Points and Paragraphs of Things Present. Past and Future.

E. E. HILLIARD, Editor and Proprietor.

It has been announced that over 4,-000,000 spindles will curtail cotton yarn productions in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut during the remainder of July and August Many Southern mills will reduce production as much as 50 per cent. during this time. Canstant running of factories is one of the best ways to improve the times.

A hundred men from the various trades and industries of this country have started on a tour through South America to "spy out the land," and to see what opportunities to trade the land of our neighbors offers. This country is fast becoming a great manu facturing country and we need new fields in which to sell our goods. Ev ery one will hope that these men who have gone on their good mission may home.

The failures in the manufacture of bicycles have been very numerous of late. They have averaged almost one a day. Chicago has sustained mor loss by such failures, it is said, than any other place in the country. Thi is an evidence of how imprudently men sometimes rush headlong into what i not absolutely safe. With the great infatuation of "spinning a wheel" the manufacturers did not calculate wisely in their investments. Never swung a pendulum so far but that it swung back again.

Temperance people will rejoice to learn that all but half dozen of Ken tucky distilleries have agreed to shut down for 18 months, beginning the first of this month. All the warehouses are filled with whiskey. In these days of see-saw opinions there is much said about over-production and under con sumption. In the case of the whiskey distilleries shutting down in Kentucky it is to be hoped that the cause is truly under-consumption and that this state of affairs will continue.

The reading public remember Secre tary Carlisle's speech not long ago in Chicago on the financial question. The speech bristled with statistics by the column almost, but Mr. Carlisle spoke from memory, referring to his notes delivery. It has been set down as one of the remarkable feats of memory in this age. The speech made eight or ten columns of print and must have contained from fifteen to twenty thous and words; and the remarkable part was the accuracy with which the statis-

If any one thinks that this is a slow dull age, let him ponder the following from the Westminster Gazette:

"A trial was recently made in Austria to decide in how short a space of time living trees could be converted into newspapers. At Elsenthal, on April 17, at 7:35 in the morning, three trees were sawn down; at 9:34 the wood having been stripped of bark, cut up, and converted into pulp, became paper, and passed from the factory to the press, from whence the first printed and folded copy was issued at ten o'clock. So that in 145 minutes the tree had become newspapers."

AS SHE IS.

WOMAN'S SPHERE TO-DAY.

Some Things to Come.

Mecklenburg Girl in Charlotte Democrat.

Much is written, still more is said daily, of the "new woman." Prominent clergymen and statesmen have discussed the puzzling question of woman's rights," and newspapers publish lengthy articles on the same subject weekly; yet the problem remains unsolved. That woman is forging to the front in the struggle for daily bread, and that some, yea a great number, are clamoring for their rights in competition with man, is an undeniable fact. That they are acquiring a broader and more liberal education and are entering callings, and following pursuits, that fifty years ago our grand mothers never dreamed of being efficiently filled save by man, is another fact. For many centuries marriage has been considered the highest and most honorable relation existing between man and woman; so it remains to-day, but in earlier days a girl's highest ambition was to attain that end. Thus it followed, her education was directed mainly to obtain the object of her life, and then, to live an 'old maid" was to acknowledge that in the lottery of existence she had drawn a blank, in the battle of life hed met with defeat and failure. To-day it is different, many are entering into the different walks of life and filling positions of trust and honor without laying aside their modest dignity and purity. Women, as angels of light, are being sent into far heathen lands by our churches and by their gentle influences ause. Woman may be found around with her kind words and soothing touch, watching and waiting through long days and nights with submissive patience, smoothing the pain-contracted brow and calming the tevered pulse until it seems as if God had licensed ner to remove the sufferer's pain. Wom-manly professions as she is to-day pictured. That suffrage will be granted her some day can not be doubted but we are not ready for it yet. It will come gradually as almost every other great political change has.

Woman is not quite ready to abanhome, the home upon which the basis ot our republic, the sateguard of liberty, the highest ideals of social life are founded, and rush into the field of political aspirants and clamor for a seat in the presidential chair, or Senate hall. No devoted, consecrated christian mother is willing to leave the training of her children in other than her own faithful hands, nor does she want the time to hasten when one kitchen, one laundry, one nursery will serve a hundred homes as some seem to think she does. What is needed at the polls, is not more voters, but voters of higher intelligence and more sterling integrity. Voters whose minds are unprejudiced and liberally educated, who can distinguish between cause and effect; those who are willing and have the courage to probe social wrongs to the bottom and discover the underlying reasons for their existence; those who will stand undismayed facing opposition, following justice and truth wherver they may lead. The education and environments of woman in the past have'nt been such as to best fit her for these important trusts. but when the time does come for her to exercise the right of franchise both as a privilege and a duty she will be found cultivating reason, judgment, and courage, thus becoming a valued

There are two "dark days" mentioned in the annals of New England. The first occurred on Oct. 21, 1716, when it suddenly became so dark soon after noon that the people were forced to use artificial lights to do their ordinary work.
