a hundred pupils.

I know of no community in North Carolina that has made more improvement within the past ten years than this, and it is almost all due to the efforts and energy of Mr. Campbell, who, besides doing a great work for his immediate community, is doing good work for his county as Superintendent of education for the county.

I find the people of this community very enthusiastic on the subject of education and there are many young men here who promise much for the community and county through their energy and efforts for upbuilding their communities.

STREAMBOATING FOR GOLD.

Getting Metal at the Rate of $100 a Day From the Bed of a River.

Helena Independent.

Extravagant stories are told about the wealth of gold sprinkled throughout the Snake river country in Idaho. As a general thing the gold is very fine the particles being of so light weight as to be elusive.

The bar now being worked covers an area of 10 to 15 acres. The gold is on top or close to the surface and will not pay to handle to a greater depth than 1 foot to 18 inches.

It is a stern wheel flatboat propelled by steam. Substantially constructed, 65 feet long and 22 feet wide, it is equipped with a 35 horsepower marine engine and boiler and adapted in every way for navigating Idaho's great waterway.

There are 48 of these receptacles on a belt 60 feet in length, and each has a capacity of about 20 pounds of dirt, which is delivered into a hopper. This is also an agitator, and the process employed may be described as a steam rocker, with the exception that it has an end motion instead of one sideways.

The gold is caught on copper plates with quicksilver. The tailings are carried off in sluice boxes by the force of a stream of water of 150 mineral inches, supplied by a China pump, run by the engine which drives all the other machinery.
