Points and Paragraphs of Things Present, Past and Future.

The Raleigh Post has recertly given e pression to its great faith in some marked development for Harnett coun- always be recognized, but measurety in the near future. The editor of THE COMMONWEALTH halling from Harnett as his native county is always interested in whatever concerns the good people of that county. And whether or not there shall be found an oil supply in the county, as the Morning Post predicts, the county is desthrough the energy and persistent work of its people. We noticed in the last issue of the Dunn Banner mention a canning factory, a chair factory, a tannery, and perhaps some others. Where the people forge ahead like that there will be development, oil wells or no oil wells. But we hope the Post's oil prophecy will come true.

Our esteemed contemporary, The Scotland Neck Commonwealth, has been misled into the statement that are very few idiots in either, and these some idiots are very dangerous and whether it were better to save an inpracticable to place insane persons, so that they occupy no space which could be better utilized. Our contemporary will pardon us for directing attention to ts unintentional misstatement. We do so because the error which it innocent y propagates is widespread and it is lestrable, in the interest of justice, to do what can be done in its correction -- Charlotte Observer Aug. 3rd.

The foregoing is accepted by our esteemed and able contemporary as correction to a slight mistake in a paragraph in these columns two or three weeks ago concerning inebriates and idiots in the State hospitals.

A friend who knows many things about the hospital at Morganton, writes us the following facts:

"Before the inibriate law of 1891 w. . passed many patients were committed as meane at the hospital there when they were crazy from drink. There of small quantities of alcohol daily .was no way to prevent it. Dr. Murphy and the directors asked that a law be made to forbid inebriates admission to ggists refund the money it it fails any ward except that set apart for private are. E. W. Grove's signature is on patients, and that they be required to pay for the treatment. The whole purpose of this was to keep inebriates out of the hospital. To a good exent it has been successful.

"Since the passage of the law in 1891 bout fifty men have been treated at Morganton in the private ward and for pay. Five were there during the past twelve months. At present there is not a single one in the hespital."

THE COMMONWEALTH is glad to set the matter straight thus by an editorial paragraph of the Charlotte Observer | cohol." as well as by the quotation from our fackets and General Scroll friend's letter. Had we at first said "some" patients instead of saying of four national purity organizations "many" patients had been having headquarters respectively in inebriates and idiots we would have been more nearly correct. Our slight error was the result of an impression we got from an article in the Raleigh

The fact becomes more and more prominent that the continuous use of spirits, even in small quantities, is followed by dementia. This may not ment of the senses and functional activities by instruments of precision uniformly indicates depression, diminished and lowered vitality. The heart's action is changed, the nutrition and assimilation is disturbed, and the operations of the mind show a wide deviation from the normal state. Where there is hereditary predisposition to use spirits, or the person is a psychopath, or suffers from neurosis, inherited or acquired, dementined to make good development tia is a most natural sequel. The constant anaesthesia which follows from the use of alcohol, together with the chemical disturbances of assimilation and nutrition, after a time are followed by permanent organic of several new enterprises, among them changes. The action of alcohol on the heart can be traced, but its effeet on the nervous centers is more obscure. The steady drinker suffers from the toxins of alcohol and poison's which are produced by this agent circulating through the blood, which finally act on the nerve centers, producing, first, functional, then organic, disturbances, and finally extend to dementia. It is an error to rate of 6,000 and 65,000 kroner ($1,440 suppose that intoxication is the only indication of damage from alcohol. In reality, such toxic states are only is in central Europe, the latter in Norincidents from which recovery folmany of the inmates of the Stato hos- lows. In another, unusual parsimony or generosity indicates a change. Often these mental states appear prominent for some time before organic symptoms are apparent. While each case differs from others in a degree, there can be no doubt that a uniform, progressive degeneration follows in all instances where alcohol is used constantly. Illustrative examples are very numerous, and an occasional socalled exception in which the constant drinker appears to be free from organic disease has sometimes been found. Careful inquiry into these cases with measurements by instruments of precision reveal changes unmistakable. While dementia is the most common form of mental defect, in these cases, and death often follows from acute inflammation of the lungs or kidneys. A general paretic condition may exist in all the organs, while the higher brain functions show marks of dentatia. Recent studies

THE LITTLE CHILD.

Why He Was Selected by Christ to Exemplify to the World the True Life.

It has been said that "Jesus Christ discovered the child." And this is true In torrid weather wear clothing in its best sense. He left it for boastsuitable to a torrid climate—as light ful "psychologists" of a later age to with a dust of salt. Moisten the how many babies in 100 put their right between thin crustless slices o thumbs in their mouths and how many prefer their left, great toes; but Jesus Christ saw in the child those primal requisites of the spiritual nature upon which the happiness and the moral life of the world alike rest.

The one great question of all re ligions had been: What kind of life on earth is most approved by the heavenly powers? It was significantly when His disciples had been striving about questions of precedence that He "took a little child and set him in the When the outline of the lips is narrov midst of them" and said: "The greatest in the kingdom of Heaven is the one most like this.'

It was a reversal of the popular conception in a sentence. Man's concepperfections. The exposition of Jesus taught that God was sympathetic, forgiving, self-forgetful in His aims. Each age has certain virtues that are in a measure native to it. Those native to childhood, said the Master, are supreme. By Heaven's measurements he is not "greatest" who can best prove, but he who most readily believes; not he who can systematize a moral theory, but he who is most responsive to moral intuitions; not he who can surmount obstacles, but he who is most sweetly conscious of and glad in his dependence. No age ever needed that lesson more than this; no people more than we Our popular heroes are all of the "strenuous" kind. In finance they are multi-millionaires; in state, imperial councilors, men of blood and iron. Even in religion we have not only abandoned the cloister; we have forsaken the closet. We worship only the big, the powerful, the triumphant. We must have "great" revivals, or give up. That Kingdom of Heaven which cometh not by observation is "too slow" for our day. We must count our members every year; and our faith rises or falls with the figures of the census. But, after all, our own experience only goes to show that Jesus was right, as He always is. The noblest manhood always carries a heart of Christlike church has still something of the early simplicity in its faith and ways; while the divinest soul, the one most fitted for the kingdom of God on earth or in Heaven, believes because it instinct, and loves because it is life to love. It is of such souls-the Kingdom of Heaven is built up; and the best selves is to cherish such a spirit in our hearts.-Chicago Interior.
