Social equality is a subject that has claimed the attention of the American people more or less for many years, and the White House incident of recent date has made the subject a little fresher. Hence our series of articles on the subject which we are running from the Bibeal Recorder.

It will be a patriotic thing to have all the children in the public schools make a penny contribution for a monument to Sir Walter Raleigh to be erected in our capital city. The committee appointed by the State Literary and Historical Association urge that these penny collections commence at once.

While it may be possible and probable that one who says so will be called a "growler," or something like it, this paper is convinced that the tendency to extravagance is becoming characteristic of the age. It only needs very casual observation to reveal the truth that in almost every phase of life extravagance marks the trend of affairs. To point how and where and by whom this tendency should be curbed would be a task all too great for one; and it would have no attractions because it would subject one to the criticism possibly that he was meddling with matters not his own. But we are emboldened by various observations to say that people in almost every walk of life are inclined to extravagance. Our forefathers could have lived on what people of the present throw away or take on as extras.

As the harvesting of the crops advances and the season draws nearer and nearer to a close, it becomes more and more evident that the real farm conditions had not been realized until re cently. From almost every quarter of the State there come new reports of crop failures; and it might as well be settled at once that people will need to practice economy next year, sure enough. Col. F. A. Olds, a general newspaper correspondent in Raleigh, recently sent the following to the Charlotte Observer:

"Ed B. Barbee, a widely-known cotton dealer here, and particularly well issue. informed and observant, said to your correspondent to-day that he was confident the people in this section of North Carolina did not realize the condition in which the partial failure of crops has placed them. He says he will not be at all surprised if by the middle of January an appeal for aid is not made. He does not think the State crop of cotton will much, if any exceed 300,000 bales, and laughs at the long-range prophets who predict 600,000 bales or thereabouts. Two months ago Governor Aycock, as will be recalled, said to the writer that he was sure the people in the rain-devastated part of the cotton belt were not aware of their bad condition. The fact is the crop failure has reached the magnitude of a disaster. Tenant-farmers are in a deplorable condition in perhaps 30 countres."

The Outlook, which is not very friendly to certain election laws passed in the South sums up the new Constitution in Alabama as follows: "1. Disfranchisement for crime or failure to pay a yoluntary poll tax of $1.50 a year eight months before the election. This applies to whites as well as blacks.

"2. Disfranchisement for illiteracy, unless the illiterate has been a soldier or is descended from a soldier, or is thought by the registrars of elections to be of good character and to undertand the duties of citizenship. The enfranchised Illiterate must be enrolled as a voter before 1903. After that date the illiteracy disqualification applies to new voters of both races

"3. But after January 1, 1903, every ma'e of age, white or black, literate or illiterate, may register and vote on his proying ownership, in his or his wife's right, of property of a taxable value of

Some Very High Authority. DUTY OF CHRISTIAN PEOPLE.

The Biblical Recorder ha sent out a letter to a number of prominent men in the South concerning the question of social equality. Below we print the letter and three answers: Dear gir and Bro .- In view of the general recognition on the part of the Christian people of the Christian obligation to treat the colored people kindly and helpfully; and, on the other hand, in view of the profound aversion to social equality, will you endeavor to form a statement for the Biblical Recorder of what you conceive to be the right and reasonable attitude for Uhristian white people toward the members of the colored race?

The question is put to a few of our eading men with a yiew to finding a clear statement of the attitude of the Christian people of the South.

An early answer will greatly oblige me; and I think the symposium will have a good effect in every way.

FROM REV. W. R. L. SMITH, D. D., OF RICHMOND, VA.

Respecting the Negro Problem, which has been so suddenly and unhappily intensified, I have just two things to say : First, Jesus makes our moral and religious duty plain. He is Lord and Master. These people are our brethren, our neighbors, our fellow-sinners. More than half of them constitute a seething mass of ignorance and 1mpurity, at once revolting and dangergerous. This is a bleeding, weltering carcass on the roadside. The good Samaritan act is mandatory. Our Lord will not let us pass by on the other side. We would not; we do not. In the the sin of the world. In the second place, racial boundaries cannot be abolished. Self-evident truths need not be argued. The thing you instinctively feel and see demands no proof. Our dining-room is the test of Interesting Question Regarding social equality, far more than our parlor. Eating together is the highest social act. People who eat together intermarry. Miscegenation attempted in our country means an avalanche of civic and social horrors. Social separation is the condition of the beneficence of Christian people, in the interest of the negro. Nothing will so quickly and disastrously paralyze this sorely needed evangelism as the totally irrelevant and unneeded agitation of this social

FROM PRESIDENT A. P. MONTAGUE, OF FURMAN UNIVERSITY.

The duty of Christian white people of the South towards members of the colored race may, in part, at least, be sumned up thus, as it seems to me:

I. In matters of business to treat them with exact justice, paying them well and regularly for services rendered. The contract system, under which extractions, unfair and unreasonable and in return for the fulfilment of which little or nothing is paid the ignorant colored man, should be prohibited by

II. To promote among them mechanical and industrial training and to encourage the support of schools in which reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic are taught.

III. To evince profound and abidng interest in their spiritual life, and to do this by conferences with their preachers and with worthy laymen; by visiting occasionally their religious services; by urging them to send their young men, who are called to preach. to institutions (like Benedict College at Columbia, S. C.,) in which theology is other than the White for whom coutaught, not politics; and by cooperating with Christians among them in a determined effort to break up gambling and the drink habit.

Finally, we owe it to Christian civilization, to our wives and our children, and to the South of yesterday, of today, and of to-morrow to discourage, quietly but with unbending firmness. the slightest approach to social equality. Such infringement of social regulations and customs, as they are to-day among our people, can come only when virtue shali lie prostrate, when honor shall be but a memory of an elder day, when true Southern chivalry shall

FROM REV. F. C. MCCONNELL, D. D., COR-RESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE HOME MISSION BOARD OF THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST CON-

The Christian people of the South deeply and devoutly desire to do the colored people all the good they can This is one of the most difficult things to do at all: It is very difficult to do all that can be done to instruct and elevate the negro race without seeming to approach social recognition, which is abhorrent to the great body of Southern white people. Most of the best informed white Christians in the South believe in the duty of Christian white people to help the negro to a good, practical education and to in tellectual Christian worship and ser vice, and this they are prosecuting to the very best of their ability under the circumstances. The public free school for negro children grows out of the desire of Christian people to do their race really good, and all of the Christian white people are agreed in furnishing this opportunity to the negroes but most of them are in doubt about the utility of the so-called "higher education" in anything like an extended degree. It is a recognized fact among all nations that education should not precede or rather exceed the development of moral character, and national moral character is growth, and not the subject of manufacture. Possibly when time enough has elapsed for the growth of moral character in the negro race in this country, the Southern white Christians will be as ready to assist in affording them higher education as they now are to give them the benefits of primary and industrial training.

The pegro himself does not expect social recognition, and is injured every Spirit of Christ, we want to help our time an attempt is made to afford it to fallen brother rise. In Christian love him. Monument Erected by Sally Ann White to one Who "Came Back."

New Berne Journal.

The pension lists of a grateful Reheld in this city.

Sally Ann White, of the colored race, had a husband who went to be a soldler some thirty odd years ago. Presumably he fought somewhere or other and supposedly be died in the act. At any rate by the year 1894 Sally Ann White put in a claim for a pension as a "widder lady." The pension was allowed and as there was a big accumulation of back pay Sally Ann received a spot cash sum of $2,000. This was big money to her. Such a sum could not be spent in a life time and in order to live up to such an income, for there was a monthly pension also, Sally Ann proceeded to indulge. Such little items as Huyler's candy, at 80 cents a pound were not uncommon to the widow. More enduring things house and a store on Pasteur street became her property. Prosperity was no delusive shadow to Sally Ann White.

The year 1901 was a poor one for pension drawers who could not read their title clear. It was unfortunate but it was a fact that one White, a colored volunteer, applied for a pension from Uncle Sam and a watchful goyernment discovered that he was none solation in monthly installments was slready being turnished to a sadly bereft widow. White turned up only recently and the case came up at the last court, Judge Purnell appointed a receiver and the receiver has taken charge of the little house and store on Fasteur street, along with whatever were seizable.

All of the pension money did not go into houses and lots and Huyler's candy. A neat little sum went into a marble monument at the cemetery, to cover the mortal remains of a mourned but consolated victim of war.
